

PROLOGUE

I am a botanist and a zoologist. I came to this complex of mazes to catalog flora and fauna. What follows is the journal of my travails.

CHAPTER ONE

I traipsed left. Then I strutted down. Then I hiked left. Again I trekked left. Then I strode up. Again I hiked up. Then I strode left. Then I strode up. Again I ambled up. Again I plodded up. Then I ambled right. Then I sauntered up. Then I traipsed right. Then I plodded down. Again I shuffled down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I shambled down. Again I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. Then I plodded up. Again I marched up. Again I marched up. Again I beat cheeks up. Again I shuffled up. Again I sauntered up. Then I shambled left. Then I marched up. Then I trudged right. Again I traipsed right. Then I trudged down. Again I traipsed down. Again I sprinted down. Then I trekked right. A scary shade appeared from the south! It came right through the wall! It looked a little like Richard Nixon. Then I traipsed down. Then I ran left. Then I plodded down. Then I plodded right. Again I beat cheeks right. Again I stepped right. Then I meandered up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I hiked right. Again I traipsed right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I hoofed it left. Again I went left. Then I hiked up. Then I marched right. Then I trudged up. Again I shuffled up. There was a beautiful cornflower lavender there. It smelled like bananas. I picked it.

I ambled up. Again I ambled up. Then I went left. Then I walked up. Then I shambled right. Then I strutted up. Then I stepped right. Again I walked right. Again I hiked right. Then I walked down. Then I shuffled right. Again I traipsed right. Then I sauntered down. Then I hoofed it left. There was a cougar there. I named it Isaiah.

I hoofed it left. Again I plodded left. Then I hiked up. Then I toddled left. Then I shambled down. Again I ambled down. There was a beautiful violet red mimosa there. It smelled like avocados.

I hoofed it down. Again I shuffled down. Then I plodded right. Then I walked up. Then I trudged right. Again I marched right. Again I traipsed right. Then I trekked up. Then I shuffled right. Then I paraded up. Then I trudged right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I plodded up. Again I trudged up. There was a beautiful mahogany sage there. It smelled like pineapples.

I stepped up. Then I shuffled left. Then I shambled down. Then I walked left. Then I went up. Then I hoofed it left. Again I toddled left. Then I stepped down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I paraded left. Then I marched down. Then I sauntered left. Again I sauntered left. Then I trudged up. Again I trekked up. Then I trekked right. Again I sprinted right. Then I sauntered up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I paraded down. Then I meandered right. Again I trudged right. Again I ran right. Then I strode up. Then I meandered left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered right. Then I hiked down. Then I stepped right. Then I paraded down. Then I went left. Again I hiked left. Again I strutted left. There was a beautiful apricot foxglove there. It smelled like cranberries.

I hoofed it left. There was a beautiful banana mania iri there. It smelled like avocados.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Then I trekked up. Again I hiked up. Then I sauntered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. Then I toddled down. Then I trekked right. Then I plodded up. Then I sprinted right. Again I hoofed it right. Again I went right. There was a beautiful beaver forget me not there. It smelled like kumquats.

I stepped right. Then I went down. There was an antelope there. I named it Michael.

I beat cheeks down. Then I ambled left. Then I plodded down. Then I ran right. Then I stepped down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I walked down. There was a beautiful brown bird of paradise there. It smelled like oranges.

I toddled left. Then I shambled down. Then I shambled right. Then I shuffled down. There was a beautiful screamin' green orange blossom there. It smelled like honeydews.

I trekked left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I went right. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I sauntered down. Again I sauntered down. Then I strode left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I plodded left. Then I trudged down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I strode up. There was a horse there. I named it Jocelyn.

I sprinted left. Again I shambled left. Then I traipsed up. Then I marched right. Again I meandered right. Then I sauntered up. Then I trudged right. Then I sprinted up. Then I strode left. Then I traipsed up. Then I stepped right. Then I marched up. Then I hoofed it left. There was a beautiful blue green peach blossom there. It smelled like bananas. For some reason I ate it. It tasted terrible.

I marched up. Again I ran up. Then I hiked left. Again I toddled left. Then I sauntered up. Then I trudged left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I strode down. Then I went right. Then I shuffled down. Again I marched down. Then I traipsed left. Again I paraded left. Then I strode down. Then I meandered right. Then I trekked down. Then I trudged right. Then I walked up. There was a shrew there. I named it Patrick.

I toddled right. Then I shuffled down. There was a skunk there. I named it Hector.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered up. Again I sprinted up. There was a woodchuck there. I named it Garrett.

I strode up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched down. Then I paraded left. There was a beautiful vivid violet marigold there. It smelled like persimmons.

I meandered left. Then I sauntered up. Then I hiked right. There was a beautiful green yellow thistle there. It smelled like blackberries.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it up. Then I marched left. Then I toddled down. Then I strutted left. Again I trekked left. Again I meandered left. Then I trudged down. There was a beautiful jazzberry jam sunflower there. It smelled like huckleberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted like chicken.

I shuffled down. Again I toddled down. Then I strode right. Again I strode right. Then I traipsed down. Then I traipsed right. Then I ambled up. Again I strutted up. Then I ran left. Then I strutted up. Then I plodded left. Then I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Again I paraded right. Again I paraded right. Then I meandered down. Then I went left. Again I shambled left. Then I shambled down. Again I trudged down. Then I shambled right. Then I traipsed up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I sauntered right. Then I sprinted up. There was a beautiful copper clover there. It smelled like plums.

I went up. Then I trudged right. Then I plodded down. Again I stepped down. Then I trekked right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I trekked down. There was a beautiful wild strawberry forget me not there. It smelled like apples. For some reason I ate it. It tasted good.

I shuffled left. Then I strutted down. Then I trudged left. Then I plodded up. Then I plodded left. There was a beautiful razzmatazz carnation there. It smelled like blackberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I traipsed left. Again I toddled left. Again I beat cheeks left. Again I walked left. Then I stepped up. Then I strutted left. Then I shuffled down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I ambled right. Again I marched right. Then I shuffled down. Again I sauntered down. There was a reindeer there. I named it Brooke.

I sprinted down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I trudged left. Then I trudged down. Then I ambled left. Again I sauntered left. Then I sprinted up. Then I hiked left. Then I hiked up. Again I trekked up. Again I hoofed it up. Again I shambled up. Then I strode right. Then I toddled up. Again I meandered up. Then I went left. Then I trekked down. Then I ambled left. Again I toddled left. Then I trekked up. Then I ambled right. Then I trudged up. Again I hoofed it up. Again I paraded up. Again I ran up. Then I hiked left. There was a dingo there. I named it Breanna.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. Again I strode right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Again I toddled left. Again I ambled left. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I hiked down. Again I strode down. Then I trudged left. Then I beat cheeks up. There was a bison there. I named it Edward.

I paraded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded down. Then I toddled right. Again I strutted right. Then I paraded up. Then I hiked right. There was a beautiful blush amaranth there. It smelled like dragonfruits. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I ambled down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I trekked down. Again I traipsed down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I plodded right. Then I walked down. Then I paraded right. There was a pig there. I named it Aiden.

I trudged right. Again I meandered right. Again I meandered right. Then I traipsed up. Then I plodded right. Then I ran down. Then I toddled right. Then I trekked up. Again I shuffled up. Then I ambled right. Again I sauntered right. Then I traipsed up. Then I sprinted left. There was a beautiful magenta daisy there. It smelled like cantaloupes.

I strutted left. Then I strutted up. Then I paraded right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I stepped right. Again I shambled right. There was a panda there. I named it Damian.

I marched down. Then I hiked right. Then I shambled up. Again I walked up. There was a beautiful sky blue gladiolu there. It smelled like avocados.

I strutted right. Then I ambled up. Then I shuffled right. Then I strode up. Then I strode left. Then I sauntered up. Then I walked left. Again I ran left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I shambled left. Then I plodded down. Again I toddled down. Then I meandered right. Then I strode down. Then I stepped left. Again I marched left. Then I shuffled up. Then I shuffled left. Then I strutted down. There was a weasel there. I named it Landon.

I trekked down. Again I went down. Again I ambled down. Then I toddled right. Then I trudged up. Again I sauntered up. Then I paraded right. Then I went down. Then I shambled right. Then I hiked down. Then I shambled left. There was a beautiful apricot amarylli there. It smelled like apples.

I marched down. Then I shuffled left. There was a beautiful raw sienna water lily there. It smelled like strawberries.

I traipsed left. Again I paraded left. Again I paraded left. There was a beautiful shamrock hyacinth there. It smelled like loquats.

I shambled up. Then I ran right. Then I walked up. Again I shambled up. Then I trudged left. Then I ran down. There was a beautiful asparagus thyme there. It smelled like watermelons.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Again I paraded left. Then I marched down. Then I went right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Again I sauntered left. Again I toddled left. Again I meandered left. Again I walked left. Again I toddled left. Again I beat cheeks left. Again I toddled left. Then I hiked up. Then I strode right. There was a bear there. I named it Liliana.

I ran up. Then I hiked left. There was a beautiful orange freesium there. It smelled like boysenberries.

I plodded up. Again I shuffled up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I sprinted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped left. There was a beautiful robin's egg blue columbine there. It smelled like salal berries.

I shuffled down. Again I traipsed down. Then I hiked left. Then I trudged down. Again I paraded down. Then I strutted right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Again I meandered left. Then I meandered up. Then I marched right. There was a beautiful orange tansy there. It smelled like pears.

I plodded up. Then I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled left. There was a bull there. I named it Sofia.

I meandered left. There was a beautiful red violet amaranth there. It smelled like rambutans.

I toddled left. Then I marched up. Then I traipsed left. Again I stepped left. Then I plodded up. Then I toddled right. Then I went up. Then I shambled left. Then I trekked up. Again I walked up. Again I plodded up. Again I beat cheeks up. Again I toddled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted down. Then I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. There was a beautiful magenta carnation there. It smelled like dates.

I went down. Then I sauntered right. Again I marched right. Again I paraded right. Again I beat cheeks right. Again I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Again I meandered left. Then I strutted up. Then I plodded right. Again I sprinted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran down. Again I traipsed down. Again I meandered down. There was a deer there. I named it Jasmin.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Then I went up. Again I paraded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Again I stepped down. Then I strode right. Then I traipsed down. There was a beautiful pink flamingo daisy there. It smelled like cantaloupes.

I beat cheeks down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled right. Then I strutted up. Again I plodded up. Then I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched right. Again I hoofed it right. Again I ran right. Then I went up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I strutted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded left. Then I stepped down. There was a cow there. I named it Jackson.

I plodded left. Again I stepped left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Again I went down. Then I stepped right. Then I plodded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled down. Then I trudged right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted left. Again I ambled left. Again I ambled left. There was a finch there. I named it Anna.

I marched down. Then I trekked left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I plodded left. Then I marched down. Again I toddled down. Then I shuffled left. Then I sprinted down. Then I shambled left. Then I sauntered down. Again I meandered down. Again I marched down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I trudged up. There was a beautiful tumbleweed marigold there. It smelled like pineapples.

I sprinted up. Then I stepped right. Then I strode down. Again I traipsed down. Then I sauntered right. Then I paraded down. Again I paraded down. Again I walked down. Again I hiked down. Then I trekked left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I ambled right. There was a beautiful outer space gerbera daisy there. It smelled like apricots.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran up. Again I toddled up. Then I hoofed it left. There was an armadillo there. I named it Carlos.

I strode up. There was a beautiful wild watermelon water lily there. It smelled like strawberries.

I beat cheeks left. There was a beautiful vivid violet lily there. It smelled like avocados.

I plodded left. Again I trudged left. There was a mole there. I named it Peyton.

I traipsed up. Then I paraded left. Then I sprinted up. Then I went right. Then I meandered up. There was a cheetah there. I named it Jennifer.

I ran up. Then I plodded left. Then I plodded up. Then I traipsed left. Then I paraded up. Again I meandered up. Then I strutted right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I marched right. Again I ambled right. Then I sauntered down. Again I ambled down. There was a beautiful vivid tangerine forget me not there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I trekked down. Again I strutted down. Again I sprinted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked right. Then I went up. Then I toddled right. Then I toddled up. Then I sprinted left. Again I sprinted left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked down. There was an antelope there. I named it Addison.

I toddled down. Then I went right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went down. Again I trekked down. Again I meandered down. There was a llama there. I named it Cameron.

I trekked right. Then I trekked down. Again I strode down. Again I sauntered down. Then I sprinted left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded up. Again I paraded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled down. Again I plodded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I strutted up. Again I meandered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded up. Again I beat cheeks up. Again I paraded up. Then I sauntered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked right. Then I strode down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Then I walked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled down. Then I strode right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed left. Again I walked left. Again I trekked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged left. Then I shuffled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I went up. Again I hiked up. Then I sauntered right. Again I meandered right. Then I traipsed down. There was a hyena there. I named it Alicia.

I shuffled down. Then I toddled left. Then I marched down. There was a giraffe there. I named it Vanessa.

I ran left. Then I sauntered down. Then I hoofed it left. Again I shuffled left. Again I meandered left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I toddled down. Again I shuffled down. Again I went down. Then I strode right. Then I plodded down. Then I toddled right. Then I shuffled up. Again I toddled up. Then I ran left. Then I sauntered up. Again I went up. Then I strutted right. Then I marched down. Then I walked right. Then I meandered down. Then I plodded right. Then I shuffled up. Then I meandered right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I plodded left. Then I paraded up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I ambled right. Then I strutted down. Then I sprinted right. Then I walked down. Then I shambled right. There was a fox there. I named it Maxwell.

I plodded right. Then I traipsed down a flight of stairs. So far I held one flower. It seemed like I had explored about ninety-nine percent of this floor.

CHAPTER TWO

I paraded east. Then I strutted south. There was a beautiful blush orange blossom there. It smelled like pears.

I walked west. Then I trekked south. Then I trudged east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Then I hiked north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded north. Again I toddled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went west. Again I walked west. Again I traipsed west. Again I shambled west. Then I shambled north. There was a beautiful macaroni and cheese aster there. It smelled like papayas.

I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. The phantasm appeared again from the west. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like Gerald Ford. Then I strode south. Then I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Again I sprinted west. Then I ambled south. Again I walked south. Then I strutted west. Again I trudged west. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I hiked south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I went east. Again I sauntered east. Again I stepped east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Then I trudged south. Then I toddled east. Again I trekked east. Then I plodded north. Then I hiked east. Then I toddled south. Again I hiked south. Then I went east. Then I toddled north. Again I plodded north. There was a skunk there. I named it Laura.

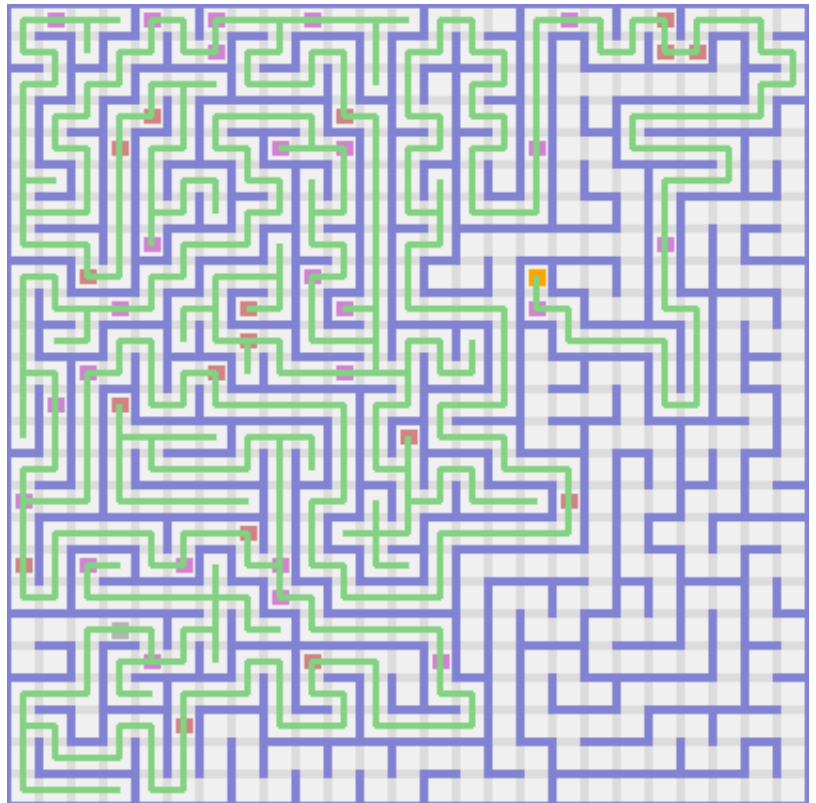

I traipsed north. Then I shuffled east. Again I ran east. Then I strode north. Then I paraded east. Then I sprinted south. Again I hiked south. Then I paraded east. Again I meandered east. Then I shambled north. Then I paraded west. Then I sprinted north. There was a monkey there. I named it Trinity. It started following me.

I paraded east. Again I plodded east. Then I trekked south. Again I strode south. Then I toddled east. Again I sauntered east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I trudged north. Then I ran west. Then I strutted north. There was a beautiful cerulean bottlebrush there. It smelled like canary melons.

I trekked north. Then I shuffled west. Again I ran west. Again I strutted west. Again I plodded west. Then I strode north. Then I plodded west. There was a beautiful timberwolf bird of paradise there. It smelled like damsons.

I shuffled north. There was a beautiful burnt sienna bluebell there. It smelled like persimmons.

I sprinted north. Again I ambled north. Again I ran north. Again I walked north. Then I strutted west. Then I sprinted south. Then I marched west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I shambled west. Then I shuffled north. Then I ran east. Again I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled west. Then I meandered south. Again I ran south. Then I walked east. Again I walked east. Again I strode east. Again I strutted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped north. There was a mink there. I named it George.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode east. Then I trudged south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled west. Then I marched north. There was a moose there. I named it Lauren. It started following me.

I sauntered west. Again I sprinted west. Then I paraded south. There was a beautiful brick red lily there. It smelled like jambuls.

I meandered west. Then I stepped north. Then I trudged west. Again I went west. Again I stepped west. Then I strutted south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I ran north. There was a rabbit there. I named it Charles.

I plodded north. Again I shuffled north. There was a beautiful granny smith apple lilac there. It smelled like grapes.

I paraded north. Then I sauntered east. Then I meandered north. Again I shuffled north. There was a beautiful tumbleweed begonium there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I traipsed north. Then I toddled west. Then I walked north. Again I marched north. Again I traipsed north. Then I trekked east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I toddled east. Then I toddled south. Then I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. There was a beautiful cotton candy marjoram there. It smelled like grapes.

I sprinted east. Then I sauntered north. Then I meandered east. Then I walked north. Then I plodded east. Again I sprinted east. Then I stepped north. Then I hiked east. Then I ambled north. Then I trudged west. Then I meandered north. Then I shambled west. Then I toddled north. Then I sprinted east. Again I meandered east. Again I marched east. Then I went south. Then I plodded east. There was a beautiful hot magenta bird of paradise there. It smelled like cranberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted like chicken.

I sprinted south. Again I went south. Then I marched west. Then I walked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode south. Then I sprinted east. Then I sauntered south. Then I sauntered west. There was a beautiful blue green dahlum there. It smelled like salal berries.

I ran south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I went east. Again I sprinted east. Then I ambled north. Again I sprinted north. Again I shuffled north. Again I trekked north. Again I toddled north. Again I strutted north. Again I trekked north. Then I ran west. There was an iguana there. I named it Mary.

I hoofed it north. Again I ran north. Then I strutted west. Then I hiked south. Then I toddled west. Again I plodded west. Then I sprinted north. Then I toddled east. Then I sauntered north. Then I sauntered west. Again I strode west. There was a beautiful wisteria lavender there. It smelled like kumquats. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shuffled south. There was a beautiful fuchsia water lily there. It smelled like mandarines.

I hiked west.

Trinity asked Lauren, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a moose."

I hoofed it north. Then I hoofed it west. There was a beautiful midnight blue violet there. It smelled like persimmons.

I sauntered south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I toddled south. Then I traipsed west. Then I hiked south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I plodded south. Then I marched east. Then I paraded south. Again I traipsed south. Then I ran west. Again I strutted west. Then I ambled north. Then I paraded east.

Lauren asked Trinity, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a monkey and I'm funny. I have a nose and I can throw thing, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Lauren.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Again I walked north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I trudged east. Then I trudged north. Then I shuffled west. Then I hiked north. Then I plodded east. There was a beautiful melon columbine there. It smelled like cucumbers.

I hiked east. Again I ran east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Then I ambled east. Again I sauntered east. Then I trudged south. There was a lemur there. I named it Samuel.

I paraded east. Then I shambled north. Again I marched north. Again I strode north. Again I hiked north. There was a camel there. I named it Kaden. It started following me.

I sauntered north. Then I toddled east. There was a canary there. I named it Angelica.

I beat cheeks north. Then I ran east. Again I ran east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran south. Again I trudged south. Then I paraded west. Then I strode south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I strode east. Then I hiked north. Then I meandered east. Then I traipsed south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. There was a beautiful orange clover there. It smelled like oranges. For some reason I ate it. It tasted good.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped east. There was a beautiful yellow green forget me not there. It smelled like strawberries.

I ran east. Again I shambled east. Then I shuffled south. Again I shambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran west. There was a beautiful sea green sunflower there. It smelled like canary melons.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked south. Then I walked west. There was a beautiful raw sienna petunium there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I meandered west. Again I toddled west. Then I went north. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Brendan.

I strutted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted west. Then I ambled north. Again I strode north. Then I sauntered east. Again I meandered east. Then I trudged north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled south. Then I traipsed west. There was an ocelot there. I named it Collin.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. Then I trekked north. Then I ambled east. Then I sprinted south. Then I trekked east. Then I plodded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. Then I paraded west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I stepped south. Then I hiked east. Then I shuffled south. Again I toddled south. Then I meandered west. Then I traipsed south. Then I sauntered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked east. Then I strutted north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I marched south. Then I hoofed it east. Again I paraded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered north. There was a reptile there. I named it Alexis.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged west. There was a beautiful plum sage there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Again I paraded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Again I ran east. Then I traipsed north. Again I sprinted north. Again I meandered north. Again I sauntered north. There was a beautiful apricot dahlia there. It smelled like tangerines.

I toddled east. Then I sauntered north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I shambled south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I strode east. Then I plodded north. Then I went east. There was a leopard there. I named it Megan. It started following me.

I trekked south. Then I marched east. Again I traipsed east. Again I went east. Again I strode east. Then I ran south. Again I meandered south. Again I traipsed south. Then I paraded west. Then I traipsed south. Again I traipsed south. Then I paraded east. Then I hiked south. Then I shambled east. Again I trekked east. Again I trekked east. Then I marched north. Again I hiked north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I ambled east. Again I trudged east. Again I hiked east. Then I went north. There was a ferret there. I named it Kelly.

I sprinted north. Then I ambled west. Again I sauntered west. Then I traipsed north. Then I hoofed it west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I stepped north. Then I toddled east. Again I traipsed east. Then I ran north. Again I trudged north. Again I ambled north. Then I trudged west. Again I shambled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I trudged north.

Trinity asked Kaden, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a camel."

I walked north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I hiked north. Again I strutted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I sauntered north. Again I ambled north. Then I sauntered east. Then I sauntered north. Then I ran west. Then I sauntered north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I went east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I shuffled east. Then I plodded south.

Kaden asked Megan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

I trudged east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I walked west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I plodded east. Then I sprinted south. Then I toddled west. Then I went south. Again I trudged south. Then I walked east. Again I shuffled east. Then I marched north. Again I sprinted north. There was a beautiful laser lemon rhododendron there. It smelled like apricots.

I traipsed north. Again I walked north. Again I went north. Again I marched north. Then I strutted east. There was a beautiful shamrock peony there. It smelled like oranges. For some reason I ate it. It tasted okay.

I walked east. Then I ambled south. Then I shuffled east. Then I trudged north. Then I stepped east. There was a woodchuck there. I named it Sarah.

I stepped south. There was a turtle there. I named it Lindsey.

I marched east. There was an aardvark there. I named it Ana.

I ambled north. Then I strode east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hiked south. Then I trekked east. Then I shuffled south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I shuffled south. Then I strode west. Again I strode west. Again I paraded west. Again I toddled west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I ran east. Again I toddled east. Again I hiked east. Then I hiked south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I plodded west. Then I strode south. Again I trekked south. There was a beautiful antique brass mimosa there. It smelled like peaches. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I sprinted south. Again I hiked south. Then I traipsed east. Then I paraded south. Again I walked south. Again I trekked south. Then I trudged west. Then I went north. Again I strode north. Then I traipsed west. Again I marched west. Again I went west. Then I paraded north. Then I trudged west. There was a beautiful cornflower primrose there. It smelled like rambutans.

Then I beat cheeks down a flight of stairs. So far four animals were following me, and I held three flowers. It seemed like I had explored about sixty-five percent of this floor.

CHAPTER THREE

I strutted up. Then I hiked left. There was a beautiful chestnut crocu there. It smelled like satsumas.

I traipsed up. Then I stepped right.

Trinity asked Megan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

I trekked up. Again I stepped up. There was a beautiful asparagus bellflower there. It smelled like jujubes.

I paraded left. Then I ambled up. Again I sauntered up. Then I ran right. Again I meandered right. Again I meandered right. Again I sprinted right. Again I ran right. There was a baboon there. I named it Jake.

I shuffled down. The wraith appeared again from the east. This time it looked like Richard Nixon. Then I sauntered left. Then I traipsed down. Then I trekked left. Then I marched up. Then I strutted left. Then I strutted down. There was a beautiful pink sherbert bottlebrush there. It smelled like mangoes. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I walked down. There was a beautiful razzmatazz bergamot there. It smelled like cloudberryes.

I trekked right. Then I strode down. Then I plodded left. There was a jaguar there. I named it Kayla.

I ambled down. Again I stepped down. Again I hiked down. Then I traipsed left. There was a beautiful wild watermelon babys breath there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I went left. Then I stepped down. Again I sprinted down. Then I shuffled right. Then I ran down. Then I sprinted right. Again I trekked right. Then I plodded down. Again I ran down. There was a beautiful hot magenta gladiolu there. It smelled like tangerines.

I paraded right. Then I paraded down. Then I marched right. Again I paraded right. Then I sprinted up. Again I strode up. Again I stepped up. Again I meandered up. Again I marched up.

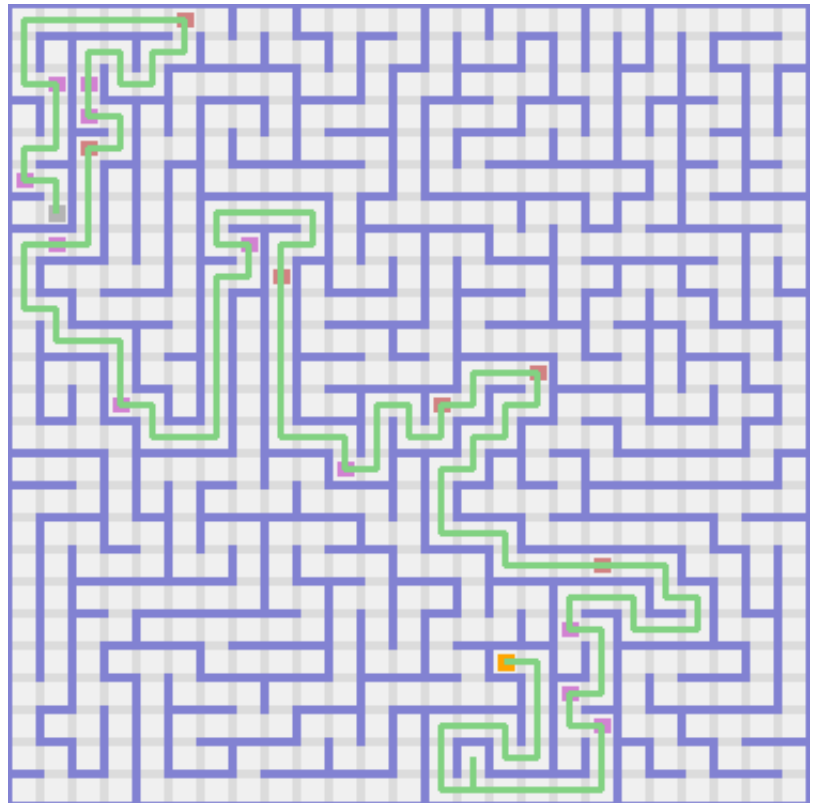

Lauren asked Megan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

I hiked right. Then I trekked up. There was a beautiful blue green sunflower there. It smelled like peaches.

I ran left. Then I plodded up. Then I plodded right. Again I stepped right. Again I paraded right. Then I ambled down. Then I shambled left. Then I hiked down. There was a hamster there. I named it Jacqueline.

I hiked down. Again I ran down. Again I shambled down. Again I sauntered down. Again I hiked down. Then I traipsed right. Again I ran right. Then I sauntered down. There was a beautiful peach peach blossom there. It smelled like oranges.

I shuffled right. Then I strutted up. Again I plodded up. Then I toddled right. Then I went down. Then I plodded right. Then I traipsed up. There was a panther there. I named it Peter.

I meandered right. Then I toddled up. Then I strode right. Again I traipsed right. There was a polar bear there. I named it Autumn.

I strutted down. Then I went left. Then I hiked down. Then I sprinted left. Then I shuffled down. Then I walked left. Then I strutted down. Again I paraded down. Then I ambled right. Again I walked right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I marched right. Again I trekked right. Again I walked right. There was a zebra there. I named it Paul.

I hoofed it right. Again I trekked right. Then I marched down. Then I stepped right. Then I meandered down. Then I ran left. Again I sauntered left. Then I strode up. Then I toddled left. Again I sprinted left. Then I paraded down. There was a beautiful vivid violet petunium there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I hiked right. Then I strode down. Again I ambled down. Then I sauntered left. There was a beautiful eggplant camellia there. It smelled like lychees.

I strutted down. Then I stepped right. There was a beautiful yellow orange bird of paradise there. It smelled like kumquats.

I strutted down. Again I stepped down. Then I hoofed it left. Again I meandered left. Again I hiked left. Again I strode left. Then I trekked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered left. Then I shuffled up. Again I trudged up. Then I toddled right. Again I meandered right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I strutted right. Then I traipsed up. Again I hiked up. Again I shambled up. Then I sauntered down a flight of stairs. So far four animals were following me, and I held three flowers. It seemed like I had explored about twenty percent of this floor.

CHAPTER FOUR

I walked south. Then I ran east. There was a beautiful chestnut anemone there. It smelled like feijoas.

I trekked north. There was a reindeer there. I named it Veronica.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped north. Then I toddled west. Then I plodded south. Then I stepped west. Then I strutted north. Again I strutted north. Again I plodded north. Again I went north. Then I shambled west. Again I shambled west. Then I meandered south. Then I trudged east. Then I walked south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I trekked south. Then I strutted west. Again I stepped west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. Then I trekked west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I trekked west. There was an ocelot there. I named it Sadie.

I strutted south. Then I trekked west. Again I stepped west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. Then I trudged west. Again I trekked west. Then I ambled north. Again I plodded north. Then I marched east. The apparition appeared again from the south. This time it looked like Lyndon Johnson. Then I sprinted north. Then I trekked west. Then I went north. Then I ambled west. There was a beautiful burnt orange edelweis there. It smelled like limes.

I shuffled south. There was a tiger there. I named it Caitlyn. It started following me.

I paraded south. Again I plodded south. Again I went south. Then I trudged west. Then I ambled north. Then I paraded west. Again I shambled west. Then I plodded north. Then I sprinted west. Then I stepped south. Then I sprinted west. Then I sprinted north. Then I ran west. Again I hiked west. Then I went north. Then I trudged east. There was a beautiful burnt sienna bluebell there. It smelled like mangoes.

I went east. Then I shuffled north. Again I marched north. Again I walked north. Then I trudged east. Then I ambled south. There was a dromedary there. I named it Gabrielle.

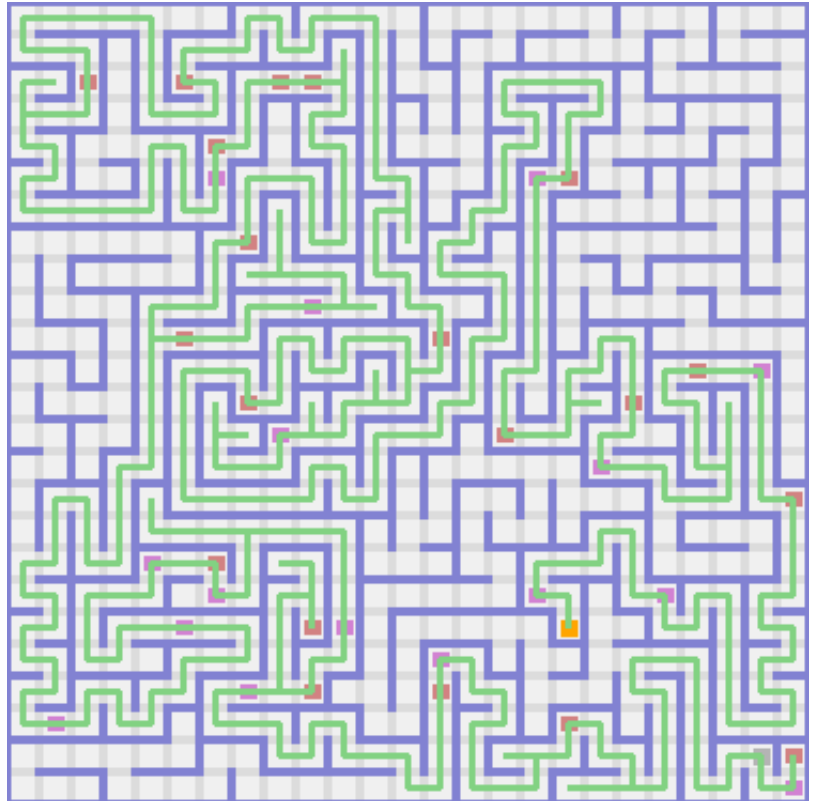

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted north. Then I marched west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. There was a lynx there. I named it Kylie. It started following me.

I ran north. Then I went east. Then I paraded north. There was a beautiful turquoise blue bluebell there. It smelled like nuts.

I went north. Again I sprinted north. Again I traipsed north. Then I went west. Again I sauntered west. Again I marched west. Again I went west. Again I strode west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked south. Again I strutted south. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a beautiful shadow violet there. It smelled like cranberries.

I toddled north. There was a gazelle there. I named it Hunter.

I sauntered west. Again I ran west. There was a beautiful pink sherbert babys breath there. It smelled like currants.

I plodded south. Then I sauntered west. Again I hiked west. Then I marched south. Again I sauntered south. Then I traipsed east. Then I hiked north. Then I strode east. Again I strode east. There was a beautiful pink sherbert iri there. It smelled like lychees.

I went east. Again I marched east. Then I shambled south. Then I marched west. Again I walked west. Then I marched south. Then I ambled west. Then I trekked south. Then I strode west. Then I trudged north. Then I sauntered west. Then I shambled south. Then I traipsed west. There was a beautiful royal purple delphinium there. It smelled like cucumbers.

I strode west. Then I trudged north. Then I marched east. Then I shuffled north. Then I meandered west. Then I toddled north. Then I plodded east. Then I hiked north. Then I shuffled west. Then I went north. Then I stepped east. Then I meandered north. Again I went north. Then I shuffled east. Then I stepped south. Again I shambled south. Then I marched east. Then I stepped north. Again I traipsed north. Again I stepped north. Then I stepped east. Then I sprinted north. Again I trekked north. Again I traipsed north. Again I trekked north. Then I strode east. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Jonah.

I toddled east. Again I hiked east. Then I strode north. Then I stepped east. Again I trudged east. There was a beautiful chestnut begonium there. It smelled like mulberries.

I marched east. Then I meandered north. Then I sauntered west. Again I traipsed west. Again I strode west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked north. Again I sprinted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched north. Then I strutted east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I sauntered north. Again I shambled north. Then I strode east. There was a tapir there. I named it Jeremy.

I hiked north. Again I hiked north. Then I traipsed east. Again I marched east. Then I sauntered south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I trudged east. Then I traipsed north. Again I ran north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I toddled west. Then I traipsed north. Then I meandered east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled west. There was a buffalo there. I named it Angel.

I ambled west. There was a muskrat there. I named it Bailey.

I strode west. Then I meandered south. Again I sauntered south. Then I meandered west. There was a cow there. I named it Joel.

I ran south. There was a beautiful mahogany amaranth there. It smelled like figs.

I toddled south. Then I went west. Then I sauntered north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I sauntered west. Then I went south. Again I shambled south. Then I toddled west. Again I shambled west. Again I hiked west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I meandered north. Then I ran east. Then I shuffled north. Then I marched west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I meandered north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Again I sauntered east. Then I ambled north. There was a salamander there. I named it Bradley.

I sprinted north. Then I hoofed it west. Again I walked west. Then I sprinted north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I meandered east. Again I shambled east. Again I paraded east. Then I strutted south. Again I hiked south. Again I toddled south. Then I trudged east. Again I shuffled east. Then I stepped north. Then I strode west. There was a salamander there. I named it Kylie.

I shambled north. Then I walked east. Again I paraded east. Then I strutted north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I shambled south. Then I sprinted east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I shambled east. Again I strutted east. Then I trudged south. Again I traipsed south. Again I went south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I shuffled south. Then I trekked east. Then I sauntered south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted west. Then I ambled south. Again I went south. Then I shambled east. Then I went south. Then I sauntered east. Then I meandered south. There was a ewe there. I named it Colton.

I beat cheeks south. Then I hiked west. Then I trudged south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I trudged west. Then I ran south.

Kylie asked Lauren, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a moose."

I went west. Then I sprinted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled west. There was a beautiful midnight blue water lily there. It smelled like pineapples.

I went south. Then I strode west. Again I marched west. Then I trudged north. Again I sauntered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks north. Then I marched west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I strode south. Then I hiked west. Then I trudged north. Then I trudged west.

Megan asked Caitlyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a tiger. I can drink water, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Megan.

I stepped south. Again I went south. Then I strutted west. There was a gopher there. I named it Paige.

I stepped north. Then I paraded west. Again I meandered west. Then I paraded south. Again I meandered south. Again I stepped south. Again I sauntered south. Then I ran east. Again I toddled east. Again I marched east. Again I paraded east. Then I went north. Then I trekked east. Then I traipsed south. Then I marched east. Then I ambled north. Again I walked north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I shambled east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I sauntered east. Then I went north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I hiked east. Then I strutted north. Again I strutted north. Then I walked west. Again I sprinted west. Then I sprinted north. Then I hiked east. Then I meandered north. Then I plodded east. Then I hiked north. Again I marched north. Then I traipsed east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I sauntered west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I sauntered east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I toddled east. Then I marched south. Then I went west. Then I traipsed south. Again I beat cheeks south. There was an ox there. I named it Julian.

I traipsed west. There was a beautiful royal purple snapdragon there. It smelled like blueberries.

I trekked south. Again I marched south. Again I walked south. Again I strutted south. Again I paraded south. Again I ran south. Then I trudged west. Then I ambled south. Again I sprinted south. There was a lemur there. I named it Leonardo.

I plodded east. Again I went east. Then I walked north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Then I sprinted east. Then I strode north. Then I shambled east. Then I strutted south. Again I shambled south. There was a puma there. I named it Ryan. It started following me.

I marched south. Then I traipsed west. Then I shuffled south. There was a beautiful tumbleweed narcissu there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I strode east. Again I traipsed east. Then I went south. Then I trudged east. Again I walked east. Then I marched north. Again I stepped north. Again I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran west. Then I stepped north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I strutted west. Then I toddled north. Then I shambled east. There was a baboon there. I named it Evan.

I sauntered east. Again I trekked east. There was a beautiful lavender ladys slipper there. It smelled like bell peppers. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I walked south. Again I marched south. Again I strode south. Again I trudged south. Then I plodded east. There was a mountain goat there. I named it Peyton.

I hoofed it south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I stepped south. Then I trekked west. Then I ran south. Then I went east. Then I marched south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I paraded south. Then I meandered east. Then I traipsed south. Then I ambled west. Again I hiked west. Then I paraded north. Again I plodded north. Again I plodded north. Again I strode north. Then I hoofed it west. Then I went south. Then I ambled west. Then I sauntered north. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose iri there. It smelled like figs.

I strode west. Then I stepped north. Again I shambled north. Then I ran west. Then I shuffled south. Then I shambled west. Again I toddled west.

Trinity asked Lauren, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a moose."

I toddled south. There was a beautiful mahogany iri there. It smelled like currants. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I strode east. Then I sprinted down a flight of stairs. So far seven animals were following me, and I held five flowers. It seemed like I had explored about sixty percent of this floor.

CHAPTER FIVE

I shuffled west. Again I paraded west. Again I went west. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I ambled south. There was a bull there. I named it Isabella.

I beat cheeks south. There was a koala there. I named it Ayden.

I hoofed it east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted east. There was a parakeet there. I named it Lydia.

I trudged south. Then I meandered east. Then I traipsed north. Then I strode east. Again I plodded east. Then I toddled south. Then I walked west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I hiked west. Then I traipsed south. Again I walked south. Then I stepped east. Again I trekked east. Again I paraded east. Again I shambled east. Then I shambled south. Then I went east. Again I ambled east. Then I shambled south. Again I marched south. Then I hiked west. Again I strode west. Again I traipsed west. Again I paraded west. Then I traipsed north. Then I toddled west. There was a bear there. I named it Amelia.

I stepped west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I went east. Then I went south. There was a beautiful cerulean rose there. It smelled like damsons. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I plodded west. Then I shambled south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I ran east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I hiked east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I strode south. Then I marched east. Then I hiked south. There was a beautiful outrageous orange edelweis there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I hoofed it west. Then I strutted south. Then I sauntered east. Again I hiked east. Then I trudged south. Then I trekked west. Again I shambled west. Again I shuffled west. Then I strode south. There was a beautiful tumbleweed rose there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I hoofed it south. Again I walked south. There was a beautiful mauvelous edelweis there. It smelled like mandarines.

I strutted east. There was a beautiful manatee ladys slipper there. It smelled like loquats.

I trekked south. Then I plodded east. Then I strode north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I traipsed north. There was a beautiful outer space anemone there. It smelled like bananas.

I shuffled west. Again I meandered west. Then I strode north. Then I strode east. Again I ran east. Again I traipsed east. Then I strutted south. Again I plodded south. There was a weasel there. I named it Ava.

I shambled south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I went south. Then I toddled west. Then I meandered south. Again I meandered south. Then I went east. Then I ran south. There was a beautiful carnation pink bottlebrush there. It smelled like jackfruits. For some reason I ate it. It tasted terrible.

I went east. Then I paraded south. Then I strode west. Again I meandered west. There was a beautiful jungle green sunflower there. It smelled like ugli fruit.

I sauntered north. Then I ambled west. Then I trudged south. Then I strutted west. Again I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded north. Then I strode west. Again I hiked west. Then I ambled south. Then I plodded west. Again I marched west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I traipsed north. Then I ambled east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I ran north. Then I ambled west. Then I ran south. Then I sauntered west. There was an elk there. I named it Owen.

I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked north. Again I sauntered north. Again I stepped north. Again I walked north. Then I ambled west. Then I walked south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I trekked west. Then I hoofed it south. There was a beautiful silver bluebell there. It smelled like blueberries.

I walked west. Then I marched north. Then I walked west. Then I marched north. Then I marched west. Then I meandered north. Again I traipsed north. Then I walked east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I paraded east. Again I strode east. Then I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. Again I stepped north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled north. Then I strutted east. The specter appeared again from the south. This time it looked like George Bush. It said, "There's an old saying in Tennessee - I know it's in Texas, probably in Tennessee - that says, fool me once, shame on - shame on you. Fool me - you can't get fooled again," to me. Again I trekked east. Again I meandered east. There was a beautiful plum rosemary there. It smelled like limes.

I hiked east. Then I strutted north. There was an ocelot there. I named it Adriana.

I trudged east. Then I traipsed north. Then I walked west. Then I traipsed north. Then I shambled west. Again I plodded west. Then I hiked south. Then I toddled west. Then I meandered north. Again I marched north. Then I paraded west. Again I toddled west. Again I marched west. Then I sprinted north. There was a beautiful manatee carnation there. It smelled like eggplants.

I trekked west. Then I sauntered south. Again I trekked south. Then I paraded east. Again I stepped east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I trudged west. There was a cheetah there. I named it Brooke.

I stepped west. Then I ambled south. Then I trekked west. Then I marched south. Again I trekked south. Then I plodded east. Then I marched north. Then I went east. There was a beautiful violet red bird of paradise there. It smelled like tangerines.

I hoofed it south. Again I traipsed south. Then I shambled east. There was an elk there. I named it Giselle. It started following me.

I walked south. Then I trudged west. Then I shuffled south. Again I shambled south. Then I meandered west. Again I paraded west. Again I trekked west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I traipsed north. Then I strutted west. Then I traipsed south. Then I ran west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. Again I strutted west. Again I stepped west. Again I toddled west. Then I trudged north. Again I meandered north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I strode south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. Then I trudged west. Again I paraded west. Then I hiked north. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I traipsed west. There was a mink there. I named it Kylee. It started following me.

I hiked west. Again I sprinted west. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Miranda.

I plodded south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I toddled north. Again I shuffled north. Then I marched west. Again I shuffled west. Then I ambled north. There was a crow there. I named it Raymond.

I strutted north. Again I trudged north. Again I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. There was an impala there. I named it Morgan. It started following me.

I stepped south. Again I plodded south. Then I toddled east. Then I plodded north. Again I plodded north. Again I trekked north. Then I walked west. Then I ran north. Then I marched west. Then I stepped north. Then I walked east. Again I strutted east. Again I trekked east. There was a beautiful violet orchid there. It smelled like cucumbers. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I sprinted north. There was a beautiful almond bellflower there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I shuffled east. Then I shuffled north. Again I trekked north. Then I trekked west. Then I went south. Then I ambled west. Again I stepped west. Then I walked north. Then I stepped west. There was a beautiful carnation pink babys breath there. It smelled like avocados.

I traipsed north. There was a beautiful fuzzy wuzzy marjoram there. It smelled like damsons.

I strutted north. Again I traipsed north. Again I shambled north. Again I trekked north. Again I plodded north. There was a weasel there. I named it Patrick.

I went east. Then I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Again I sauntered north. Again I ambled north. Then I ambled east. Again I shuffled east. Again I meandered east. Then I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I shuffled south. Then I paraded east. Then I walked south. There was a beautiful yellow bluebell there. It smelled like oranges.

I plodded west. Then I meandered south. Then I strutted west. Then I ambled south. Again I stepped south. Then I traipsed east. Then I meandered north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I strode south. Again I hiked south. Then I ambled west. There was an armadillo there. I named it Angelina.

I marched south. Then I stepped east. Again I toddled east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I paraded north. Then I strode west. Then I went north. Then I shambled east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I sprinted east. Then I hiked north. There was a beautiful wild watermelon chrysanthemum there. It smelled like olives. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I trekked east. Then I went south. Then I went east. Again I sauntered east. Again I sauntered east. Then I sauntered north. There was a mustang there. I named it Sara.

I stepped east. Then I shambled south. Then I traipsed east. Then I shambled north. Again I plodded north. Then I toddled east. Again I marched east. Again I marched east. There was a beautiful gray bottlebrush there. It smelled like persimmons.

I sauntered north. Then I strode east. Then I strutted north. Then I shuffled west. Again I trudged west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I strode north. Then I stepped east. Then I sauntered north. Then I meandered west. Then I ran north. Again I sauntered north. Then I shuffled west. Then I trudged south. Then I trudged west. Then I toddled south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I hiked west. Then I plodded north. Again I ambled north. Again I strode north. Then I trekked west. There was a bison there. I named it Ian.

I sauntered south. Then I trekked west. Then I paraded north. Then I paraded west. Then I sprinted south. Then I trudged west. Then I hiked north. Then I ran west. Again I trudged west. Again I ambled west. Again I trekked west. Again I marched west. Again I strutted west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode south. Then I sauntered west. Then I trekked south. Then I paraded east. Again I plodded east. There was a giraffe there. I named it Mark.

I meandered north. Then I trudged east. Again I stepped east. Then I strode south. Again I ran south. There was a salamander there. I named it Sophie.

I shuffled east. Then I ambled south. Then I ran west. Then I trekked south. Again I meandered south. Then I went east. Then I toddled north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I sprinted east. Again I ambled east. Then I sauntered north. Then I traipsed east. Then I sauntered south. Then I sauntered east. There was a buffalo there. I named it Dakota.

I went south. Then I traipsed east. Then I stepped north. Then I walked east. Again I plodded east. Then I meandered down a flight of stairs. Lauren the moose stopped following me for some reason.

So far nine animals were following me, and I held seven flowers. It seemed like I had explored about fifty-seven percent of this floor.

CHAPTER SIX

I shambled down. Then I ambled left. Then I stepped up. Again I marched up. Then I plodded right. Then I ran up. Again I trudged up. Then I ran right. Again I beat cheeks right. Again I ambled right. Then I paraded down. Then I shuffled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

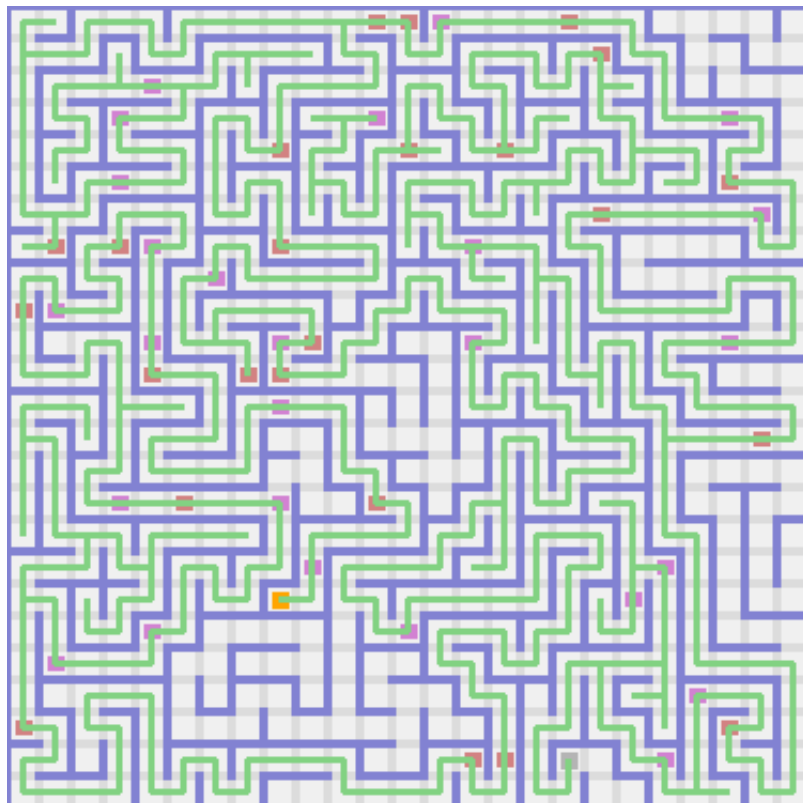

I shuffled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched up. Again I meandered up. Again I strutted up. There was a beautiful mauvelous freesium there. It smelled like figs.

I paraded left. Then I shambled up. Again I trudged up. Then I hiked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded down. There was a beautiful purple heart gladiolu there. It smelled like physaliss. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I paraded down. Then I ambled left. Then I hiked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Again I toddled down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I walked down. The specter appeared again from the east. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like Richard Nixon. Then I hiked right. There was a beautiful atomic tangerine tulip there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I shambled down. Then I sprinted right. Again I sauntered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched up. Again I trekked up. Again I shuffled up. There was a beautiful pacific blue iri there. It smelled like kumquats.

I walked right. Again I trekked right. Then I paraded down. Then I shuffled left. There was an ocelot there. I named it Hannah.

I marched down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I walked down. Then I marched right. Then I toddled up. Again I stepped up. Again I toddled up. Again I shuffled up. Then I toddled left. Again I beat cheeks left. Again I walked left. Then I stepped up. Again I sauntered up. Again I plodded up. Again I sauntered up. Then I shambled left. Then I sauntered up. Again I walked up. Again I ambled up. Again I sauntered up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I trudged up. Again I ran up. Then I marched left. Then I trudged down. Again I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Then I trekked up. Again I strode up. Again I went up. Then I meandered left. Then I toddled down. Again I strode down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled up. Then I ran left. Again I marched left. There was a beautiful shamrock orchid there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I stepped left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I traipsed left. Then I traipsed up. Then I hiked right. Again I trekked right. Then I toddled down. Then I plodded right. Then I toddled up. Then I marched right. Again I traipsed right. Then I marched up. Then I stepped right. Then I ambled down. Then I sprinted right. Then I sprinted up. Then I traipsed right. Again I ambled right. Then I shambled down. Then I paraded left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it up. Then I meandered left. Then I paraded up. Again I sauntered up. There was an alligator there. I named it Maxwell.

I hoofed it left. Then I shambled down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I walked up. Then I sprinted left. Again I strutted left. Then I went down. Then I hiked right. Then I walked down. Again I plodded down. There was a koala there. I named it Isaac. It started following me.

I walked left. Then I strutted up. Then I toddled left. Then I ran up. Then I walked left. Then I traipsed down. Again I ambled down. There was an elk there. I named it Amelia.

I ambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled left. Then I meandered down. Again I sprinted down. Then I sauntered left. Then I sauntered up. Then I plodded left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I traipsed right. Then I ambled up. Then I toddled right. There was a beautiful aquamarine aster there. It smelled like bananas.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. Then I shuffled up. Then I sauntered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled down. Then I trudged right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. Again I marched right. Again I hiked right. There was a lemur there. I named it Kelly.

I ran right. Then I walked up. Then I marched left. Again I toddled left. Again I traipsed left. Then I meandered up. Then I traipsed left. Then I went up. Then I sauntered right. Again I hiked right. There was a beautiful brown babys breath there. It smelled like raisins. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I hoofed it right. Again I strode right. Then I marched up. Again I sauntered up. Then I plodded left. Again I shuffled left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I shambled left. Again I meandered left. Again I toddled left. Again I ran left. Then I paraded up. Again I strutted up. Then I shambled left. Then I ran up. Then I traipsed right. There was a pig there. I named it Nicholas.

I marched right. Again I shambled right. Again I sprinted right. Again I ran right. Again I sauntered right. There was a beautiful red orange camellia there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I trekked down. Then I ran right. Then I ran up. Again I ambled up. Then I strutted left. Again I marched left. There was a canary there. I named it Sara.

I plodded up. Then I meandered right. Then I strutted up. Then I shambled left. There was a beautiful mauvelous edelweis there. It smelled like bilberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I hoofed it left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I plodded up. Again I strutted up. Then I sprinted left. Then I meandered up. Then I marched left. Again I toddled left. There was a tiger there. I named it Amy.

I meandered left. Again I went left. Again I traipsed left. Again I hoofed it left. There was a beautiful wild strawberry bluebell there. It smelled like honeydews.

I sprinted down. Then I traipsed left. Then I strode up. There was a turtle there. I named it Payton.

I trekked left. There was a frog there. I named it Damian.

I shambled left. Again I toddled left. Again I ran left. Again I walked left. Again I hiked left. Again I paraded left. Then I shambled down. Then I paraded left. Then I stepped up. Then I ambled left. Again I walked left. Then I shuffled down. Then I traipsed left. Again I meandered left. Then I toddled down. Again I ran down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I traipsed down. Again I meandered down. Then I sprinted right. Then I stepped down. There was a lamb there. I named it Abby. It started following me.

I went left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered right. Then I walked up. Then I ran right. There was a beautiful scarlet dahlia there. It smelled like chili peppers. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I strutted right. Again I shuffled right. Then I ran up. Then I went left. Again I marched left. Then I ambled up. There was a beautiful pink flamingo rose there. It smelled like canary melons.

I marched right. Again I stepped right. Then I trekked up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I shambled up. Then I marched right. Then I paraded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged right. Again I meandered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. There was a beautiful almond sunflower there. It smelled like peaches.

I stepped left. Again I trekked left. Again I shambled left. Then I strode down. Then I traipsed right. Then I trudged down. Then I strode left. Then I marched down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered up. Then I sauntered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted down. Then I toddled right. Then I sauntered down. Then I toddled left. Again I strode left. Again I shambled left. Then I went down. Again I hiked down. There was a dog there. I named it Max.

I ambled left. Then I trudged up. Then I beat cheeks left.

Kylie asked Abby, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a lamb. I have a wool."

I sauntered down. Again I stepped down. Again I stepped down. Then I shambled right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I paraded right. Then I plodded down. Again I went down. There was a leopard there. I named it Kelsey.

I hoofed it right. Again I hiked right. Again I traipsed right. Then I sprinted down. Then I shambled left. Again I went left. Again I paraded left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I meandered up. Then I paraded left. Then I stepped down. There was a beautiful sunglow bird of paradise there. It smelled like tangerines.

I sauntered left. Then I marched down. Again I walked down. Then I hiked right. Again I stepped right. Then I sprinted down. There was a wolverine there. I named it Haley.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged up. Then I strutted right. Again I marched right.

Morgan asked Megan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

I hiked right. Then I ran down. There was a gnu there. I named it Ian.

I trudged left. There was a beautiful shadow peony there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I paraded down. There was a frog there. I named it Christopher.

I walked right. Again I sprinted right. Then I ran up. Then I shuffled right. Then I toddled up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I shambled up. Then I strutted right. Then I meandered down. Then I traipsed right. Again I toddled right. Then I paraded down. Then I ambled left. There was a beautiful mauvelous crocu there. It smelled like nectarines.

I shuffled down. Again I ran down. Then I went right. Then I shambled up. Then I trudged right. Then I meandered down. Then I marched right. Then I strode down. Then I shuffled right. Again I went right. Then I hiked down. Then I sprinted left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I shuffled down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I sauntered up. Again I meandered up. Then I marched left. Then I sprinted down. Again I meandered down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I marched down. Then I ambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Then I traipsed down. Then I meandered left. Then I plodded down. Then I traipsed left. Again I strutted left. Again I toddled left. Then I walked down. Then I strutted right. Then I trudged down. Then I strode right. There was a beautiful antique brass aster there. It smelled like physaliss.

I paraded up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I hiked right. Again I shambled right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I hiked up. Again I walked up. Then I stepped right. Again I ran right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I meandered left. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I meandered down. Then I sauntered left. Then I ran down. Then I sprinted left. Then I shambled up. Then I sprinted left. Again I ambled left. Then I meandered down. Then I strutted right. Then I ambled down. Then I shuffled right. Then I toddled down. Again I traipsed down. There was a salamander there. I named it Austin.

I stepped down. Then I trekked left. Then I traipsed up. There was a hedgehog there. I named it Hayden.

I toddled left. Then I traipsed down. Then I trudged left. Again I strutted left. Again I strode left. Then I ambled up. Then I trudged left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I strode left. Then I traipsed down. Then I stepped left. Then I trudged up. Then I traipsed left. Then I strutted down. Then I strode left. Then I sauntered up. Again I stepped up. Again I trudged up. Then I sprinted left. Again I trudged left. Then I trudged down. Then I sauntered right. Then I sauntered down. Again I trekked down. Then I hiked left. Again I meandered left. Again I ran left. Then I strutted up. Then I shuffled right. Then I walked up. Then I strutted left. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Tanner.

I trekked up. Again I sprinted up. Again I walked up. Again I hiked up. Again I strutted up. Then I sprinted right. Again I traipsed right. Then I shambled up. Then I shambled left. Then I went up. Again I traipsed up. Again I stepped up. Then I marched left. Then I ambled down. Again I shambled down. Again I ran down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode up. Then I shuffled right. Again I sprinted right. Then I plodded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled right. Then I shambled down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I sauntered up. Then I went right. Again I paraded right. Again I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I trudged down. Then I marched left. Then I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled right. Then I strutted down. Again I strode down. There was a beautiful dandelion thyme there. It smelled like watermelons.

I hoofed it right. Again I sauntered right. Again I stepped right. Then I stepped up. There was a beautiful white marigold there.

It smelled like bilberries.

I plodded right. Then I hiked up. Again I shuffled up. Then I plodded right. Then I stepped down. Then I toddled right. Then I trudged up. Then I ran right. Then I shuffled up. Again I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful neon carrot camellia there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I ran left. Again I shambled left. Again I walked left. There was a leopard there. I named it Francisco.

I hoofed it left. Again I trudged left. There was a beautiful violet red gerbera daisy there. It smelled like peaches.

I hoofed it left. Then I sauntered up. Then I shuffled right. Then I hiked up. Again I trekked up. Then I trekked right. Again I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked up. Again I trekked up. Then I meandered left. Then I plodded down. Then I trudged left. Again I strode left. Then I strode up. Again I walked up. There was a hyena there. I named it Natalia.

I stepped up. Then I plodded right. Then I paraded down. There was a beautiful royal purple forget me not there. It smelled like jambuls.

I strutted right. Again I ran right. Then I meandered up.

Giselle asked Kylie, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a lynx and I'm feline."

I sprinted left. Then I traipsed up. Then I plodded right. There was a chameleon there. I named it Marcus.

I strode up. Then I walked right. Again I sauntered right. Then I marched down. Then I walked left. There was a beautiful copper aster there. It smelled like goji berries.

I traipsed down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I trekked down. There was a beautiful piggy pink anemone there. It smelled like rambutans. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shambled down. There was a goat there. I named it Nicole.

I strode right. Again I walked right. Then I sauntered down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I meandered left. Again I traipsed left. Then I toddled down. Then I shambled right. Again I walked right. Again I paraded right. Then I marched up. Again I traipsed up. Then I sprinted right. There was a beautiful eggplant water lily there. It smelled like goji berries.

I strode right. Again I ambled right. Then I sprinted down. Again I shambled down. Then I ambled right. Then I strutted down. There was a capybara there. I named it Colton.

I ran right. Then I stepped down. Then I walked left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I went left. Then I strode down. There was a beautiful blue violet gladiolu there. It smelled like lemons.

I ambled down. Then I trudged down a flight of stairs. Kylie the lynx stopped following me for some reason.

So far ten animals were following me, and I held eleven flowers. It seemed like I had explored about eighty-one percent of this floor.

CHAPTER SEVEN

I strode west. Then I toddled south. Then I strode east. Then I went south. Again I toddled south. Again I trudged south. Then I trekked east. Then I meandered south. Again I plodded south. Again I walked south. Then I traipsed east. Then I traipsed south. Then I strutted west. Then I stepped south. Then I went west. Then I shambled south. Again I walked south. Then I paraded east. There was a leopard there. I named it Morgan.

I sprinted north. Then I walked east. Then I strode north. There was a gnu there. I named it Manuel.

I shuffled east. Then I ran south. Again I shambled south. The shade appeared again from the west. This time it looked like George Washington. Again I hoofed it south. Then I toddled east. Again I plodded east. Then I ran north. Then I hiked east. Then I ambled north. Then I meandered west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I hiked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted north. There was a beautiful yellow orange bottlebrush there. It smelled like peaches.

I shuffled east. Then I paraded north. Then I went east. Again I toddled east. There was a deer there. I named it Raymond.

I strode east. Again I paraded east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I toddled east. Again I plodded east. Then I hiked north. Then I trekked west. Again I walked west. Again I beat cheeks west. There was a beautiful chestnut bird of paradise there. It smelled like blueberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I beat cheeks west. Then I shambled north. Again I sprinted north. Then I went west. There was a beautiful dandelion hibiscus there. It smelled like olives.

I shuffled south. There was a goat there. I named it Jason.

I shambled south. Then I hiked west. Again I strode west. Then I ambled north. Again I walked north. Again I strutted north. There was a silver fox there. I named it Zoe.

I sauntered west.

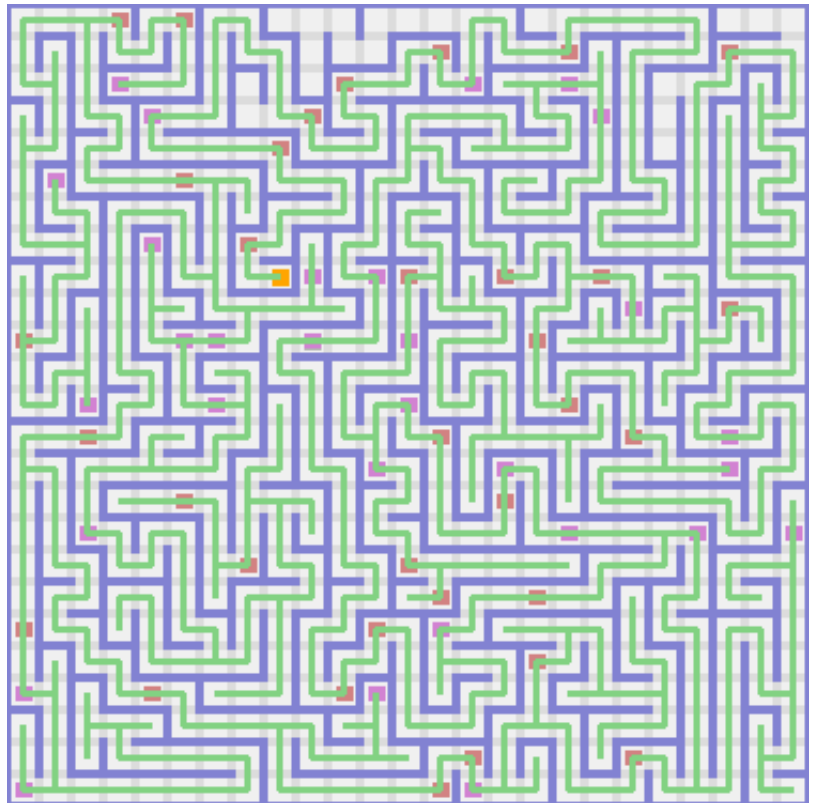

Abby asked Trinity, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a monkey and I'm funny. I have a nose and I can throw thing, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Abby.

I trudged north. There was a beautiful blush buttercup there. It smelled like tangerines.

I sprinted west. Then I sauntered south. Again I sprinted south. There was a beautiful cerulean daisy there. It smelled like peaches.

I shambled east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I stepped west. Then I strutted south. Then I paraded east. Then I traipsed south. There was a baboon there. I named it Nevaeh.

I paraded east. Again I trekked east. Again I stepped east. Again I walked east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled south. There was a dog there. I named it Caroline.

I shambled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I traipsed north. Again I shambled north. Then I strode east. Again I trudged east. Then I hiked north. There was a beautiful radical red iri there. It smelled like canary melons.

I marched north. Again I stepped north. There was a salamander there. I named it Mason.

I went east. Then I ambled south. Then I meandered east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I strode south. Then I hiked west. Again I strutted west. Then I marched south. Again I marched south. Then I went east. Then I walked north. Then I marched east. Then I sprinted south. Again I sprinted south. Then I strode east. Again I shambled east. Again I trudged east. Then I strode north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked south. Again I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I meandered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged north. Then I paraded west. Then I toddled north. Then I meandered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. There was a beautiful tickle me pink amaranth there. It smelled like eggplants.

I ran south.

Isaac asked Giselle, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an elk. I have a beautiful antler."

I plodded south. Then I went west. Then I sprinted south. Then I toddled east. Then I strode south. Again I marched south. Again I shuffled south. Again I toddled south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I meandered west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I paraded west. There was a whale there. I named it Riley.

I walked south. Then I trekked west. Again I stepped west. Then I walked north. Again I meandered north. Then I meandered west. Again I strode west. Then I stepped south. Again I sauntered south. Then I sprinted east. Then I trudged north.

Kaden asked Trinity, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a monkey and I'm funny. I have a nose and I can throw thing, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Kaden.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled west. There was a beautiful cadet blue daisy there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I paraded north. There was an elephant there. I named it Mckenzie.

I strode west. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a sheep there. I named it Rylee.

I toddled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I plodded west. Again I stepped west. Again I marched west. Then I sprinted north. Again I meandered north. Then I sauntered east. Then I shambled south. Then I walked east. Again I trekked east. Then I toddled north. Then I paraded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. There was a beautiful black lilac there. It smelled like passionfruits.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Again I ran west. Again I hiked west. Then I toddled north. Then I strode west. There was a porcupine there. I named it Amanda.

I trudged west. Then I trudged north. Then I strode west. Then I walked north. Then I ran west. Then I walked north. Then I shambled east. Then I toddled north. Then I strode west. Then I walked north. Again I ambled north. Again I sauntered north. Then I strode west. Then I ambled north. Then I shambled east. Again I ran east. There was a rhinoceros there. I named it Natalia.

I sprinted east. Then I paraded north. Then I hiked east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I shuffled west. Then I stepped north. Again I ambled north. Again I walked north. Again I ran north. Again I shambled north. Then I hiked east. Again I went east. Then I plodded south. Again I marched south. Then I ran east. Then I strode north. Again I hiked north. Again I traipsed north. Then I ran east. Then I strode south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. There was a horse there. I named it Grant.

I went west. Again I traipsed west. Again I trekked west. Then I traipsed north. Then I hiked east. Then I shuffled north. Then I stepped west. Then I paraded north. Again I stepped north. Again I trekked north. Then I sauntered east. There was a yak there. I named it Lucas.

I toddled south. Then I trekked east. Then I traipsed north. Then I traipsed east. There was a mole there. I named it Steven.

I traipsed south. Again I sauntered south. Then I paraded west. Again I went west. There was a beautiful carnation pink sunflower there. It smelled like durians.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped west. Again I paraded west. Then I meandered south. Again I walked south. Then I trekked east. Then I traipsed south. Again I trudged south. Then I strode west. Then I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. Again I hiked south. Again I traipsed south. Then I trekked east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I trekked south. Then I walked west. Then I paraded south. Again I sauntered south. Then I ran west. There was an oryx there. I named it Summer.

I shuffled north. Again I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged south. Again I sprinted south. Then I trekked east. Then I traipsed north. Then I walked east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I shambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran south. There was a beautiful yellow orange water lily there. It smelled like gooseberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Then I shambled west. Then I sprinted north. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose bellflower there. It smelled like mangoes. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled south. Then I stepped east. Then I hiked south. Then I paraded west. There was a beautiful blue peony there. It smelled like raisins.

I sprinted west. There was a beautiful cerise carnation there. It smelled like ugli fruit.

I ran south. Again I went south. Then I went east. There was a beautiful blue lily there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I strutted east. Then I strutted north. Then I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I ambled south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I walked west. Again I shambled west. Again I meandered west. Then I ambled south. Again I hiked south. There was a beautiful eggplant heather there. It smelled like pears.

I beat cheeks east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I paraded north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I paraded south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I meandered south. Then I plodded east. Then I ran south. Then I stepped west. Again I toddled west. Then I ran north. Again I meandered north. Then I strutted west. Then I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I shuffled north. Then I plodded east. Then I hiked south. Again I ran south. Again I traipsed south. Then I hiked west. Again I traipsed west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it east. Then I sprinted north. Then I hiked west. Then I traipsed north. Again I meandered north. Then I sauntered west. Then I marched south. Again I strode south. There was a jaguar there. I named it Ethan. It started following me.

I meandered west. Then I sauntered north. Again I trudged north. Then I toddled west. There was a bear there. I named it Nicholas. It started following me.

I hoofed it west. Again I ran west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched north. Then I strode east. Then I paraded north. Again I stepped north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped east. Then I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled north. Then I went east.

Trinity asked Megan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled west. Then I paraded north. Again I stepped north. Again I marched north. There was a beautiful silver lady's slipper there. It smelled like star fruit.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched east. Again I went east. Again I trudged east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. There was a beautiful vivid violet snapdragon there. It smelled like persimmons.

I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled south. Again I went south. Again I meandered south. Again I shuffled south. Again I trudged south. There was a rabbit there. I named it Dylan.

I ambled south. Again I walked south. There was a beautiful raw sienna crocu there. It smelled like goji berries.

I hiked east. Then I went north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded south.

Ethan asked Ryan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a puma."

I hoofed it south. Again I trudged south. Then I trudged west. There was a beautiful eggplant tulip there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I beat cheeks north. Again I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. Again I shambled east. Again I trekked east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I went east. Again I meandered east. Then I traipsed north. Then I walked west. Again I shuffled west. Again I shuffled west. Again I ran west. Then I paraded north. Then I marched west. Then I strutted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. Again I sprinted north. There was a hedgehog there. I named it Ivan.

I sprinted east. Then I trekked north. Then I strode west. Again I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I hiked south. Then I strutted west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. Again I plodded east. Then I paraded south. Then I shuffled west. Again I ran west. Then I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Then I trudged west. Then I traipsed north. Again I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked east. Then I went north. Again I marched north. Again I marched north. Again I went north. Again I shuffled north. Then I went east. Then I marched south. Again I hiked south. Then I stepped east. Then I ran north. Again I meandered north. Again I ambled north. Again I sprinted north. Then I strutted west. Again I hiked west. Then I shuffled south. Then I strode east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. There was a beautiful wild strawberry amarylli there. It smelled like avocados.

I walked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Again I strutted south. Then I ambled west. Then I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I ambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks east. There was a beautiful blush rose there. It smelled like jambuls.

I paraded east. Again I meandered east. Then I ran north. Again I trudged north. There was a beautiful cadet blue bluebell there. It smelled like lemons.

I ran west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I strutted east. Then I ran north. Again I went north. Then I ran east. Then I toddled north. Again I paraded north. Then I hiked east. Again I strode east. Again I strutted east. Then I sauntered south. Then I ran east. Again I strode east. Then I sprinted north. Then I walked west. Then I shuffled north. Then I strutted west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. There was a beautiful indigo iri there. It smelled like pomeloes.

I toddled east. Then I paraded south. There was a beautiful cornflower holly there. It smelled like peaches.

I shambled south. Again I strode south. Then I trekked west. Then I paraded south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I sprinted west. Then I trudged north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped east. Then I meandered south. Then I traipsed east. Then I hoofed it south. Again I walked south. Then I paraded east. Then I strode south. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Jordan.

I beat cheeks east. Then I trudged north. Then I stepped east. Then I paraded south. Then I ambled east. There was a gila monster there. I named it Sean.

I plodded east. Then I marched south. There was a beautiful denim carnation there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I sprinted south. Then I shambled west. Again I plodded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Then I strode north. Then I went east. Then I sprinted north. Then I plodded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed south. Again I ambled south. Then I plodded west. Then I strode south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked east. Then I hoofed it north. There was a capybara there. I named it Christopher.

I hiked east. Then I shuffled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I hiked south. There was a cow there. I named it Trevor.

I ran south. Again I walked south. Then I sauntered east. There was a kangaroo there. I named it Grant.

I hiked north. Then I walked east. Again I sprinted east. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I hiked south. There was a mule there. I named it Gianna.

I walked east. Then I trudged south. Then I strutted east. Again I ambled east. There was a beautiful cornflower thistle there. It smelled like satsumas.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I sauntered south. Then I toddled east. Again I plodded east. Again I walked east. Again I sprinted east. Then I traipsed south. Then I sauntered east. Then I ran north. Again I sauntered north. Then I shambled east. Then I strode north. Again I hiked north. Then I trekked west. Then I plodded south. Then I trudged west. There was a beautiful scarlet bottlebrush there. It smelled like lychees.

I marched west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I sprinted east. Then I stepped north. Then I stepped east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I hiked north. Again I shuffled north. Then I toddled west. Again I stepped west. Then I trekked north. Again I strode north. Again I plodded north. Again I shambled north. Again I went north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. Again I shambled east. Then I stepped north. Then I hiked west. Then I sauntered north. Then I stepped east. Then I sauntered north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I strutted north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode east. Then I shambled north. Again I shuffled north. Then I ambled west. Again I paraded west. There was a ewe there. I named it Charles.

I hoofed it south. Then I ambled west. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I hiked south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I stepped south. Then I shuffled west. Again I traipsed west. Again I ran west. Then I shuffled north. Then I shambled east. Again I toddled east. Then I plodded north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I paraded north. Again I stepped north. Then I meandered east. Again I paraded east. Then I stepped north. Then I strode west. Again I strutted west. Again I trudged west. Again I toddled west. Then I trudged south. There was a gopher there. I named it Natalie. It started following me.

I went west. Again I went west. Then I strutted north. Then I trudged west. Then I ran south. Again I meandered south. There was a beautiful cornflower lily there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I beat cheeks west. Then I hoofed it north. There was a cat there. I named it Gage.

I walked west. Then I traipsed south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I walked west. There was an ox there. I named it Cristian. It started following me.

I plodded south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I trekked south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I shuffled west. Then I walked north. There was a hog there. I named it Danielle.

I hoofed it west. Then I ran north. Again I strode north. Then I paraded west. Then I sauntered north. Then I marched west. Then I went south. Again I traipsed south. Again I strutted south. Then I marched west. Again I traipsed west. There was a beautiful olive green petunium there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I toddled south. Then I hiked east. Again I marched east. Again I paraded east. Again I strutted east. There was a badger there. I named it Tiffany.

I traipsed south. Then I trekked east. Again I trudged east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I sprinted west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I ambled west. There was an oryx there. I named it Max.

I plodded south. Then I hoofed it down a flight of stairs. Ethan the jaguar stopped following me for some reason.

So far thirteen animals were following me, and I held thirteen flowers. It seemed like I had explored about ninety-six percent of this floor.

.....

CHAPTER EIGHT

I ambled east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. There was a rhinoceros there. I named it Jack.

I paraded north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I traipsed north. Then I toddled east. Then I marched north. Then I strutted west. Then I strutted north. Then I meandered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded south. There was a beautiful sky blue edelweis there. It smelled like blueberries.

I marched west. Then I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I sprinted west. Then I plodded south. Then I traipsed west. Again I strode west. Then I trekked south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I strutted east. There was a pig there. I named it Victor.

I plodded south. Then I ambled east. Again I trudged east. Then I ambled south. Then I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled west. Again I strutted west. Then I plodded north. Again I ambled north. Then I toddled west. Then I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped north. Then I hoofed it east. The apparition appeared again from the south. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like James Monroe. It said, "A little flattery will support a man through great fatigu," to me. Then I paraded north. Again I meandered north. Again I strutted north. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a beautiful blue green anemone there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I shambled south. Again I shambled south. There was a beautiful outrageous orange anemone there. It smelled like dates.

I went west. Then I walked north. Again I shambled north. Again I strode north. Then I sauntered west. Then I marched north. Then I stepped east. There was a beautiful scarlet anemone there. It smelled like physaliss.

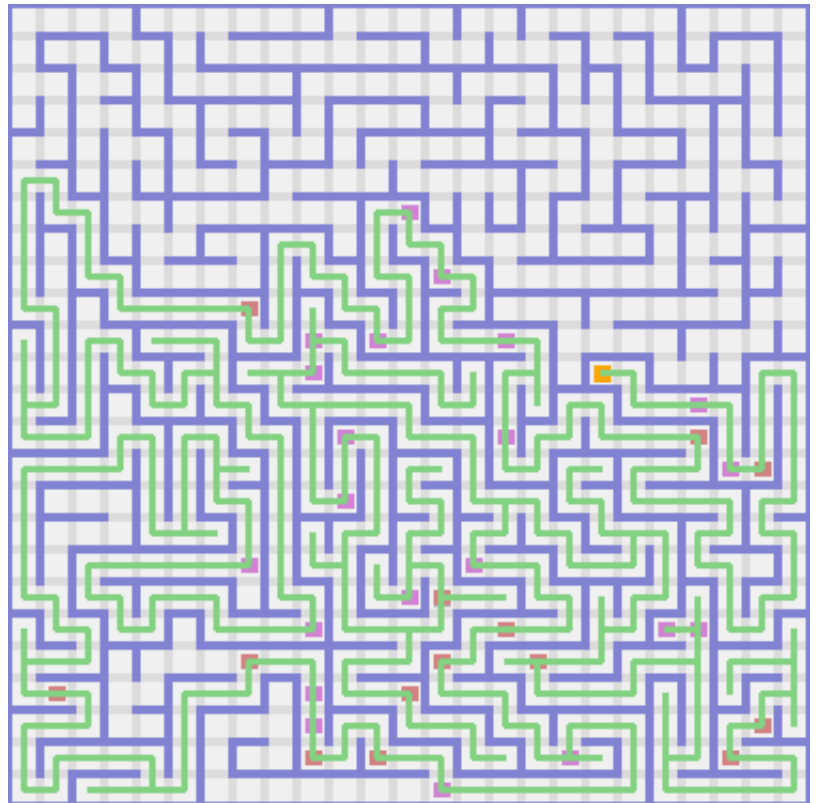

I plodded north. There was a beautiful magenta heather there. It smelled like mulberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled east. Then I sauntered south. Then I toddled east. Again I trudged east. Again I traipsed east. Then I strutted south. Then I meandered east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. Again I hiked east. Again I meandered east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I trudged east. Again I plodded east. Then I marched south. Again I traipsed south. Then I hiked east. Again I paraded east. Then I hiked south. Then I trudged east. Then I walked south. Then I shambled east. Again I hiked east. Then I strode north. Then I stepped west. Then I toddled north. Then I ambled west. Then I stepped north. Then I went east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. Then I strutted south. Again I ambled south. Then I shambled west. Then I paraded south. Then I shuffled west. Then I toddled south. Then I strode west. Again I strutted west. There was a bison there. I named it Antonio.

I strode west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I sprinted east. Again I shuffled east. Again I ran east. Then I trekked north. Then I trekked east. Again I trekked east. Then I meandered south. Again I sauntered south. Again I sauntered south. Then I strutted west. Then I marched north. Again I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled south. Then I marched east. Again I marched east. Again I strutted east. Again I shambled east. Then I meandered north. Then I meandered west. Again I traipsed west. There was a wolverine there. I named it Micah.

I shuffled north. Then I paraded east. There was a tapir there. I named it Abraham.

I stepped north. Then I trekked east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted west. Again I toddled west. Then I strutted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. There was a beautiful mountain meadow tulip there. It smelled like physaliss.

I meandered west. There was a beautiful burnt orange marjoram there. It smelled like clementines.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. Then I plodded west. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a beautiful purple pizzazz carnation there. It smelled like rock melons.

I paraded east. Again I marched east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I sprinted east. Then I ambled south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I ran west. There was a camel there. I named it Richard.

I hiked west. Then I plodded south. Then I trudged west. There was a kangaroo there. I named it Bryson.

I shambled south. Then I marched east. Again I trudged east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I walked east. Then I walked south. Then I trekked east. There was a beautiful olive green camellia there. It smelled like peaches.

I toddled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged north. Then I strutted east. Again I sauntered east. Then I sauntered south. Again I meandered south. Then I strutted west. Again I strutted west. Again I shambled west. Again I plodded west. Again I shambled west. Again I hiked west. There was a beautiful copper daisy there. It smelled like olives.

I sauntered north. Then I stepped west. Again I stepped west. There was a capybara there. I named it Tyler.

I hoofed it north. Then I strutted west. Then I meandered south. Then I trudged west. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Veronica.

I paraded north. There was a beautiful caribbean green dahlum there. It smelled like cloudberryes.

I trekked north. There was a beautiful wild watermelon dahlum there. It smelled like mulberryes.

I hoofed it north. Then I went west. Again I sauntered west. There was a zebra there. I named it Claire.

I ran south. Then I ran west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I ambled south. Again I walked south. Again I stepped south. Then I walked west. Again I toddled west. Again I ambled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. Then I toddled west. Again I walked west. Again I stepped west. Then I walked south. Then I walked west. Then I ambled north. Again I meandered north. Then I strode east. Again I traipsed east. Then I walked north. Then I shuffled west. There was a fox there. I named it Angelina.

I went west. Then I sprinted north. Again I strode north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Again I strutted east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I sprinted west. Then I stepped north. Then I stepped west. Then I hoofed it north. Again I ambled north. Again I sprinted north. Again I trudged north. Then I shuffled east. Again I shuffled east. Again I plodded east. Then I trekked north. Then I toddled east. Then I hiked south. Again I ambled south. Again I stepped south. Then I toddled east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched north. Again I paraded north. Again I marched north. Then I toddled east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. Then I paraded east. Then I shambled south. Again I toddled south. There was a beautiful banana mania peony there. It smelled like clementines.

I stepped west. Again I strode west. Again I ran west. Again I paraded west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I trudged south. Then I ambled east. Then I hiked south. Then I meandered east. Then I traipsed north. Then I hoofed it east. Again I strode east. Then I trekked south. Then I plodded east. Again I ran east. Again I trekked east. There was a beautiful cerise dahlum there. It smelled like satsumas.

I meandered north. Then I shuffled west. Then I trekked north. Again I trekked north. Again I shambled north. Again I marched north. Again I hiked north. Then I shuffled west. Then I shambled north. Then I sprinted west. Then I strode north. Again I sprinted north. Then I ambled west. Again I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran west. Then I trudged south. Then I shambled west. Then I ambled north. Then I stepped west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I strode west. Then I stepped south. Again I marched south. Again I traipsed south. Then I hiked west. Again I paraded west. Then I walked north. Again I toddled north. Again I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I hiked north. Then I toddled west. Then I sprinted north. Again I strode north. Again I trudged north. Again I trekked north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I paraded south. Then I strode east. Then I trekked south. Again I trekked south. Then I plodded east. Then I shuffled south. Then I ambled east. Again I strode east. Again I ambled east. Again I trekked east. There was an alligator there. I named it Jennifer. It started following me.

I meandered south. Then I hiked east. Then I strode north. Again I sauntered north. Again I stepped north. Then I ambled east. Then I shuffled south. Then I sauntered east. Then I toddled south. Then I sauntered east. Then I strutted south. There was a beautiful beaver water lily there. It smelled like figs.

I ran east. Then I hiked north. Again I strutted north. Then I shambled west. Then I shambled north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I ambled east. There was a beautiful yellow babys breath there. It smelled like loquats.

I plodded south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I walked south. There was a beautiful cerulean ladys slipper there. It smelled like gooseberryes.

I shambled east. Then I sprinted south. Then I ran west. Then I shuffled south. Then I trudged east. Again I meandered east. There was a beautiful sea green snapdragon there. It smelled like watermelons.

I trekked east. Then I sauntered south. Again I walked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled west. Then I trudged south. Again I traipsed south. There was a beautiful silver holly there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I shambled south. Then I shambled east. Then I ran north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I ambled north. Then I toddled east. Then I toddled south. Then I strutted east. Again I plodded east. Again I hiked east. There was a rat there. I named it Karina.

I hiked south. Then I meandered west. Again I paraded west. Then I walked south. Then I ambled east. Again I trudged east. Again I sauntered east. Then I trudged south. Then I hiked west. Then I shuffled south. Then I traipsed east. Then I ambled south. Again I ran south. Then I shuffled east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I stepped east. Then I ambled north. Again I traipsed north. Then I ran west. Then I paraded north. Then I meandered east. Then I sprinted north. Again I sprinted north. Again I strutted north. Again I traipsed north. Then I stepped west. Then I ran south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I strutted south. There was an elephant there. I named it Ian.

I strode west. There was a beautiful wild blue yonder petunium there. It smelled like salal berries.

I hiked north. Again I meandered north. Then I sauntered west. There was a beautiful piggy pink begonium there. It smelled like mandarines.

I walked west. Again I trekked west. Then I toddled north. Then I stepped down a flight of stairs. So far fourteen animals were following me, and I held fourteen flowers. It seemed like I had explored about fifty-eight percent of this floor.

CHAPTER NINE

I strutted north. Then I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked east. Then I trudged south. Then I went east. Then I marched north. Then I strode east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I sauntered north. Then I stepped west. Again I shambled west. Again I strutted west. Again I ambled west. There was a beautiful gray thistle there. It smelled like pomeloes.

I shuffled south. Then I strode west. Again I trudged west. Again I meandered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Then I trudged west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I ran west. There was a mustang there. I named it Tiffany.

I trudged south. Again I went south. Again I ran south. Again I toddled south. Again I sauntered south. Then I shambled east. Again I hiked east. Then I trekked south. There was a beautiful blue green lavender there. It smelled like quinces.

I trekked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. There was a seal there. I named it Jorge.

I stepped south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. Then I sauntered west. There was a beautiful laser lemon daisy there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I hoofed it south. Again I went south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I stepped south. Then I ambled east. There was a ferret there. I named it Paige.

I stepped east. Again I stepped east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered south. Again I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

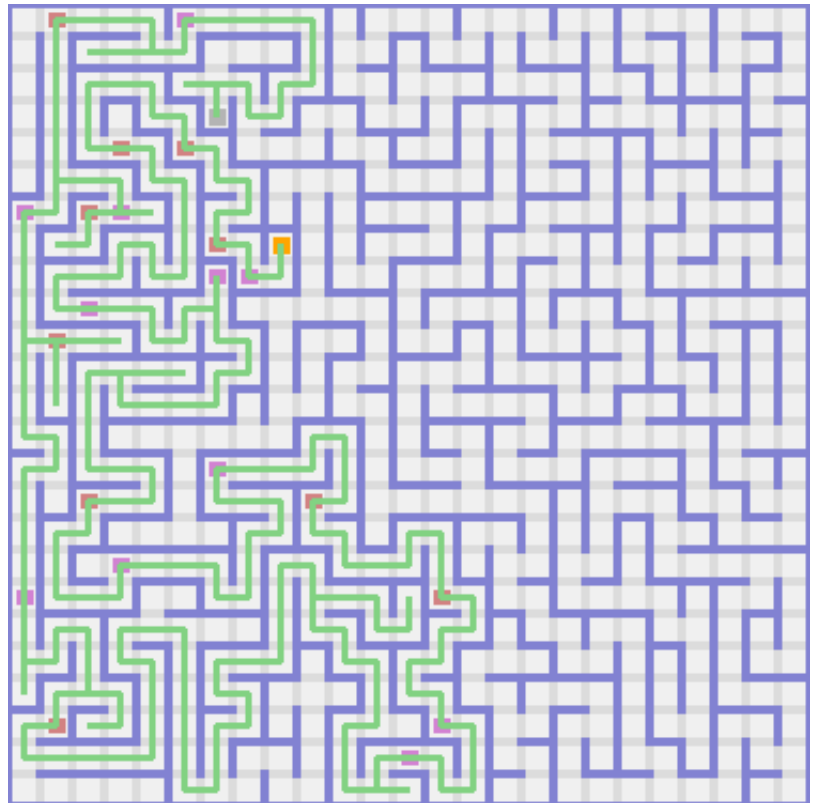

I beat cheeks south. Again I plodded south. Again I trudged south. Then I trudged east. Then I stepped south. Then I meandered west. Then I sprinted south. Again I sauntered south. Again I hiked south. Again I sprinted south. There was a beautiful goldenrod columbine there. It smelled like pomeloes. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I hiked south. Again I shuffled south. Again I strutted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Then I plodded north. Then I strutted east. Then I walked south. Again I went south. Then I went east. Then I plodded south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled west. Then I hoofed it south. There was a grizzly bear there. I named it Alexa. It started following me.

I strutted west. Then I walked south. Then I sauntered east. Again I stepped east. Again I shuffled east. Again I shambled east. Then I paraded north. Again I stepped north. Again I meandered north. Then I trekked west. Then I stepped north. Then I trekked east. Again I paraded east. Then I sprinted south. Again I paraded south. Again I ran south. Again I strutted south. Again I hiked south. Then I ran east. Then I toddled north. Again I went north. Then I strode east. Then I marched north. Then I meandered west. Then I marched north. Then I ambled east. Again I trudged east. Then I stepped north. Again I ambled north. Again I strutted north. Then I sprinted east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I sauntered east. Again I hiked east. Then I shuffled south. Then I meandered east. Then I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted south. Then I ran east. Then I ambled south. Then I ambled east. The phantasm appeared again from the south. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like Franklin Roosevelt. Then I ran south. Again I toddled south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I paraded south. Again I traipsed south. Then I sprinted east. Again I strode east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Then I plodded east. There was a beautiful laser lemon petunium there. It smelled like peaches.

I sauntered east. Then I paraded south. Then I ambled east. Then I plodded north. Again I shuffled north. Then I walked west. There was a beautiful green yellow lavender there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I sauntered north. Then I went west. Then I went north. Then I sauntered east. Then I shambled north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I trekked north. Then I toddled west. There was a bat there. I named it Chelsea.

I trekked north. Again I shuffled north. Then I plodded west. Then I ambled south. Then I hiked west. Again I meandered west. Then I went north. Then I shuffled west. Then I meandered north. There was a weasel there. I named it Gabriela.

I hoofed it east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I strode north. Then I went west. Then I toddled south. Then I trudged west. Again I shambled west. Again I trekked west. There was a beautiful brown clover there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I paraded south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I strutted east. Then I marched south. Then I sauntered west. Then I trudged south. Again I sauntered south. Then I went west. Then I ran north. Then I traipsed west. Again I shuffled west. Again I toddled west. There was a beautiful inchworm heather there. It smelled like lychees. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I went south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I walked west. Then I hiked north. Again I strutted north. Then I ambled east. Then I went north. There was a dingo there. I named it Trevor.

I plodded east. Again I sauntered east. Then I strode north. Then I ran west. Again I stepped west. Then I traipsed north. Again I sprinted north. Again I ran north. Then I paraded east. Again I hiked east. Again I sprinted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Then I ran east. Again I traipsed east. Again I walked east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I marched east. Then I trekked north. Then I plodded west. Then I traipsed north. Again I hiked north. There was a beautiful timberwolf mimosa there. It smelled like figs. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked west. Then I paraded south. Then I went west. Then I marched north. Then I hoofed it west. Again I stepped west. There was a beautiful almond forget me not there. It smelled like cranberries.

I hoofed it west. Then I strode north. Then I toddled east. Again I marched east. Then I marched north. Then I sprinted east. Then I sprinted south. Then I hiked east. Then I hiked north. Again I shuffled north. Again I plodded north. Then I toddled west. Then I stepped north. Then I strode west. There was a wolf there. I named it Gianna.

I strutted west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I paraded east. Again I shuffled east. Then I ambled south. Then I shuffled east. Then I trudged south. There was a pig there. I named it Natalia.

I plodded east. Then I strutted south. Then I trudged east. Then I marched south. Then I hiked west. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a silver fox there. I named it Giselle.

I marched east. Then I shambled south. There was a beautiful mahogany lavender there. It smelled like olives.

I strode east. Then I shambled down a flight of stairs. So far fifteen animals were following me, and I held sixteen flowers. It seemed like I had explored about thirty-six percent of this floor.

CHAPTER TEN

I shuffled east. Then I ambled north. Then I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. Then I trudged north. Then I shambled west. Then I paraded north. Again I stepped north. Then I sauntered west.

Ryan asked Kaden, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a camel."

I trekked west. Then I shambled south. Again I hiked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode south. Again I marched south. Again I plodded south. Then I strode west. Then I plodded south. Again I sauntered south. Then I shuffled east. There was a beautiful atomic tangerine thistle there. It smelled like tangerines.

I toddled east. Again I sauntered east. Again I traipsed east. Then I ran south. Then I strode east. Again I traipsed east. Then I sauntered north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I ambled north. Then I meandered east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I went east. There was a finch there. I named it Zoe.

I marched north. Then I stepped west. There was a porpoise there. I named it Chloe.

I shuffled west. There was a goat there. I named it Evelyn. It started following me.

I trudged west. Then I shambled north. Again I beat cheeks north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I plodded north. Again I plodded north. Then I ambled west. Then I stepped north. Then I shuffled west. Again I trekked west. Again I hiked west. Then I plodded north. Again I stepped north. Then I strutted east. Again I sprinted east. Then I went south. Then I sprinted west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

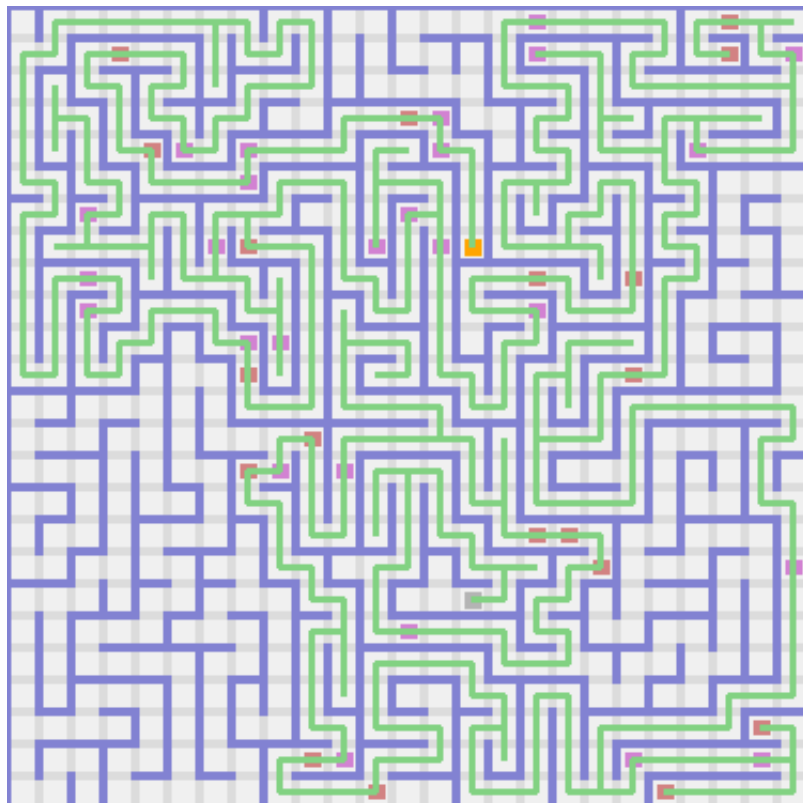

I trudged west. Again I trudged west. Again I trekked west. Then I stepped south. There was a beautiful eggplant bellflower there. It smelled like satsumas.

I beat cheeks south. Again I meandered south. Then I ran west. Then I walked north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I paraded north. There was a sloth there. I named it Shane.

I plodded west. Then I ambled south. There was a beautiful midnight blue lily there. It smelled like loquats.

I stepped west. There was a rhinoceros there. I named it Alexis.

I strode south. Then I meandered east. Then I trekked south. Again I strutted south. Then I shambled east. Then I marched south. Then I paraded east. Then I marched south. Again I shambled south. Again I shuffled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled west. Then I plodded south. Again I paraded south. Again I strutted south. Then I strode east. Then I hiked south. There was a beautiful green begonium there. It smelled like kumquats.

I meandered west. There was a pig there. I named it Owen.

I walked west. Then I ran south. Then I strutted east. Again I shambled east. Again I strode east. There was a jackal there. I named it Ian.

I went north. Then I strutted east. Again I strode east. Then I strode north. Then I stepped west. Again I sauntered west. Then I meandered north. Again I shambled north.

Trinity asked Ryan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a puma."

I hiked east. Again I went east. Again I stepped east. Then I paraded south. Then I shambled east. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I marched south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Then I marched south. Again I shuffled south. Then I marched east. Again I ran east. Then I plodded north. Again I toddled north. Again I marched north. Then I hiked east. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I trekked south. Again I sprinted south. Then I walked east. Again I sprinted east. Then I marched north. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose sage there. It smelled like bananas.

I strode east. Again I shambled east. Again I shuffled east. Again I sauntered east. There was a beautiful jungle green heather there. It smelled like canary melons.

I meandered east. Then I plodded north. Then I ran west. There was a grizzly bear there. I named it Chase.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered south. Then I stepped west. Again I toddled west. Again I stepped west. Again I sauntered west. There was a hyena there. I named it Landon.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded north. Again I shuffled north. Then I ran east. Again I shambled east. Again I sprinted east. The haunt appeared again from the south. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like Abraham Lincoln. It said, "I am a slow walker, but I never walk backward," to me. Again I shuffled east. Then I shuffled north. Then I shambled east. Again I strode east. Then I toddled north. Again I beat cheeks north. Again I strutted north. Again I shuffled north. There was a beautiful mountain meadow hyacinth there. It smelled like olives.

I shambled north. Again I stepped north. Then I strode west. Then I ambled north. Again I sauntered north. Then I toddled east. Then I strode north. Then I hoofed it west. Again I marched west. Again I ambled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I went west. Then I strutted south. Again I meandered south. Again I strode south. Then I hiked west. Again I paraded west. Again I strode west. Then I hiked north. Again I toddled north. Again I paraded north. Again I strode north. Then I shambled east. Then I strutted north. Then I shambled east. Again I paraded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. Again I toddled east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I stepped north. Then I trudged east. There was a tiger there. I named it Lilly.

I plodded east. Then I sauntered north. Again I shambled north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I sprinted east. Then I plodded north. Then I hiked west. Then I hiked north. Then I traipsed east. Then I plodded north. Then I sauntered west. Then I plodded north. Then I walked west. Again I walked west. Then I sprinted north. Again I strode north. Again I strutted north.

Kylee asked Giselle, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an elk. I have a beautiful antler."

I paraded west. Again I sprinted west. There was a beautiful red rosemary there. It smelled like cloudberry.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Then I strode east. Again I toddled east. Again I stepped east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks south. There was a beautiful dandelion jasmine there. It smelled like eggplants.

I sauntered east. Again I stepped east. Again I toddled east. Then I trekked north. Again I went north. Again I paraded north. There was a beautiful electric lime carnation there. It smelled like dates. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I marched west. Then I toddled north. Then I strutted west. There was a mountain goat there. I named it Sophie.

I marched west. Then I trekked south. Then I strutted east. There was an elk there. I named it Isabella.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west.

Giselle asked Alexa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a grizzly bear and I'm red. I can bark, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Giselle.

I trudged west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I trudged west. Again I stepped west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I stepped east. Then I walked north. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I stepped west. Again I paraded west. Again I shambled west. There was a beautiful mahogany amaranth there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I went west. Then I strutted south. Again I plodded south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I toddled east. Then I marched south. Then I strode west. Then I ambled south. Then I sauntered east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I paraded west. Then I meandered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went west. Then I strutted south. Again I hiked south. Then I paraded east. Again I walked east. Again I strode east. Then I strode south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered north. Then I trekked east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I trudged east. Then I strode south. Again I sprinted south. Again I trekked south. There was a platypus there. I named it Zoey.

I ambled south. Then I plodded west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I strutted north. Then I ran west. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Elijah.

I shuffled west. Again I shuffled west. Then I stepped south. Then I toddled east. Again I stepped east. There was a beautiful sunflower there. It smelled like blueberries.

I sauntered south. Then I marched west. Then I ran south. Again I toddled south. Then I hiked west. Then I shambled north. Then I strode west. Then I toddled north. Again I sprinted north. Again I stepped north. Again I ran north. There was a beautiful sunglow buttercup there. It smelled like limes.

I went north. Again I meandered north. Then I shambled west. Again I went west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I ambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled south.

Kylee asked Jennifer, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alligator and I'm cold-blooded."

I sprinted south. There was a beautiful yellow orange freesium there. It smelled like huckleberries.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked west. There was a beautiful brick red tansy there. It smelled like canary melons.

I ambled south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I walked south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I hiked north. Again I ambled north. Again I ran north. Then I walked west. Again I ran west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I strode west. Again I trudged west. Then I toddled south. There was a beautiful navy blue lotus flower there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I went south. Then I trudged west. Then I marched north. Again I ran north. Then I sauntered west. Then I ambled south. Then I ran west. Again I ran west. Then I strode north. There was a beautiful yellow crocu there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I strutted east. Then I toddled north. Then I toddled west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I trekked north. Then I toddled west. Then I toddled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered east. Then I shambled south. Then I sprinted east. Then I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded south. There was a beautiful laser lemon sage there. It smelled like tangerines.

I ambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled south. There was a crocodile there. I named it Nicolas.

I meandered east. Again I traipsed east. Then I stepped south. Again I trudged south. Again I walked south. Again I meandered south. Again I ran south. Then I shambled west. Again I plodded west. Then I strode north. There was a porcupine there. I named it Alex. It started following me.

I hoofed it north. There was a beautiful maroon aster there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I shuffled west. Then I went north. Then I ran west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I toddled south. Then I marched west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strutted west. Then I ambled north. Again I meandered north. There was a beautiful spring green heather there. It smelled like ugli fruit.

I paraded east. Then I shuffled north. Then I sprinted west. There was a beautiful bittersweet bellflower there. It smelled like cherries.

I stepped west. Then I plodded south. Again I paraded south. Again I strode south. Then I marched west. Then I meandered north. Again I went north. Again I ran north. Again I hiked north. Again I shuffled north. Then I trekked east. Then I stepped north. Then I trekked west. Then I sprinted north. Again I traipsed north. Again I ambled north. Again I paraded north. Then I traipsed east. Then I paraded north. Then I went east. Again I went east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I sauntered east. Again I shuffled east. Then I sprinted south. Again I paraded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. Then I ambled south. Then I toddled east. Then I ran north. Then I marched east. Then I hiked south. Again I strutted south. Then I marched west. Again I sprinted west. Then I traipsed south. Then I trekked west. Then I shambled south. Then I meandered west. There was a beautiful shamrock azalea there. It smelled like tangerines.

I ran north. Then I plodded west. Then I marched north. Then I shuffled east. Then I sauntered north. Then I shambled west. Again I trudged west. There was a prairie dog there. I named it Zoey.

I paraded west. Then I went south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I paraded south. Again I walked south. Then I ran east. There was a reptile there. I named it Manuel.

I went south. Then I paraded east. Again I sprinted east. Again I plodded east. There was a beautiful wild watermelon primrose there. It smelled like feijoas.

I strode north. There was a beautiful goldenrod mimosa there. It smelled like cranberries.

I hoofed it east. Again I shuffled east. Again I strode east. Then I walked north. Then I shambled east. Again I ran east. There was a goat there. I named it Leslie.

I walked east. There was a beautiful purple mountain's majesty orange blossom there. It smelled like watermelons.

I toddled south. There was a beautiful brick red holly there. It smelled like nuts.

I strode east. Then I hiked south. Again I strutted south. Then I sprinted down a flight of stairs. So far seventeen animals were following me, and I held seventeen flowers. It seemed like I had explored about sixty-six percent of this floor.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

I went down. Again I trekked down. Then I ambled right. Then I toddled down. There was a beautiful blue narcissu there. It smelled like avocadoes. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I stepped down. Again I plodded down. Then I shuffled right. Then I meandered down. Then I shambled left. Again I meandered left. Again I trekked left. Again I meandered left. Again I ambled left. Again I shambled left. Then I marched up. Then I paraded left. Then I toddled up. Then I went right. Then I hiked up. Then I shuffled right. There was a marmoset there. I named it Gabrielle.

I traipsed up. Again I hoofed it up. Again I shambled up. Again I trudged up. Again I trekked up. Then I plodded left. Again I shambled left. Then I paraded up. Then I paraded right. Then I walked up. Then I went right. Then I strutted up. Then I shambled right. Again I sauntered right. Again I paraded right. Then I meandered down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I went right. Then I plodded up. Again I sauntered up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I strode right. Then I stepped up. Then I sauntered right. Then I shuffled up. Then I strutted right. Then I sprinted up. Then I marched right. Then I shambled down. Then I beat cheeks right. There was a beautiful chestnut orchid there. It smelled like olives.

I shambled right. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose hyacinth there. It smelled like cherimoyas.

I stepped down. Then I marched right. Then I hiked down. Again I strode down. The wraith appeared again from the west. This time it looked like Andrew Jackson. Then I sauntered right. Then I marched up. Then I strutted right. Then I strode up. Again I shuffled up. Then I strode right. Then I strode down. Again I strutted down. Again I traipsed down. Then I strode left. Then I plodded down. Then I stepped right. Again I stepped right. Again I sauntered right. There was a porpoise there. I named it Victoria.

I strode right. There was a beautiful shocking pink columbine there. It smelled like cherimoyas.

I trekked down. Then I meandered left. There was a beautiful blue violet freesium there. It smelled like boysenberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I traipsed down. Then I strutted left. There was an elk there. I named it Cesar.

I plodded left. Again I strode left. Then I went up. Then I trudged right. Again I sprinted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped left. Again I walked left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I went right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks left. Then I strutted down.

Cristian asked Isaac, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a koala. I can bite person, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to pull plough!" replied Cristian.

I hoofed it left. Again I sprinted left. There was a woodchuck there. I named it Genesis.

I toddled down. Again I sauntered down. Then I ambled right. Again I meandered right. Then I meandered down. There was a beautiful sky blue ladys slipper there. It smelled like bilberries.

I traipsed left. Again I meandered left. There was a beautiful pink sherbert aster there. It smelled like cucumbers.

I shuffled left. Again I sauntered left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I sprinted right. Then I stepped up. There was a beautiful black hibiscu there. It smelled like pameloes.

I walked up. Then I trudged left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I shuffled left. There was a beautiful denim crocu there. It smelled like strawberries.

I shambled up.

Alex asked Morgan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an impala."

I strode left. Then I plodded down. Again I ambled down. Then I strode left. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I marched down.

Megan asked Alexa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a grizzly bear and I'm fun. I can bark, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Megan.

I hoofed it down. Again I stepped down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I marched right. Then I paraded up. There was a dromedary there. I named it Rachel.

I beat cheeks up. Then I sauntered left. Then I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. There was a beautiful desert sand violet there. It smelled like guavas.

I shambled right. Then I traipsed down. Then I strutted left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged left. Then I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed down. Then I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it left. Again I ran left. Again I meandered left. Then I went down. There was a camel there. I named it Breanna.

I paraded down. Again I walked down. Again I went down. Again I traipsed down. Then I shambled left. Then I traipsed down. Again I walked down. There was a boar there. I named it Jackson.

I trekked left. Then I stepped up. There was a gnu there. I named it Peter.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went right. Again I ambled right. Then I hiked up. Again I traipsed up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded up. Again I trudged up. Again I strutted up. Again I sprinted up. Again I strode up. Again I shambled up. Then I marched left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Then I toddled right. Then I strutted down. Then I shambled right. Again I toddled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I strutted down. There was a beautiful mauvelous chrysantemum there. It smelled like papayas.

I meandered right. Then I paraded up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I sprinted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled up. Then I paraded left. Again I sauntered left. Then I walked down. Then I hiked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I sauntered left. Then I traipsed down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Again I shambled up. Then I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled left. Again I stepped left. There was a beautiful lavender bottlebrush there. It smelled like raisins.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered right. Again I traipsed right. Then I sprinted up. Then I strode right. Then I went down. Again I ambled down. Then I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. Again I traipsed up. Then I strode left. Again I trudged left. Again I went left. Again I marched left. Then I stepped up. Then I sprinted right. Then I traipsed up. Again I hiked up. Then I ambled left. Then I ambled up. Then I hiked left. Again I shuffled left. Again I hiked left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I sauntered left. Again I hiked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked down. Then I sauntered right. Then I sauntered down. There was a beautiful blue green thistle there. It smelled like peaches.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. Again I strutted right. Again I went right. Then I toddled down. There was a beautiful electric lime rosemary there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I hoofed it down. Then I strode right. Then I ambled up. Again I stepped up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted down. Then I sauntered left. Again I sprinted left.

Kylee asked Kaden, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a camel."

I trekked up. Again I shuffled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered down. There was a horse there. I named it Cody.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped left. Again I strode left. Again I strutted left. Then I stepped down. Then I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Again I trekked left. Then I walked up. Then I hoofed it left. Again I trudged left. Again I walked left. Then I ambled down. Again I walked down. Then I hiked left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I traipsed down. Again I ran down. Again I ambled down. Then I walked left. Then I meandered up. Again I walked up. Again I sauntered up. Again I shambled up. Again I shuffled up. Then I stepped right. There was a camel there. I named it Grace.

I sprinted right. There was a dromedary there. I named it Megan.

I sprinted down. Then I hiked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks left. Then I stepped down. Again I traipsed down. Again I went down. Again I hiked down. Again I shambled down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I trudged down. There was a frog there. I named it Cooper.

I ran down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I toddled right. Again I went right. Then I stepped down. Then I paraded left. Then I went down. Again I toddled down. There was a beautiful salmon marigold there. It smelled like watermelons.

I paraded down. Then I plodded left. Then I sprinted up. Again I marched up. Again I paraded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered down. Again I walked down. Again I hoofed it down. There was a beautiful burnt orange hyacinth there. It smelled like lemons. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I trekked right. There was a beautiful salmon primrose there. It smelled like kiwi fruit.

I trekked down. There was a polar bear there. I named it Rebecca.

I stepped down. Then I trekked left. There was a moose there. I named it Zoe.

I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I traipsed down. Then I ran right. Then I shambled down. There was a mustang there. I named it Eli.

I strode down. Then I plodded left. Again I paraded left. Then I ambled up. Then I ran right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged down. Again I walked down. Then I hoofed it right. Again I shambled right. Then I paraded up. Then I ambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered right. Then I hiked down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I paraded up. Then I paraded right. There was a beautiful tropical rain forest bottlebrush there. It smelled like bananas.

I ran right. Again I strutted right. Then I ran up. Then I hiked left. Then I meandered up. Then I ran right. Then I toddled up. Then I shambled left. Then I sauntered up. Again I shambled up. Then I ambled right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I shambled right. Then I strutted down. Then I plodded right. Then I stepped down. Then I went right. Then I shuffled up. Then I strode right. Then I strode down. Again I trekked down. There was a beautiful banana mania clover there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I meandered down. Then I walked right. Then I traipsed up. Then I shuffled right. Then I hiked down. Then I shambled right. Then I shambled down. Then I walked left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I ambled left. Then I strutted down. There was a camel there. I named it Paul.

I sauntered down. Then I sauntered left. Again I trudged left. Again I stepped left. Then I strutted up. Again I meandered up. Then I stepped right. Then I shambled up. Then I shuffled left. Then I trudged up. Then I strode right. Again I hiked right. Then I traipsed down. Again I went down. Again I sauntered down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Then I toddled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it left. Again I toddled left. Again I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Then I trekked up. Then I sprinted right. There was a cat there. I named it Austin.

I shuffled down. Then I sauntered right. Again I hiked right. Then I shambled up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I plodded down. Then I paraded right. Again I shambled right. Again I sauntered right. Again I sauntered right. Again I paraded right. Again I strode right. Then I stepped up. Again I stepped up. Then I marched right. Then I stepped down. Then I stepped right. Then I plodded down. Then I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode up. There was a beautiful white lilac there. It smelled like olives.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched left. There was a toad there. I named it Bryce.

I traipsed left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed up. Again I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Again I traipsed left. Then I walked down. Again I went down. Then I sprinted left. Then I sauntered down. Again I ambled down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I meandered left. Then I strutted up. Again I strutted up. Again I toddled up. Then I shambled left. Then I sprinted up. Then I strutted right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I meandered up. Then I strode left. Again I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted right. Then I shuffled up. Again I trekked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted right. Again I ran right. Again I trekked right. Then I traipsed up. Then I meandered left. Again I shambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful turquoise blue holly there. It smelled like tangerines.

I hiked right. Again I traipsed right. Again I marched right. Again I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went down. Again I trekked down. Then I trekked left. Then I shuffled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. There was a monkey there. I named it Gregory.

I ambled up. Then I sprinted right. Then I sauntered down. Again I plodded down. There was a beautiful purple heart water lily there. It smelled like plums.

I toddled right. Then I sauntered down. Again I shuffled down. Again I strutted down. Then I trekked right. There was a parakeet there. I named it Logan.

I marched right. There was a pig there. I named it Aaron.

I trudged down. Again I strutted down. Then I trudged left. Then I sprinted down. Then I hiked right. Again I traipsed right. There was a beautiful hot magenta water lily there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I toddled up. Then I stepped right. Then I marched down. Then I ambled right. There was a rhinoceros there. I named it Jackson.

I strode down. Then I sauntered left. Then I hiked down. Then I sprinted right. Again I strutted right. Again I toddled right. Then I walked down. Again I hiked down. Again I traipsed down. Then I plodded right. There was a sheep there. I named it Ryan.

I strutted up. Again I walked up. Then I plodded right. Then I shambled down. Then I shuffled right. Then I hiked down. Again I shambled down. Then I sprinted right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I trekked right. There was a beautiful electric lime lotus flower there. It smelled like star fruit.

I meandered right. Then I ran up. Then I paraded right. Again I strutted right. Again I stepped right. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I marched up. Again I hiked up. Again I hiked up. Again I traipsed up. Then I shuffled left. Then I went down. Again I meandered down. Then I meandered left. Again I trudged left. Then I shuffled down. Then I sauntered left. Again I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked down. Then I shuffled right. Then I went down. There was a beautiful apricot orange blossom there. It smelled like kumquats.

I hoofed it left. Again I paraded left. Again I walked left. There was a walrus there. I named it Kennedy.

I plodded down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I meandered up. Then I plodded left. Then I stepped up. Then I strutted left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I traipsed right. Again I toddled right. Then I trudged up. Again I strode up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right.

Isaac asked Evelyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a goat. I can father kid, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to bite person!" replied Isaac.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered right. Again I sprinted right. Then I shambled up. Then I paraded right. Then I paraded up. Then I toddled left. Again I ambled left. Then I stepped up. Then I stepped left. Then I ambled up. Then I trekked left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I traipsed up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful chestnut petunium there. It smelled like tamarilloes. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I trudged up. Then I ambled right. Again I paraded right. Again I toddled right. Again I strutted right. Then I ran down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I shambled up. There was an aardvark there. I named it Collin.

I marched right. Then I traipsed up. Again I strode up.

Isaac asked Jennifer, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alligator and I'm cold-blooded."

I strode up. Then I marched left. Again I hoofed it left. There was a beautiful cornflower rose there. It smelled like currants.

I went up. Then I toddled left. Again I sauntered left. Again I marched left. Again I sauntered left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I ran down. There was a ewe there. I named it Christian.

I traipsed down. Again I strode down. Then I shuffled left. Then I meandered down. Again I shambled down. Again I went down. Then I marched left. Then I plodded up. Then I meandered left. Again I ambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Then I paraded left. Then I strode up. Again I trekked up. Then I shambled left. Again I paraded left. Then I ran down. Then I trekked right. Then I stepped down. Then I meandered left. Then I hiked down. Then I strutted left. Then I trudged down. Again I shambled down. Then I shuffled right. Then I marched up. Then I sauntered right. Again I ambled right. There was a horse there. I named it Laura. It started following me.

I traipsed down. Then I strode left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I ran right. Again I strutted right. Again I strutted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Then I paraded right. Again I marched right. Then I sauntered down. Again I strutted down. Then I trekked left. There was a beautiful shamrock primrose there. It smelled like breadfruits.

I trudged left. Again I went left. Then I marched down a flight of stairs. So far eighteen animals were following me, and I held twenty flowers. It seemed like I had explored about ninety-four percent of this floor.

CHAPTER TWELVE

I hoofed it south. Again I toddled south. Then I shambled east. Then I ran north. Again I paraded north. Again I shuffled north. Then I sprinted west. Then I meandered north. Then I traipsed east. There was a beautiful piggy pink thistle there. It smelled like watermelons.

I meandered north. Then I went west. Then I traipsed north. Then I meandered east. Again I shambled east. Then I walked south. Then I went east. Then I trekked south. Again I paraded south. Again I hiked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched west. Then I sprinted south. Again I sauntered south. Then I ambled east. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a lynx there. I named it Sabrina.

I toddled east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I hiked north. Again I strutted north. Again I strode north. Again I ambled north. Again I marched north. There was a beautiful orange narcissu there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I walked north. Then I shambled east. Then I meandered north. Again I plodded north. Then I went west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I paraded west. Then I marched north. Then I walked west. Again I walked west. There was a beautiful scarlet tulip there. It smelled like loquats.

I plodded south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I trekked west. There was a beautiful granny smith apple tulip there. It smelled like nuts.

I strutted north. Again I walked north. Again I went north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I hiked east. Then I strode north. There was a beautiful electric lime daffodil there. It smelled like honeydews.

I hoofed it west. Again I stepped west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I marched north. Again I hiked north. There was a chinchilla there. I named it Diana.

I ran north. Then I plodded east. Again I strutted east. There was a beautiful blue marjoram there. It smelled like durians.

I strode south. Then I ran west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

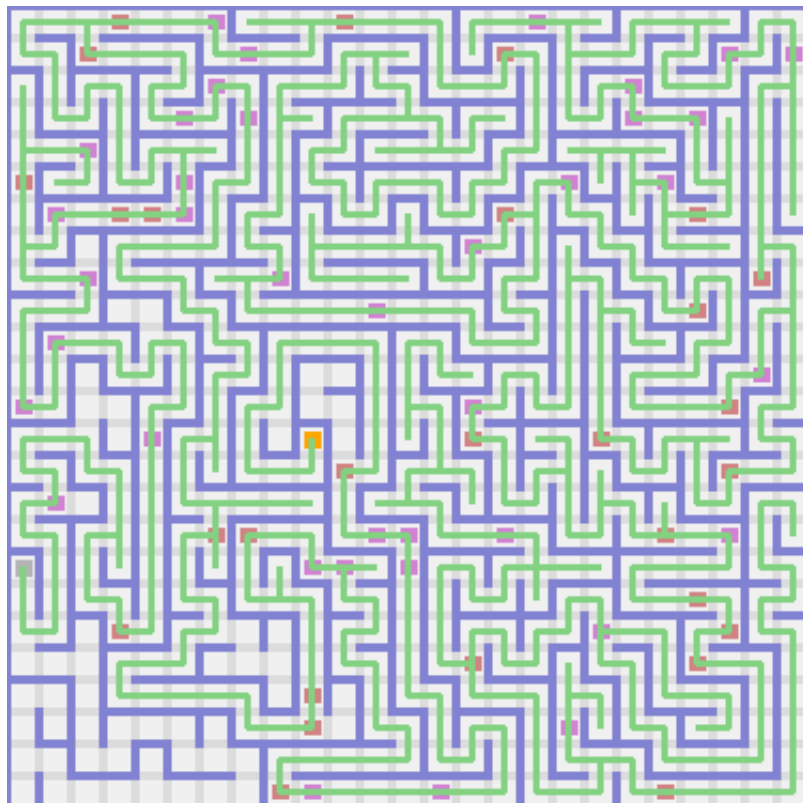

I went east. Then I toddled north. There was a beautiful dandelion ladys slipper there. It smelled like dragonfruits.

I trekked east. Again I trekked east. There was a shrew there. I named it Aubrey.

I sauntered east. There was a crocodile there. I named it Chelsea.

I strode east. There was a beautiful sky blue dahlum there. It smelled like satsumas.

I marched north. There was a beautiful pine green dahlum there. It smelled like currants.

I marched north. Then I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled west. Then I sauntered south. Then I ran west. Then I walked north. Again I ran north. Again I marched north. Then I sauntered west. Then I traipsed south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I marched north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I strode west. Then I sauntered north. Then I ran east. Again I sauntered east. Again I strutted east. There was a frog there. I named it Emma.

I strutted east. Again I traipsed east. Again I marched east. There was a beautiful caribbean green orchid there. It smelled like guavas.

I shuffled south. Then I trudged east. There was a beautiful red rosemary there. It smelled like blueberries.

I stepped east. Again I shambled east. Then I ambled north. Then I plodded west. The phantasm appeared again from the south. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like James Carter. It said, "We become not a melting pot but a beautiful mosaic. Different people, different beliefs, different yearnings, different hopes, different dreams," to me. Again I traipsed west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. There was a beaver there. I named it Mia.

I sprinted east. Again I plodded east. Again I sauntered east. Then I shuffled south. Again I strutted south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I sprinted east. Then I trudged north. There was a leopard there. I named it Madelyn. It started following me.

I plodded east. Then I marched south. Again I sprinted south. Again I meandered south. Then I strode west. Then I walked south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I stepped south. Then I meandered west. Then I strode north. Then I trudged west. Again I marched west. Then I meandered south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I shambled north. Then I shambled west. Then I marched north. Then I trekked east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I went east. Again I ambled east. Then I ambled north. Then I hoofed it west. Then I shambled north. Then I hiked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled west. Then I trudged south. Then I traipsed west. Again I traipsed west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I ran east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted south. Again I plodded south. Again I shambled south. Then I trudged west. Then I shambled south. Then I walked east. Then I shambled south. There was a beautiful bittersweet mimosa there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I sauntered west. Then I trudged south. Then I walked east. Again I sprinted east. Again I traipsed east. Again I toddled east. There was a beautiful apricot hibiscu there. It smelled like cantaloupes.

I walked east. Again I stepped east. Again I trudged east. Then I traipsed south. Then I sprinted east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I trekked north. Then I walked west. Then I ambled north. Then I ran east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I trekked north. Again I shuffled north. Then I ran east. There was a beautiful spring green foxglove there. It smelled like eggplants. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I paraded south. Then I ambled east. Then I stepped south. Then I trudged east. Then I walked south. Then I stepped east. Then I ambled south. Then I shuffled east. There was a hedgehog there. I named it Brayden.

I ambled north. Then I walked east. Then I plodded south. Again I strutted south. Then I sprinted west.

Natalie asked Kaden, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a camel."

I beat cheeks south. Then I meandered west. Again I paraded west. Then I walked south. Then I hoofed it east. Again I hiked east. Again I ambled east. There was a muskrat there. I named it Nicholas.

I strutted north. Then I shuffled east. There was a beautiful blue ladys slipper there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I ambled north. Again I meandered north. Then I toddled east. Then I shambled north. Again I shambled north. Then I meandered west. Then I toddled north. Again I ambled north. Again I strode north. Again I toddled north. Again I paraded north. Then I trekked east. Then I beat cheeks north. There was a beautiful pink flamingo freesium there. It smelled like canary melons.

I traipsed north. Then I strode west. Then I paraded south. Then I hiked west. There was a beautiful caribbean green crocu there. It smelled like rock melons.

I walked south. Then I went west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I trudged north. Then I walked east. Then I stepped north. Then I sprinted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Again I went west. Then I shambled south. Then I traipsed west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I sauntered north. Then I paraded west. There was a beautiful wild strawberry clover there. It smelled like kumquats.

I stepped west. Again I traipsed west. Then I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran south. Again I plodded south. Then I shambled east. Then I traipsed north.

Kylee asked Madelyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

I strutted east. There was a beautiful magenta marigold there. It smelled like physaliss.

I plodded south. There was a beautiful gray snapdragon there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I hiked east. Again I sauntered east. There was a beautiful pink flamingo foxglove there. It smelled like blueberries.

I sauntered south. Again I shambled south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I ambled south. Then I strode west. There was a cat there. I named it Caden.

I meandered west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I walked east. Again I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted north. There was a beautiful periwinkle rhododendron there. It smelled like breadfruits.

I toddled west. Then I strode north. Then I plodded west. Again I shuffled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled north. Again I stepped north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed south. Again I stepped south. Again I trudged south. Again I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. There was a ferret there. I named it Brittany.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks south. Again I strutted south. Again I strode south. Then I plodded west. Then I sprinted south. Then I meandered east. Then I walked south. Then I sauntered west. Again I strutted west. There was a lizard there. I named it Tiffany.

I ran south. Then I stepped west. Then I shuffled north. Again I trudged north. Then I ran west. Then I paraded south. Then I walked west. Then I traipsed north. Then I plodded west. There was a dog there. I named it Damian.

I ran north. Again I hiked north. Again I hiked north. Again I meandered north. Again I hiked north. Then I sprinted west. Then I hiked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode south. Again I ran south. Again I strutted south. Again I marched south. Then I stepped west. Then I sprinted north. Then I hoofed it west. Then I walked south. Then I sauntered west. There was a beautiful peach bergamot there. It smelled like plums.

I traipsed south. There was a bat there. I named it Connor.

I traipsed east. Then I strutted south. Again I walked south. Then I went east. Then I went north. Then I paraded east. Then I toddled south. Again I hiked south. Then I shambled east. Then I traipsed north. Then I went east. Then I hiked south. Then I sprinted east. There was a donkey there. I named it Chloe.

I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Again I sauntered east. There was a beautiful chestnut carnation there. It smelled like loquats. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shambled south. Then I marched west. Again I walked west. Again I ambled west. Then I meandered south. Then I ambled east. Again I stepped east. There was a silver fox there. I named it Max.

I beat cheeks east. Then I shambled south. There was a rabbit there. I named it Charles. It started following me.

I traipsed west. Then I traipsed south. There was a dromedary there. I named it Melanie. It started following me.

I trekked east. Again I strutted east. Then I went south. Again I hiked south. Again I strutted south. Then I walked west. Again I ran west. Again I paraded west. Then I paraded north. Then I strode west. Then I traipsed north. Again I toddled north. Then I shambled west. Then I hiked north. There was a beautiful neon carrot thistle there. It smelled like pameloes.

I trudged east. Again I ambled east. Then I hiked south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I stepped east. Again I traipsed east. Then I plodded south. Then I paraded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Then I marched west. Then I hiked south. Then I meandered west. Then I stepped south. Then I strode west. Then I paraded north. Then I shambled west. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a tapir there. I named it Lilly.

I ran west. Then I trudged north. Again I went north. Again I plodded north. Then I shuffled east. Then I strutted south. Then I sprinted east. Then I walked north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I trudged south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. Again I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. Then I ran west. There was a beautiful lavender gerbera daisy there. It smelled like damsons.

I went west. Again I stepped west. Then I marched north. Then I trekked west. Then I strutted north. Then I shuffled east. Then I toddled north. Again I paraded north. Then I strutted west. Then I shuffled north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I meandered east. Then I strutted south. Then I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. Then I trekked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I shambled east. Again I traipsed east. Then I traipsed south. Again I paraded south. Again I sauntered south. Then I toddled east. Again I shuffled east. Then I sprinted north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I plodded north. There was a beautiful pink flamingo buttercup there. It smelled like canary melons.

I strode north. Then I paraded east. Then I trudged south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode east. Then I plodded south. Then I strutted east. There was a tiger there. I named it Cameron.

I walked east. Again I sprinted east. Again I trudged east. Again I beat cheeks east.

Isaac asked Trinity, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a monkey and I'm funny. I have a nose and I can throw thing, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to eat eucalyptus!" replied Isaac.

I sprinted north. Again I ambled north. Again I paraded north. Again I strutted north. Again I sprinted north. Then I marched west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I traipsed north. Then I stepped west. Then I sauntered north. Again I ran north. Then I went east. Then I hiked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Then I traipsed west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. Then I strode south. Then I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled west. There was an aardvark there. I named it Valerie.

I sprinted south. Then I traipsed west. There was a beautiful lavender dahlia there. It smelled like grapes.

I traipsed south. Then I ambled west. Then I plodded north. Then I marched west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. Again I went west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I traipsed east. Again I strutted east. Again I toddled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strutted west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. Then I went north. Then I stepped east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. There was an alligator there. I named it Laura. It started following me.

I trekked east. Again I ambled east. Again I marched east. Then I plodded south. Then I shuffled west. Then I toddled south. Then I ambled east. There was a beautiful fern anemone there. It smelled like cherimoyas. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I hiked east. Then I hoofed it north. There was a beautiful apricot primrose there. It smelled like papayas.

I shuffled east. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a beautiful shamrock azalea there. It smelled like watermelons.

I sprinted south. Again I went south. Then I shambled west. Then I ambled south. Again I marched south. Then I stepped west. Again I trekked west. Again I strode west. Then I went south. Then I trudged east. Again I strutted east. Then I trekked south. Then I sauntered east. Then I sauntered south. Then I strutted east. Then I plodded south. Then I trekked west. Then I trudged south. Again I went south. Again I toddled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. Then I shambled south. Again I trekked south.

Caitlyn asked Laura, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alligator and I'm cold-blooded."

I hoofed it east. Again I shambled east. Again I shuffled east. Again I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled south. There was a chameleon there. I named it Olivia.

I toddled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west.

Giselle asked Ryan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a puma."

I went south. Again I toddled south. Then I stepped east. Then I strutted south. Then I trudged west. Then I shuffled south. Then I shambled west. Again I trekked west. Then I stepped south. Then I toddled east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I hiked east. Again I traipsed east. Then I marched south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I stepped east. There was a fox there. I named it Destiny.

I shambled north. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Vanessa. It started following me.

I marched north. Again I strode north. Again I ambled north. Then I meandered west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked west. Then I trudged north. Again I trekked north. There was a crow there. I named it Reagan.

I paraded east. Again I ran east. Then I ran south. There was a beautiful wild strawberry water lily there. It smelled like canary melons.

I beat cheeks east. There was a beautiful pink flamingo thistle there. It smelled like limes.

I sprinted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I traipsed south. Then I sauntered west. Then I went south. Then I ran east. Then I hiked south. Again I stepped south. Then I paraded east. Then I strode south. Then I traipsed west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I sprinted west. Again I walked west. Then I trudged south. There was an aardvark there. I named it Xavier.

I shuffled east. There was a beautiful cotton candy buttercup there. It smelled like durians.

I hoofed it east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I meandered east. Again I meandered east. There was a beautiful gold rhododendron there. It smelled like damsons.

I toddled east. Again I trekked east. Then I went north. Again I strutted north. Then I trekked west. Then I marched south. Then I strode west. Then I shuffled north.

Trinity asked Alexa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a grizzly bear and I'm fun. I can bark, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to throw thing!" replied Trinity.

I ambled north. Then I walked west. Then I stepped north. Again I paraded north. Again I walked north. Again I ran north. There was a beautiful wisteria lily there. It smelled like cherimoyas.

I beat cheeks north. There was a beautiful outrageous orange bergamot there. It smelled like quinces.

I strode west. There was a beautiful bittersweet begonium there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I beat cheeks west. Then I stepped north. Again I trudged north. There was a panther there. I named it Elijah. It started following me.

I walked east. Then I ran north. Again I strutted north. Again I traipsed north. Again I stepped north. Then I stepped west. Again I shambled west. Again I marched west. Then I walked south. Again I meandered south. Then I shambled west. Then I ambled south. Again I ambled south. Then I trudged east. Again I meandered east. Then I hoofed it down a flight of stairs. Isaac the koala stopped following me for some reason.

So far twenty-three animals were following me, and I held twenty-two flowers. It seemed like I had explored about ninety-one percent of this floor.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

I strutted up. Then I walked left. Again I went left. There was a beautiful brick red tulip there. It smelled like loquats.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran up. Again I ran up. Again I sauntered up. Then I shambled right. Then I traipsed down. Then I hoofed it right. Again I walked right. Again I stepped right. Then I ambled up. Then I shuffled right. Then I hoofed it up. Again I went up. There was a shrew there. I named it Bailey. It started following me.

I plodded right. Then I sauntered down. Then I paraded right. Again I sauntered right. There was a puma there. I named it Landon.

I hiked down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I went right. Then I traipsed down. Then I sauntered left. Then I sauntered down. Then I went right. Then I ran down. Again I plodded down. Then I went left. Then I strode up. Then I shuffled left. Then I trekked up. Then I walked left. Then I strode up. Then I strutted right. Then I ran up. Again I beat cheeks up. There was a snake there. I named it Molly.

I beat cheeks left. Then I meandered down. Then I ambled left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I hiked down. Then I shuffled left. Then I ambled up. There was a beautiful vivid violet bird of paradise there. It smelled like redcurrants. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I stepped left. Then I shambled down. Then I toddled left. Then I plodded up. Then I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

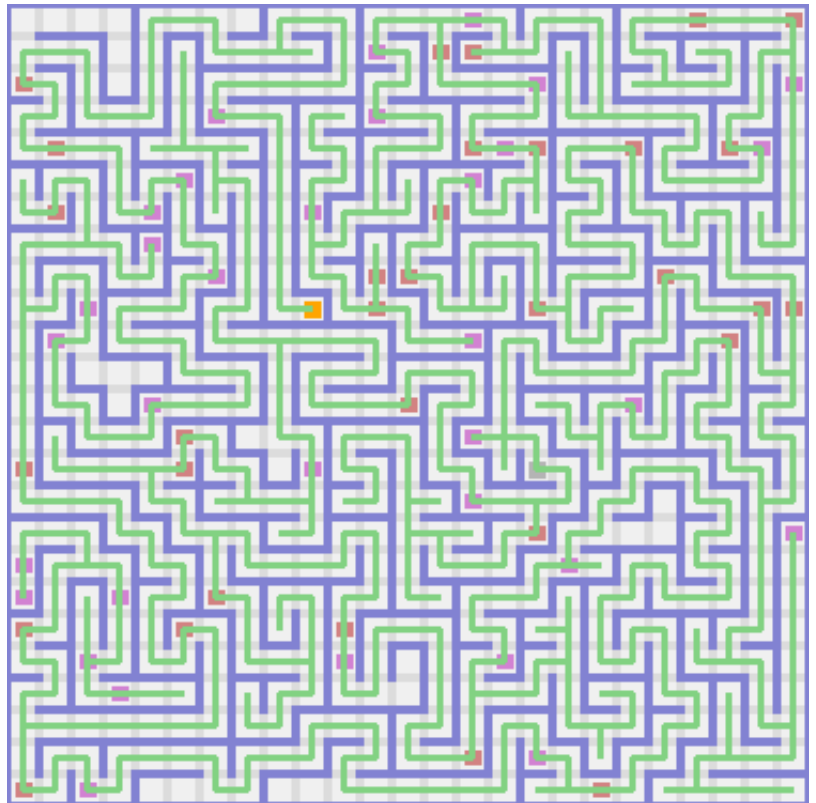

I trudged down. Again I stepped down. Again I meandered down. Again I meandered down. Then I stepped left. Then I trekked down. Then I marched left. Then I meandered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Then I toddled down. Again I sprinted down. Then I ran right. Then I meandered down. Then I walked left. Again I ran left. Again I strutted left. Then I shuffled down. Then I marched left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Again I shuffled right. Again I trudged right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Again I ambled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Again I plodded up. Again I traipsed up. Again I went up. Again I toddled up. Again I shambled up. There was a beautiful wisteria petunium there. It smelled like mangoes.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it up. Again I meandered up. There was a chameleon there. I named it Alondra.

I hiked up. Then I trekked left. Again I plodded left. Then I shuffled up. Again I marched up. Then I went left. Then I sprinted down. Then I trekked left. Then I walked up. Then I strode left. Then I ran up. Again I trekked up. There was an alligator there. I named it Mariah.

I hiked left. Again I stepped left. Then I hiked down. Then I toddled right. Then I toddled down. Then I hiked left. Then I strutted down. Then I strode right. Again I meandered right. Then I toddled down. Then I walked left. Again I marched left. Then I sauntered down. Again I trekked down. Then I shambled right. Then I walked up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled left. There was an ocelot there. I named it Charlotte.

I traipsed up. Again I strode up. Then I ran left. Again I sprinted left. Then I traipsed down. Again I hiked down. Then I hiked left. Then I hiked up. Then I trudged left. There was a muskrat there. I named it Jennifer. It started following me.

I sprinted up. Then I shuffled right. Then I went up. There was a monkey there. I named it Maya. It started following me.

I trudged up. Then I traipsed right. There was a beautiful pink flamingo anemone there. It smelled like huckleberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I meandered down. Then I plodded right. The haunt appeared again from the south. This time it looked like Andrew Johnson. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I meandered right. Then I traipsed down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. There was a lamb there. I named it Peter.

I trekked left. There was a beautiful blush amaranth there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I ambled left. There was a hyena there. I named it Layla.

I ambled up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I traipsed right. Then I strode up. There was a beautiful macaroni and cheese orchid there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I meandered left. Again I strode left. Again I sprinted left. Then I hiked up. There was a skunk there. I named it Christina.

I stepped up. Then I marched left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I went down. There was a beautiful beaver jasmine there. It smelled like mandarines.

I beat cheeks right.

Trinity asked Giselle, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an elk. I have a beautiful antler."

I trudged down. Then I sauntered left. Then I sprinted down. There was a beautiful razzmatazz tansy there. It smelled like strawberries.

I traipsed right. Again I shuffled right. Then I sauntered down. Then I ran left. Again I trekked left. Then I plodded down. Again I ambled down. Then I trekked left. Then I ambled down. Then I shuffled left. Then I ran down. Then I ran right. Then I trudged down. Then I meandered right. There was a turtle there. I named it Henry.

I hiked right. Then I paraded down. Then I hiked right. Again I plodded right. There was a beautiful goldenrod chrysanthemum there. It smelled like pomegranates.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded up. There was a bear there. I named it Diana.

I sauntered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped up. There was a beautiful pink flamingo baby's breath there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I stepped up. Then I paraded right. Then I ran up. Then I hiked left. Then I hiked up. Then I went right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched right. Then I went up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went right. There was a beautiful almond tansy there. It smelled like kiwi fruit.

I trudged right. Then I strode down. Then I walked left. There was a grizzly bear there. I named it Garrett.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Then I toddled up. Then I traipsed right. Again I ran right. Then I paraded down. Again I shambled down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I stepped left.

Morgan asked Jennifer, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alligator and I'm carnivorous."

I went up. Again I sauntered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged right. Again I trekked right. Again I traipsed right. Then I plodded down. Then I sauntered left. Then I trudged down. Then I ran right. Again I plodded right. Again I sprinted right. Then I meandered up. There was a beautiful magenta rhododendron there. It smelled like guavas.

I ambled left. There was a bear there. I named it George. It started following me.

I shuffled up. Then I trudged right. Then I went up. Again I sprinted up. Then I shuffled right. Then I stepped down. There was a beautiful tumbleweed lady's slipper there. It smelled like canary melons. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I sprinted down. Again I toddled down. Again I traipsed down. Again I shuffled down. Again I plodded down. Then I hiked left. Then I went up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled up. There was a jaguar there. I named it Alexis.

I hoofed it left. Again I marched left. Again I paraded left. There was a wildcat there. I named it Danielle.

I beat cheeks left. Again I trekked left. Then I hiked down. Then I plodded right. Then I walked down. Then I traipsed right. Again I trekked right. Then I meandered up. Then I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I walked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode down. Then I trudged right. Then I strutted down. Then I ran left. Then I trudged down. There was a lamb there. I named it Alejandro.

I ambled left. Then I plodded down. Then I stepped left. Again I shuffled left. Then I went up.

Melanie asked Alexa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a grizzly bear and I'm good. I can bark, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Melanie.

I ran left. Then I traipsed down. Again I went down. Then I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered up. Then I ambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Again I trudged up. Then I trekked left. Again I trekked left. Then I toddled down. Then I strutted right. Then I trekked down. Then I ambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks left. Again I meandered left. There was a beautiful granny smith apple columbine there. It smelled like currants. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I sprinted up. Then I marched left. Then I stepped up. Again I went up. Then I strode right. Then I trekked up. Then I shuffled left. Again I sauntered left. Then I toddled down. There was a badger there. I named it Isaiah. It started following me.

I plodded left. Again I shuffled left. Again I paraded left. Then I paraded up. Then I strode right. Again I stepped right. Then I ran up. Then I trekked left. Again I paraded left. Again I toddled left. Again I meandered left. Again I ambled left. Then I sauntered up. Then I strutted right. Then I ran up. Again I walked up. Again I plodded up. Again I toddled up. Then I trekked left. Then I sprinted up. Then I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Then I sauntered up. Again I ambled up. Again I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered down. Again I plodded down. Again I beat cheeks down.

Elijah asked Evelyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a goat. I can father kid, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Elijah.

I toddled right. Then I marched down. There was a beautiful blue green jasmine there. It smelled like raspberries.

I trekked down. Again I sprinted down. Then I toddled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Again I marched left. Again I walked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed up. Then I walked left. Then I ambled up. Then I trudged left. There was a cat there. I named it Hailey.

I hiked down. There was an orangutan there. I named it Thomas. It started following me.

I toddled left. Again I marched left. Again I strode left. Again I toddled left. Then I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled down. Then I marched right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I strutted right. Then I stepped down. Again I toddled down. There was a cat there. I named it Melissa. It started following me.

I trudged right. Then I trekked down. Again I shambled down. Then I plodded right. Again I sauntered right. Then I plodded down. Then I strode left. Then I trudged down. Then I ran left. Then I shambled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged up. Again I trudged up. Then I shuffled left. Then I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged right. Then I trekked down. Then I marched right. Again I meandered right. Again I hiked right. Then I ambled up. Then I stepped right. Then I hoofed it down. Again I marched down. Then I trekked left. Then I toddled down. There was a jaguar there. I named it Jacob.

I ran down. There was a beautiful olive green marjoram there. It smelled like plums.

I hoofed it down. Then I went right. Then I trekked up. Again I stepped up. Then I trekked right. Again I sprinted right. Then I ran down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I strutted left. Then I traipsed down. Then I sauntered right. Again I beat cheeks right. There was a mynah bird there. I named it Lucas.

I sprinted up. Again I sprinted up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I went up. Then I shuffled right. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I sauntered down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I ambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Then I paraded up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Then I plodded left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Then I sprinted right. There was a beautiful mahogany lilac there. It smelled like pineapples.

I stepped up. Then I shambled left. Then I ambled up. Then I paraded right. Again I stepped right. Then I strode up. Then I strutted right. There was a beautiful wisteria lilac there. It smelled like bilberries.

I walked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it up. Then I plodded right. Then I stepped up.

Laura asked Alexa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a grizzly bear and I'm good. I can bark, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Laura.

I strode right. Then I trekked up. Then I trekked right.

Thomas asked Jennifer, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a muskrat."

I ambled right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I toddled right. Then I ambled down. Then I ran left. Then I stepped down. Then I ran right. Then I went down. Then I plodded left. Again I trudged left. Then I stepped up. Then I walked left. Then I toddled down. Then I sauntered left. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I strutted down. Then I walked right. Then I meandered up.

Then I plodded right. Then I ran down. Again I trekked down. Then I traipsed right. Then I hiked down. Then I traipsed left. Then I trudged down. Then I toddled left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I marched left. There was a muskrat there. I named it Nicolas.

I marched left. Again I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped up. Then I hoofed it left. There was a beautiful violet red freesium there. It smelled like mandarines.

I sauntered up. Then I sprinted left. Then I sprinted down. Again I ran down. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I hiked left. Again I ran left. Again I ambled left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I toddled up. Then I strutted right. Then I hiked up. Then I shuffled left. Again I stepped left. Then I strode down. Then I went left. Again I strutted left. Then I shuffled down. Then I shuffled left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I meandered left. Again I plodded left. Again I sauntered left. Then I ambled down. Then I beat cheeks left. There was a beautiful piggy pink mimosa there. It smelled like cloudberryes.

I traipsed up. Then I walked left. Then I ambled down. Then I shambled left. There was a leopard there. I named it Daisy.

I shuffled up. Again I sauntered up. Again I trudged up. Then I walked right. Then I strutted up. Then I meandered left. Then I hoofed it up. There was a seal there. I named it Kaden. It started following me.

I marched right. Then I strode up. Again I marched up. Then I sprinted right. Again I shuffled right. Then I went down. There was a beautiful aquamarine crocu there. It smelled like cucumbers.

I ran down. Again I hiked down. Then I paraded left. There was a beautiful olive green freesium there. It smelled like blackberries.

I stepped up. Again I paraded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped down. Then I trudged right. There was a beautiful robin's egg blue edelweis there. It smelled like blueberries.

I paraded right. Again I ran right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. Then I shambled left. Again I ran left. Then I paraded down. There was a beautiful pink flamingo hyacinth there. It smelled like cantaloupes.

I hiked down. There was a beautiful blue bell dahlum there. It smelled like kiwi fruit.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it right. Again I plodded right. Again I strutted right. Again I ambled right. Again I meandered right. Again I strode right. Then I strutted up. Again I meandered up. Again I shambled up. Then I walked left. There was a gorilla there. I named it Lindsey.

I shuffled down. Then I sprinted left. Then I traipsed up. Again I meandered up. Then I shambled right. Then I walked up. Then I walked left. Then I strode up. Then I shuffled left. Then I went up. Then I ran left. Again I hiked left. Again I shuffled left. Then I went up. There was an antelope there. I named it Preston.

I sprinted up. Again I shuffled up. Again I strutted up. Again I strode up. Again I sprinted up. Again I ran up. Again I toddled up. Then I toddled right. Again I ambled right. Then I paraded up. Again I sprinted up. Then I strode left. Then I traipsed down. There was a lamb there. I named it Sofia.

I trekked left. Then I shambled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched right. Then I marched down. Then I stepped right. Then I ran up. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose peony there. It smelled like ugli fruit. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Then I marched up. Then I trudged right. Then I strutted down. There was a beautiful tan thyme there. It smelled like bilberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted good.

I toddled down. Then I sprinted left. There was a beautiful laser lemon violet there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I traipsed down. Again I trudged down. Then I ambled right. Then I stepped down. Then I sprinted right. Again I ran right. Then I meandered up. There was a beautiful wisteria columbine there. It smelled like canary melons.

I shuffled right. Again I toddled right. Again I toddled right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hiked left. Again I strode left. Then I hiked up. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I ambled left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I marched right. Again I strode right. Then I trudged up. Then I sauntered right. There was a beautiful blue snapdragon there. It smelled like lychees.

I strutted up. Then I sprinted left. Then I ambled up. Again I ambled up. There was a beautiful blue green rosemary there. It smelled like gooseberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I strode left. Then I strutted down. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose marjoram there. It smelled like feijoas.

I traipsed left. Then I trekked up. Again I traipsed up. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I trekked left. There was a dingo there. I named it Bailey.

I toddled left. Then I shambled up. Then I toddled right. Then I traipsed up. Then I traipsed left. There was a gazelle there. I named it Micah.

I hiked up. Then I plodded right. Again I stepped right. Then I ran down. Again I walked down. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I stepped right. Then I sauntered up. Again I went up. Again I hiked up. Then I ran right. Again I ran right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I marched right. Again I ambled right. Again I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went up. Then I ran right. Again I shuffled right. Then I meandered down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I plodded left. Again I ambled left. Again I ran left. Again I shambled left. Then I strutted down. There was a beautiful apricot dahlia there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I paraded right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I trekked down. Again I stepped down. Again I strutted down. Again I ran down. Again I paraded down. Again I plodded down. Then I sprinted down a flight of stairs. Abby the lamb stopped following me for some reason.

So far thirty animals were following me, and I held twenty-six flowers. It seemed like I had explored about ninety-six percent of this floor.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

I trudged north. Then I trudged west. Then I ambled south. Then I strutted west. Then I ambled north. Again I trudged north. Then I trekked east. Again I ambled east. Then I shuffled north. Again I marched north. Then I ambled west. Again I meandered west. Then I hiked south. Then I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Again I shuffled south. Then I meandered west. The shade appeared again from the north. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like Franklin Roosevelt. Again I went west. Again I shambled west. Again I ran west. Again I stepped west. Again I strutted west. Again I trekked west. Again I marched west. Then I trudged north. Then I shambled west. Then I paraded south. Then I plodded west. Again I hiked west. Again I walked east. Then I plodded north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I meandered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. Then I ambled south. There was a sheep there. I named it Cheyenne.

I ambled west. Again I paraded west. Again I sauntered west. Again I paraded west. Again I ran west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Then I ambled east. There was a beautiful fuzzy wuzzy marjoram there. It smelled like eggplants.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. There was a beautiful sky blue azalea there. It smelled like blackberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I strode north. Then I walked east. Then I trekked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it north. Then I trudged west. Again I toddled west. Again I strutted west. Again I paraded west. There was a beautiful plum clover there. It smelled like apricots.

I trudged north. Again I meandered north. There was a ram there. I named it Leah.

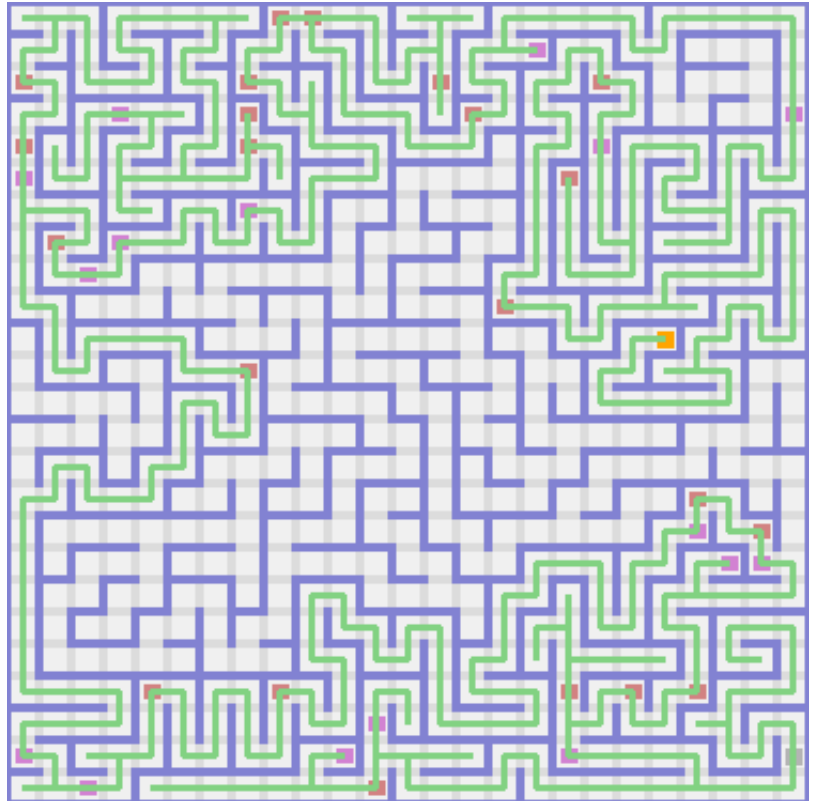

I ambled north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. Then I marched south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode east. Again I marched east. Again I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered east. Then I walked north. Then I ambled east. There was a walrus there. I named it Alejandro.

I paraded south. Then I strutted east. Then I went north. Then I sauntered east. There was a panda there. I named it Ana.

I toddled north. Again I strode north. Then I meandered west. Then I ambled north. Then I walked east. Then I trudged north. Then I sprinted east. There was a beautiful cotton candy irl there. It smelled like satsumas.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. Again I toddled east. Again I ran east. Then I sauntered north. Then I plodded west. There was a beautiful pacific blue petunium there. It smelled like papayas. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I trekked north. There was a gila monster there. I named it Kaylee.

I shuffled west. Then I plodded north. Then I went west. There was a goat there. I named it Mark.

I meandered south. There was a beautiful eggplant lily there. It smelled like oranges.

I ran west. Then I shambled south. Then I toddled west. Then I ran south. Again I ran south. Then I shambled west. Then I hoofed it north. Again I meandered north. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I went west. Then I ran south. Then I shuffled west. Then I ambled south. Again I strutted south. Then I hiked west. Then I traipsed south. Then I strode east. Again I sauntered east. Then I beat cheeks south.

Elijah asked Jennifer, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alligator and I'm cold-blooded."

I hoofed it west. Again I ambled west. Again I hiked west.

Bailey asked Madelyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

I trekked north. Again I walked north. Again I traipsed north. Then I trekked west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strode west. Then I traipsed north. Then I stepped west. Then I paraded north. Then I plodded west. Then I stepped south. Again I shuffled south. Then I traipsed east. Then I sauntered south. Again I plodded south. Then I stepped west. Then I marched north. Then I hiked west. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Oliver.

I trekked south. Again I strode south. Then I trudged west. Then I paraded north. Again I strode north.

Caitlyn asked Trinity, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a monkey and I'm funny. I have a nose and I can throw thing, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to drink water!" replied Caitlyn.

I sauntered west. Then I sauntered south. Again I paraded south. Then I toddled west. Then I traipsed north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I trudged west. There was a turtle there. I named it Jason.

I ran south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded south. Then I sauntered west. There was a beautiful screamin' green camellia there. It smelled like passionfruits. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I sprinted west. Again I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted north. Then I meandered west. There was a beautiful fern daisy there. It smelled like goji berries.

I stepped north. Then I stepped east. Again I strutted east. Again I traipsed east. Then I toddled north. Then I trekked west. Again I paraded west. Again I marched west. Then I paraded north. Again I went north. Again I sprinted north. Again I ambled north. Again I walked north. Again I sprinted north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I shambled north. Then I toddled east. Then I shambled south. Then I meandered east. Again I meandered east. Then I sauntered north. Then I marched east. Then I traipsed north. Again I sprinted north. Then I ran east. Then I sauntered south. Then I trudged east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I stepped north. There was a silver fox there. I named it Rylee.

I went west. Again I ran west. Then I stepped north. Then I meandered west. Again I traipsed west. Again I trudged west. Then I shambled south. Then I shambled west. Then I traipsed north. Again I hiked north. Then I sprinted west. Then I strode north. Again I shuffled north. Again I ran north. Again I trekked north. There was a beautiful blue green narcissu there. It smelled like pameloes.

I sauntered north. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Giovanni.

I stepped north. Then I plodded east. Then I shuffled north. Then I traipsed west. There was a silver fox there. I named it Cooper.

I toddled north. Then I toddled east. Then I shambled north. Then I stepped east. Then I stepped south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I ambled east. Again I strutted east. Then I strutted north. Then I stepped west. Then I trekked north. Then I went east. Again I shambled east. Again I toddled east. Again I hiked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran south. Then I paraded west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strode east. Then I toddled south. Again I walked south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I toddled south. Then I paraded east. Again I hiked east. Then I beat cheeks north. There was an antelope there. I named it Angelica.

I beat cheeks east. Then I sprinted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched north. There was a gila monster there. I named it Valerie.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged west. Again I ran west. Then I sauntered north. Then I trudged east. Then I traipsed north. Then I walked west. There was a beautiful bittersweet carnation there. It smelled like nuts.

I ambled west. Then I toddled south. Again I went south. Then I sauntered west. Then I trudged north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. Then I ran east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode east. Again I went east. Then I shuffled south. Then I hoofed it west. There was an elephant there. I named it Gracie.

I hiked south. Then I traipsed east. There was a beautiful cerulean thistle there. It smelled like loquats.

I plodded east. Then I ambled north. There was a beautiful almond azalea there. It smelled like nuts.

I ambled east. Again I ran east. Then I shuffled north. Then I traipsed east. Then I meandered south. Then I strutted east. Then I plodded north. There was a beautiful blue bell sage there. It smelled like gooseberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted terrible.

I hiked east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I sprinted east. Then I sprinted north. Again I sprinted north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I hiked east. Then I sauntered north. Then I paraded west. Again I ambled west. Then I hoofed it north. Again I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Then I trudged north. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a silver fox there. I named it Taylor. It started following me.

I strode north. Then I stepped east. Then I strode north. There was a bison there. I named it Blake.

I marched east. There was a hedgehog there. I named it Ava.

I paraded east. Again I toddled east. Then I shuffled south. Again I paraded south. Then I marched east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I walked east. Then I shambled south. There was a wolf there. I named it Aaliyah.

I stepped south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted north. Then I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered south. Then I strode east. Then I marched south. Again I strode south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I traipsed east. Then I marched south. Then I marched east. Again I shambled east. Then I trekked north. There was a gnu there. I named it Mario.

I sprinted east. Then I trudged north. Then I sauntered west. Then I trekked north. Then I sauntered east. Again I hiked east. There was a beautiful robin's egg blue edelweis there. It smelled like nectarines. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped north. Then I shambled east. Again I walked east. Again I went east. Again I sauntered east. Then I ambled south. Then I ran east. Then I traipsed north. Then I ambled east. Again I plodded east. Again I traipsed east. Again I strode east. Then I sprinted south. Again I plodded south. Again I sprinted south. There was a beautiful apricot freesium there. It smelled like quinces.

I hiked south. Again I toddled south. Then I trudged west. Then I meandered north. Then I sauntered west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I plodded south. Again I sprinted south. Then I shuffled west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Again I stepped west. Then I went north. Then I hiked east. Then I sauntered north. Then I toddled west. Again I toddled west. Then I sauntered south. Again I went south. Again I strutted south. Again I paraded south. Then I shambled west. Again I paraded west. Then I strode north. Again I ambled north. Again I meandered north. There was a horse there. I named it George.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched west. Then I shambled north. Again I strode north. Again I walked north. There was a beautiful navy blue aster there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I walked north. Then I sauntered east. Then I marched north. Then I toddled west. There was an impala there. I named it Gabriella.

I shuffled north. Then I stepped west. Then I plodded south. Then I marched west. Then I paraded south. Then I sprinted east. Then I paraded south. Then I trekked west. Then I meandered south. Again I ambled south. Again I paraded south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I marched west. Then I ambled south. There was a gnu there. I named it Samantha.

I trudged east. Again I shuffled east. Then I shuffled south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I traipsed east. Again I hiked east. Again I strutted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. Then I meandered east. Again I toddled east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I ambled north. Then I meandered east. Then I marched south. Again I strode south. Again I ran south. Again I sauntered south. Then I meandered west. Then I shuffled north. Then I toddled west. Then I shuffled south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I traipsed south. Then I plodded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. Then I strode south. Then I hiked west. Again I walked west. Again I ran west. Again I traipsed west. Then I stepped north. Then I marched east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I meandered down a flight of stairs. Melanie the dromedary stopped following me for some reason.

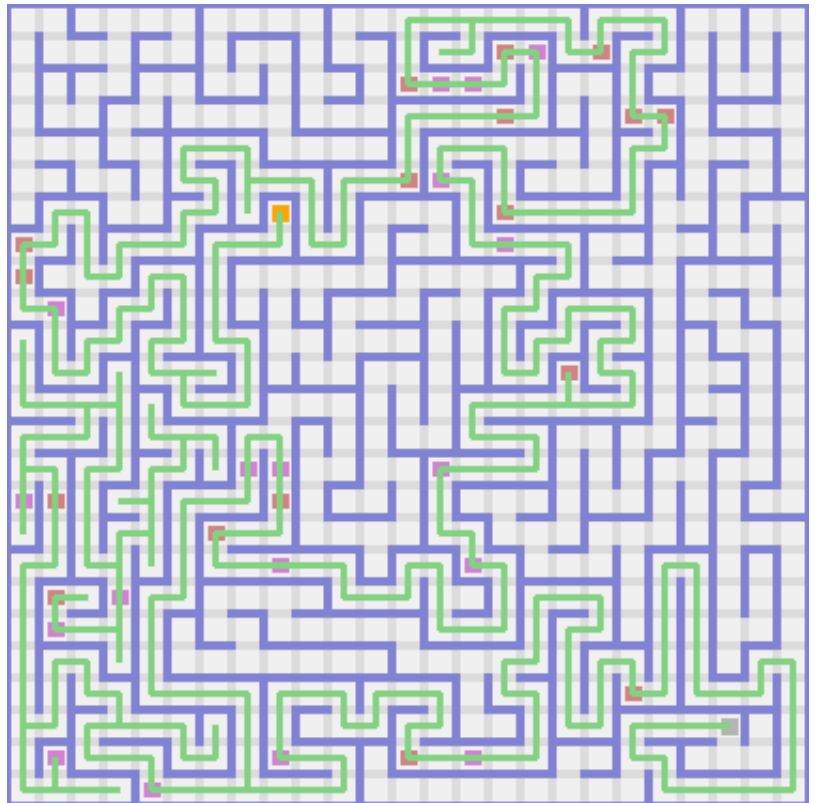

So far thirty animals were following me, and I held twenty-nine flowers. It seemed like I had explored about sixty-four percent of this floor.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

I trekked left. Again I stepped left. Again I stepped left. Then I ran down. Then I sauntered right. Then I toddled down. Then I trudged right. Again I shambled right. Again I shambled right. Again I toddled right. Then I trudged up. Again I meandered up. Again I ambled up. Again I trekked up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I hiked down. Then I strutted left. Again I stepped left. Then I meandered up. Again I shuffled up. Again I strutted up. Again I strutted up. Then I plodded left. Then I sauntered down. Again I strode down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I toddled down. The specter appeared again from the east. This time it looked like Andrew Johnson. Then I shambled left. There was a silver fox there. I named it Devon.

I shuffled up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I strutted down. Again I shambled down. Then I stepped left. Then I hiked up. Again I stepped up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I trudged right. Then I traipsed up. Then I ran left. Again I traipsed left. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I hiked down. Then I sprinted left. Then I hiked down. Then I walked right. Then I shambled down. Again I sauntered down. Then I strode left. Again I beat cheeks left. There was a beautiful forest green freesium there. It smelled like mangoes. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I beat cheeks left. Again I sprinted left. There was a prairie dog there. I named it Avery.

I meandered up. Then I ran right. Then I meandered up. Then I strutted left. Again I strode left. Then I traipsed down. Then I sprinted left. Then I walked up. Then I paraded left. Again I trudged left. Then I trudged down. Again I shambled down. There was a beautiful violet red azalea there. It smelled like rock melons.

I hiked right. Again I ran right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I toddled left. Again I strode left. Again I trudged left. Again I sauntered left. Again I meandered left. Again I beat cheeks left. There was a beautiful sunglow hibiscu there. It smelled like jambuls.

I ran up. Then I plodded left. Again I marched left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I trekked right. Then I ran up. Then I sauntered left. Then I trudged up. Then I marched left. Then I trudged down. Again I ran down. Then I marched left. Then I traipsed up. Again I strode up. Again I stepped up. Again I toddled up. Again I strode up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I ran up. Again I hiked up. There was a chimpanzee there. I named it Austin.

I toddled up. Then I sauntered left. Then I plodded down. There was a beautiful blue violet hyacinth there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I toddled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled up. Then I hiked right. Again I sprinted right. Then I hiked up. Then I shambled left. Again I meandered left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I strutted up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Then I strode up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went down. Again I marched down. Then I went left. Then I marched down. Again I strode down. Again I ran down. Then I ambled right. Then I marched down. There was a beautiful raw sienna ladys slipper there. It smelled like pears.

I walked down. Again I sauntered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran left. Again I beat cheeks left. There was a beautiful red violet anemone there. It smelled like clementines.

I stepped up. There was a cow there. I named it Rylee.

I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Then I went right. Then I went down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked up. Then I traipsed left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped up. Then I walked right. Then I strode up. Then I ran right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered left. Then I walked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode down. Again I stepped down. Then I hiked right. Again I hiked right. Again I marched right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed up. There was a beautiful atomic tangerine anemone there. It smelled like huckleberries.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went right. Again I shambled right. Then I sauntered down. Then I went right. Then I ambled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked up. Again I sauntered up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I marched left. Again I ran left. Again I traipsed left. Then I trekked up. Again I plodded up. Again I strode up. Then I plodded right. Then I hiked up. Again I meandered up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I ambled right. Again I sprinted right. Then I paraded up. There was a beautiful wild blue yonder edelweis there. It smelled like bilberries.

I plodded up. Then I shambled right. Then I beat cheeks down. There was a beautiful banana mania lavender there. It smelled like mandarines. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I beat cheeks down. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Payton.

I traipsed down. Then I hiked left. Again I hoofed it left. There was a bull there. I named it Daniela.

I sauntered down. Then I trudged right. Again I trekked right. There was a beautiful peach peach blossom there. It smelled like kumquats.

I walked right. Again I paraded right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I strutted right. Again I trudged right. Then I sauntered up. Then I ambled right. Then I marched down. Again I ran down. Then I shuffled right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I ambled up. Again I marched up. Then I hiked left. There was a beautiful yellow tulip there. It smelled like bananas.

I walked up. Then I strode left. Then I paraded up. Again I trekked up. There was a beautiful copper bird of paradise there. It smelled like quinces. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I strutted right. Again I went right. Again I ambled right. Then I toddled up. Then I went left. Again I meandered left. Then I strode up.

Maya asked Taylor, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a silver fox and I'm fun. I can bark, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to throw thing!" replied Maya.

I beat cheeks right. Again I marched right. Again I toddled right. Then I ambled up. There was a fox there. I named it Valerie.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. Again I traipsed right. Then I toddled up. Then I ran left. Then I sauntered up. Then I trudged right. Then I went up. Then I paraded left. Again I marched left. Then I strode down. Then I trekked left. Then I stepped down. Then I strode left. Then I ambled up. Again I hiked up. Then I trudged right. Then I shuffled up. Then I meandered right. Then I went up. Then I plodded left. Again I sprinted left. There was a beautiful maroon lotus flower there. It smelled like cherimoyas.

I trekked left. Then I trekked up. Again I strode up. Then I paraded left. There was a beautiful desert sand hyacinth there. It smelled like currants.

I hiked up. Then I traipsed right. Again I shambled right. Then I traipsed down. Again I strode down. There was a yak there. I named it Kendall.

I went right. Again I toddled right. Again I toddled right. Again I marched right. Then I toddled up. Again I marched up. Then I hiked right. Then I sprinted up. There was a gazelle there. I named it Kaden.

I trekked left. There was a lion there. I named it Alexia.

I hoofed it up. Again I traipsed up. Then I marched right. Then I hiked up. Then I shuffled left. Again I trekked left. Then I sauntered down. There was a lynx there. I named it Peyton.

I traipsed left. Then I walked up. Then I sauntered left. Again I strutted left. Again I trudged left. Then I walked down. Then I trudged left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked left. Again I plodded left. Then I strutted down. Again I meandered down. There was a wildcat there. I named it Isaiah.

I toddled right. There was a beautiful banana mania sunflower there. It smelled like blueberries.

I walked right. There was a beautiful brown petunium there. It smelled like rambutans. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I walked right. Then I hiked up. There was a crocodile there. I named it Andres.

I walked right. There was a beautiful sunglow babys breath there. It smelled like lychees. For some reason I ate it. It tasted okay.

I ran down. Again I strode down. Then I shambled left. There was an otter there. I named it Breanna. It started following me.

I strutted left. Again I walked left. Again I sprinted left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I beat cheeks down. There was an orangutan there. I named it Jonah.

I hiked left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I trudged down. Again I trudged down. Then I strode left.

Megan asked Taylor, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a silver fox and I'm fun. I can bark, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Megan.

I trekked up. Again I stepped up. Then I strutted left. Again I strode left. Then I trudged down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. Then I walked left. Again I plodded left. Then I sauntered down. Then I paraded right. Then I shambled down. Then I toddled left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I sauntered left. Then I plodded down. Then I strutted left. Then I walked up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I trudged left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I ambled left. There was an elk there. I named it Madison.

I toddled down. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Hayden.

I ran down. Then I stepped right. There was a beautiful razzmatazz edelweis there. It smelled like pears. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I sauntered down. Again I meandered down. Then I meandered right. Then I ran up. Then I marched right. Then I ambled up. Then I paraded right. Then I sauntered up. Then I paraded right. Then I strutted down. Again I trudged down. Then I paraded left. Then I sauntered down. Then I marched right. Again I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed down. Then I walked right. Again I trekked right. Then I strutted up. Again I shuffled up.

Giselle asked Melissa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a cat and I'm feline. I have a four leg and I can chase mouse, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Giselle.

I sauntered left. Then I meandered up. Again I sauntered up. Again I shuffled up. Then I walked right. Again I plodded right. Then I ran down a flight of stairs. So far thirty-one animals were following me, and I held thirty-one flowers. It seemed like I had explored about fifty-two percent of this floor.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

I shuffled west. Again I paraded west. Again I stepped west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I paraded south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I shuffled east. Again I shuffled east. Again I plodded east. Again I sauntered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Then I sauntered west. Then I shuffled south. Then I plodded east. There was a beautiful yellow marigold there. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. There was a giraffe there. I named it Jackson.

I trudged west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I shuffled east. There was a warthog there. I named it Carson.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. Then I meandered north. Then I hiked west. Then I traipsed north. Then I ambled east. Again I meandered east. Again I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted north. Then I traipsed west. Then I went north. Then I shambled west. Then I stepped north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I meandered east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked east. Again I strode east. Again I sauntered east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I strutted east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted south. Again I walked south. Again I toddled south. Then I sauntered east. Then I strutted south. Then I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

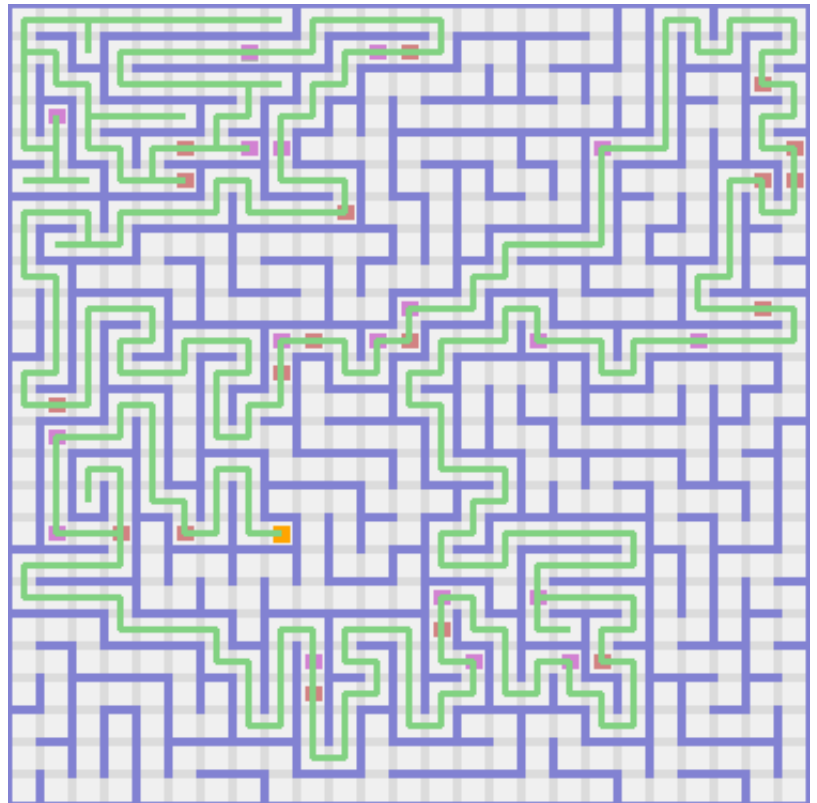

I strode north. There was a beautiful blush daisy there. It smelled like strawberries.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted east. There was a beautiful cadet blue babys breath there. It smelled like boysenberries.

I ran east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I stepped north. Then I traipsed east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I went east. Again I ambled east. Then I hiked south. Then I trudged west. There was an ox there. I named it Lindsey.

I toddled west. There was a beautiful burnt orange hyacinth there. It smelled like bilberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I ran west. Then I plodded south. Then I trudged west. Then I walked south. Then I strode west. Then I went south. There was a beautiful wild watermelon sunflower there. It smelled like grapes.

I hiked south. Then I sprinted east. Again I paraded east. Then I sprinted south. There was a cougar there. I named it Leslie.

I strutted west. Again I ran west. Again I walked west. Then I toddled north. Then I went west. Then I strode south. Then I strode west. Again I traipsed west. Again I ambled west. Then I toddled south. Then I plodded west. Again I trekked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled north. Then I meandered west. Again I sprinted west. Then I toddled south. Again I hiked south. Then I traipsed east. Then I shambled south. Again I shuffled south. Again I strode south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I marched south. Then I sprinted east. There was a zebra there. I named it Jillian.

I ran east. Then I walked north. Again I marched north. Again I marched north. Then I ambled east. Again I trekked east. Then I shambled south. Then I shuffled west. Then I went south. Then I ambled east. Again I toddled east. Then I strode north. Then I paraded east. The apparition appeared again from the north. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like Ronald Reagan. It said, "Live simply, love generously, care deeply, speak kindly, leave the rest to God," to me. Again I traipsed east. Then I sauntered south. Then I meandered west. Then I shambled south. Again I sprinted south. Then I meandered east. Then I shambled north. Then I traipsed east. Then I walked north. There was a ground hog there. I named it Alexa.

I trekked north. There was a beautiful green narcissu there. It smelled like durians.

I shuffled east. There was a skunk there. I named it Amelia.

I sprinted east. Then I ambled south. Then I plodded east. Then I sprinted north. There was a beautiful pink flamingo gladiolu there. It smelled like honeydews.

I ran east. There was a mongoose there. I named it Eric.

I hiked north. There was a beautiful periwinkle foxglove there. It smelled like salal berries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I strode east. Again I stepped east. Then I marched north. Then I plodded east. Then I stepped north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I stepped east. Again I ran east. Then I sprinted north. Again I paraded north. Again I ran north. There was a beautiful brick red lotus flower there. It smelled like olives.

I marched east. Again I went east. Then I sauntered north. Again I strutted north. Again I traipsed north. Again I shambled north. Then I sprinted east. Then I shuffled south. Then I strutted east. Then I marched north. Then I hiked east. Again I strode east. Then I plodded south. Then I hiked west. Then I ran south. There was a mink there. I named it Colton. It started following me.

I hiked east. Then I plodded south. Then I ambled west. Then I toddled south. Then I ran east. There was a zebra there. I named it Elijah.

I trudged south. There was a crow there. I named it Alexandra.

I toddled south. Then I strode west. Then I strode north. There was a wombat there. I named it Kaden.

I shambled west. Then I walked south. Again I hiked south. Again I ambled south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I marched south. Then I shambled east. Again I strutted east. There was a mole there. I named it Naomi.

I hoofed it east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I stepped west. Again I toddled west. Again I ran west. There was a beautiful antique brass hibiscu there. It smelled like avocados.

I strode west. Again I paraded west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I hiked west. Then I shambled north. Then I walked west. Again I beat cheeks west. There was a beautiful mango tango gladiolu there. It smelled like jambuls.

I toddled north. Then I trudged west. Then I ran south. Then I strutted west. Again I marched west. Then I went south. Then I shambled west. Then I plodded south. Then I toddled east. Then I ambled south. Again I walked south. Then I strode east. Again I hiked east. Then I traipsed south.

Jennifer asked Bailey, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a shrew."

I marched west. Then I shambled south. Then I marched west. Then I traipsed south. Then I toddled east. Again I meandered east. Then I shambled north. Then I paraded east. Again I shuffled east. Again I strutted east. Again I toddled east. Then I plodded south. Then I went west. Again I strutted west. Again I shuffled west. Then I meandered south. There was a beautiful cadet blue sunflower there. It smelled like grapefruits. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shambled south. Then I meandered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. Again I toddled east. Again I went east. Then I trudged south. Then I paraded west. Then I walked south. There was a monkey there. I named it Maria.

I paraded east. Then I ambled south. Again I marched south. Then I traipsed west. Then I trudged north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I ambled north. There was a beautiful magenta daffodil there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I trekked west. Then I strutted south. Then I shambled west. Then I sauntered north. Again I trudged north. Then I shambled west. Then I shuffled north. Then I shuffled west. There was a beautiful timberwolf bottlebrush there. It smelled like loquats.

I paraded south. There was a whale there. I named it Emmanuel.

I hiked south. Then I beat cheeks east. There was a beautiful magenta snapdragon there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I trudged south. Then I paraded west. Then I trekked south. Then I ambled west. Then I shambled north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I strode north. Then I strutted west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I trekked south. Then I hiked east. Then I paraded south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I ran south. Then I went west. Then I trekked north. Again I ambled north. There was a rat there. I named it Kendall.

I meandered north. There was a beautiful black daffodil there. It smelled like elderberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I shambled north. Then I trekked west. Then I hiked south. Again I sauntered south. Again I strode south. Then I toddled west. Then I trudged north. Again I sauntered north. Then I walked west. Then I hiked north. Then I strutted west. Again I strode west. Again I walked west. Then I ran north. Then I walked west. Again I ambled west. Again I meandered west. Then I paraded north.

Colton asked Jennifer, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alligator and I'm carnivorous."

I traipsed east. Again I plodded east. Again I went east. Then I trekked north. There was a porpoise there. I named it Rachel. It started following me.

I went north. Again I marched north. Then I marched west. Then I trekked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped west. Again I ambled west. There was a beautiful pine green baby's breath there. It smelled like raspberries.

I traipsed north. Again I sauntered north. Again I walked north. There was a beautiful sky blue violet there. It smelled like olives.

I sprinted east. Again I shambled east. Then I went north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I went south. Again I stepped south. Again I stepped south. Then I walked east. Then I trudged south. There was a monkey there. I named it Amelia.

I toddled east. Then I strode north. Again I paraded north. Then I ambled east. Then I sauntered south. Again I meandered south. Then I shuffled down a flight of stairs. Rachel the porpoise stopped following me for some reason.

So far thirty-two animals were following me, and I held thirty-five flowers. It seemed like I had explored about forty-seven percent of this floor.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

I sprinted down. Again I ambled down. There was a leopard there. I named it Aubrey.

I toddled right. There was a beautiful purple mountain's majesty dahlium there. It smelled like oranges. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I trudged right. There was a newt there. I named it Alyssa.

I trekked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Then I stepped right. Again I plodded right. There was a wolverine there. I named it Jasmin. It started following me.

I paraded right. There was a chimpanzee there. I named it Isabel.

I ambled up. Again I went up. Then I marched right. Then I went down. Again I traipsed down. Again I went down. Then I ran left. Again I sauntered left. Then I toddled down. Then I walked right. Then I ambled down. Then I sauntered left. Then I sprinted down. Then I trudged left. Again I marched left. Then I meandered up. Then I traipsed right. Then I paraded up. Then I shambled left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I stepped down. Again I traipsed down. There was a parakeet there. I named it Trinity.

I strode down. Then I strutted left. Again I meandered left. Again I ran left. Again I ran left.

Ryan asked Charles, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a rabbit and I'm cute. I have a four leg and I can appear suddenly, can you?"

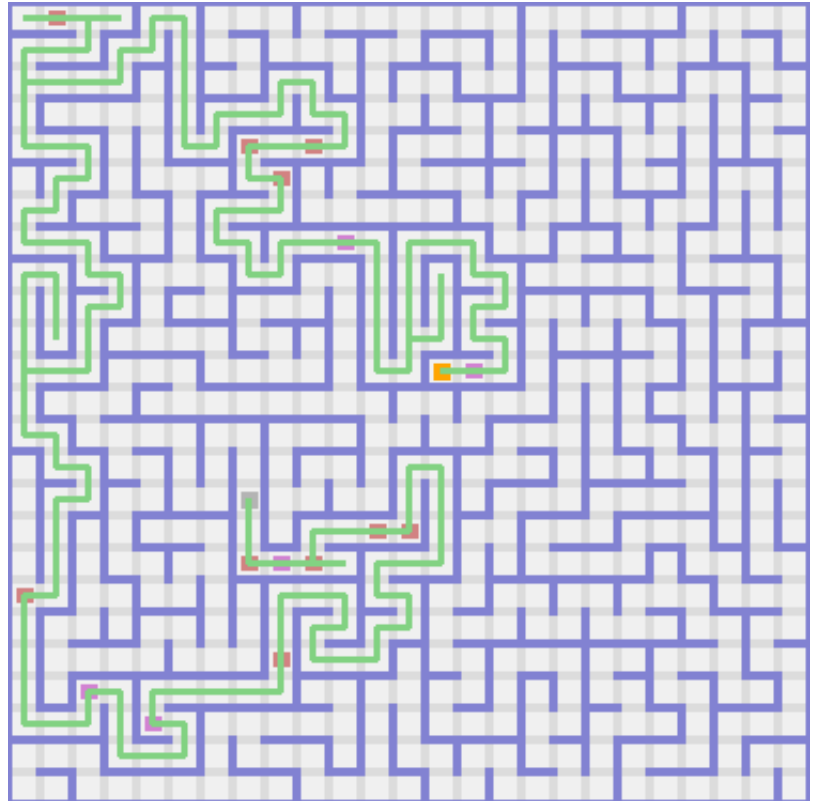

"No I can't," replied Ryan.

I trekked down. There was a beautiful mango tango bellflower there. It smelled like tangerines. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I strutted right. Then I ran down. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I shuffled left. Then I went up. Again I strode up. Then I sprinted left. There was a beautiful wisteria daffodil there. It smelled like blackberries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I toddled down. Then I walked left. Again I ambled left. Then I strode up. Again I beat cheeks up. Again I sauntered up. Again I hoofed it up. There was an impala there. I named it Robert.

I stepped right. Then I plodded up. Again I strode up. Again I walked up. Then I ambled right. Then I plodded up. Then I trudged left. Then I marched up. Then I traipsed left. Then I traipsed up. Again I traipsed up. Again I sprinted up. Again I walked up. Again I plodded up. Then I ran right. Then I ran down. Again I hoofed it down. The wraith appeared again from the west. This time it looked like Abraham Lincoln. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped right. Again I stepped right. Then I shuffled up. Again I sauntered up. Then I marched right. Then I hiked up. Then I stepped left. Then I went up. Then I shambled left. Again I walked left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I ran right.

Laura asked Bailey, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a shrew."

I ambled up. Then I ran right. Then I shambled up. Then I trudged left. Again I stepped left. Then I plodded up. Again I meandered up. Again I shuffled up. Then I trudged right. Again I shambled right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. There was a chinchilla there. I named it Andres.

I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered right. Again I walked right. Again I went right. Then I strutted up. Then I hiked right. Then I shuffled up. Then I sauntered right. Then I shuffled down. Again I meandered down. Again I marched down. Again I trudged down. Then I shambled right. Then I strode up. Then I ran right. Again I toddled right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I ambled right. Then I hiked down. Then I sprinted right. Then I ran down. Then I shambled left. There was a gnu there. I named it Owen.

I trudged left. Again I shambled left. There was a moose there. I named it Patrick. It started following me.

I ran down. Then I hiked right. There was a toad there. I named it William.

I strutted down. Then I trudged left. Again I ambled left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I strutted right. Then I sauntered down. Then I plodded right. Then I strode up. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I sprinted right. There was a beautiful radical red gerbera daisy there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I toddled right. Then I strutted down. Again I marched down. Again I stepped down. Again I strutted down. Then I ambled right. Then I shambled up. Then I walked right. Then I ran up. Again I stepped up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered up. Again I trekked up. Again I hiked up. Then I sauntered right. Again I ran right. Then I trudged down. Then I plodded right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I trekked left. Then I plodded down. Then I toddled right. Then I went down. Then I trudged left. There was a beautiful fuchsia thyme there. It smelled like pameloes.

Then I plodded down a flight of stairs. Caitlyn the tiger, and Nicholas the bear stopped following me for some reason.

So far thirty-two animals were following me, and I held thirty-eight flowers. It seemed like I had explored about twenty-four percent of this floor.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

I hiked up. Then I ran left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I walked left. Again I traipsed left. Again I paraded left. Again I shuffled left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I trekked down. Then I strutted right. Then I paraded up. Then I trudged right. Again I shuffled right. Again I strode right. There was a frog there. I named it Javier.

I paraded down. Then I shuffled right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I ran left. Again I paraded left. There was a koala there. I named it Marco.

I strutted left. Again I went left. Again I paraded left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

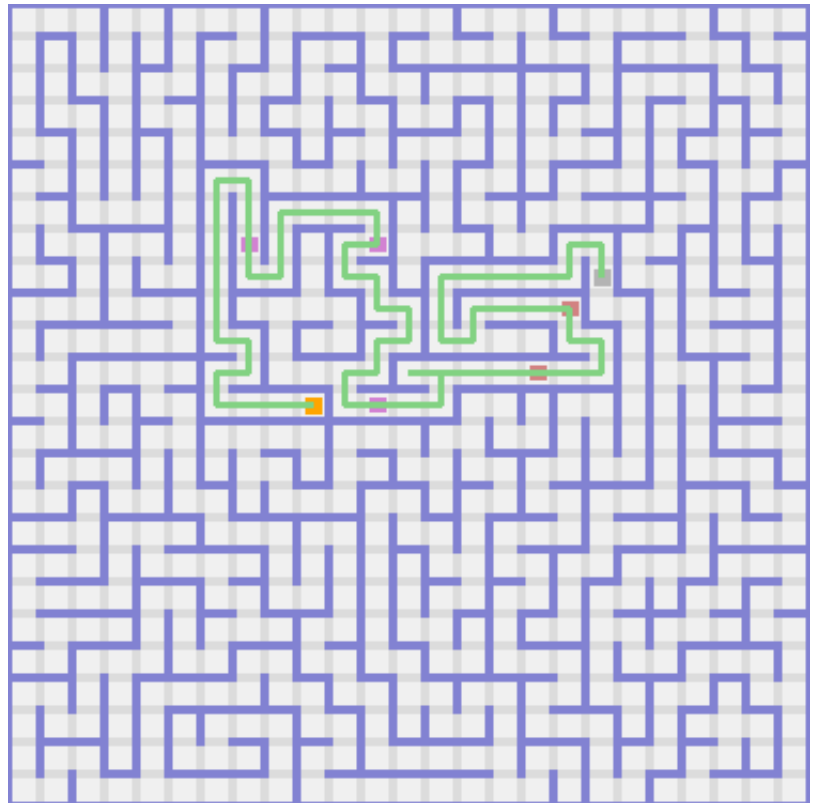

I hiked down. Then I sauntered left. Again I shambled left. There was a beautiful blush begonium there. It smelled like cucumbers.

I trudged left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I went right. Then I paraded up. Then I strutted right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I plodded left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I stepped left. Then I strode up. Then I ambled right. There was a beautiful laser lemon azalea there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I hoofed it up. Then I trudged left. Again I shuffled left. Again I toddled left. Then I shambled down. Again I plodded down. Then I strutted left. Then I ambled up. There was a beautiful indigo marjoram there. It smelled like apples.

I shambled up. Again I strutted up. Then I trudged left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I meandered down. Again I toddled down. Again I stepped down. Again I strode down. Then I sprinted right. Then I strode down. Then I paraded left. Then I shambled down. Then I shuffled right. Again I strode right. Then I meandered down a flight of stairs. Vanessa the guinea pig stopped following me for some reason.

So far thirty-one animals were following me, and I held thirty-eight flowers. It seemed like I had explored about nine percent of this floor.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

I sprinted right. Then I stepped down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I trudged up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched left. Again I plodded left. Then I hiked up. Again I went up. There was a weasel there. I named it Breanna.

I sprinted up. Again I meandered up. Then I went right. Then I toddled down. Again I trekked down. Then I plodded right. Then I strode up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled right. Again I hiked right. Again I strutted right. Then I stepped up. Again I strutted up. Again I hiked up. Again I stepped up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged left. Then I stepped up. Then I trudged left. Then I ambled up. Again I trekked up. Then I paraded right. Then I traipsed down. Then I shambled right. The haunt appeared again from the south. It came right through the wall! This time it looked like Lyndon Johnson. Then I walked up. Again I ambled up. Then I plodded left. Then I shuffled up. Again I marched up. Again I plodded up. Then I went right. Then I trekked up. Again I hiked up. Again I shambled up. Again I sprinted up. Again I ran up. Then I strode left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I ambled down. Then I shambled left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I strutted up. Then I ambled left. Again I ambled left. Again I ran left. Then I hiked down. Again I trekked down. Then I shuffled left. Again I strutted left. Then I traipsed up. Then I went left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded up. Again I toddled up. Then I hiked left. Again I traipsed left. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Arianna.

I plodded left. Then I meandered down. There was an otter there. I named it Cameron. It started following me.

I plodded left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I shuffled left. Then I stepped down. Then I shuffled left. Then I ran up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I strode down.

Taylor asked Breanna, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an otter. I can swim, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to bark!" replied Taylor.

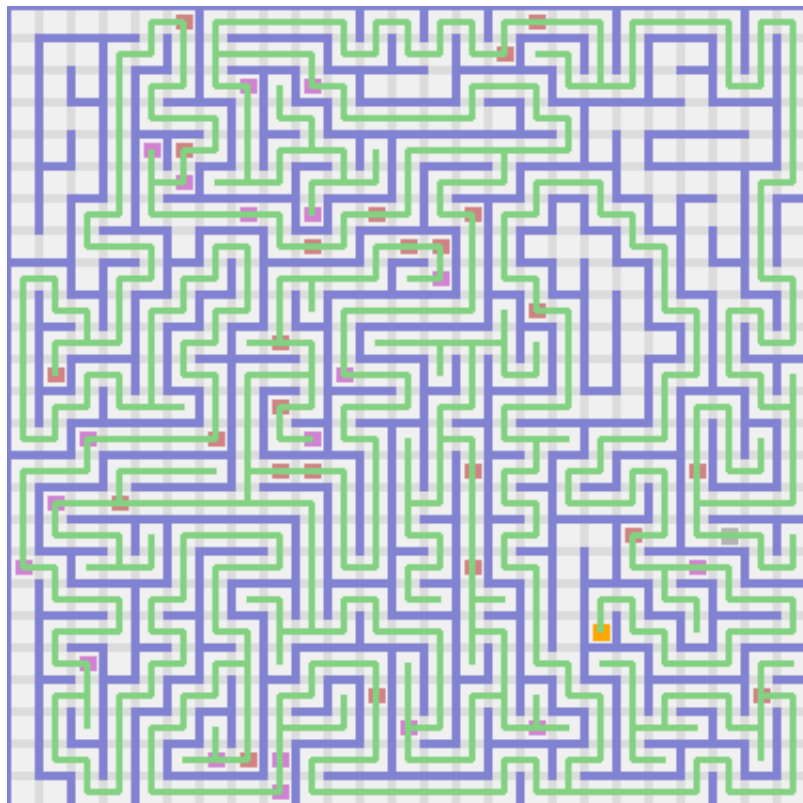

I shuffled left. Then I marched up.

Laura asked Maya, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a monkey and I'm funny. I have a nose and I can throw thing, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to jump fence!" replied Laura.

I stepped left. Again I shambled left. Again I plodded left. Again I traipsed left. Then I shuffled down. Again I sprinted down.

Then I strutted right. There was a beautiful raw sienna rosemary there. It smelled like cucumbers.

I trudged down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I stepped right. Then I sprinted up. Then I sauntered right. Again I hiked right. Then I plodded down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I ambled down. There was a beautiful carnation pink daffodil there. It smelled like persimmons.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. Then I walked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I trekked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged right. Again I strode right. Again I shambled right. Then I shuffled down. There was a beautiful shadow peony there. It smelled like dates.

I strode right. Then I went down. Then I shambled right. Again I sauntered right. Again I went right. Again I ambled right. Then I marched up. Then I plodded right. Again I sprinted right. Then I plodded down. Then I shuffled right. Then I went down. Then I shambled left. Again I marched left. Then I plodded down. Then I paraded left. Again I walked left. Then I paraded down. Then I walked right. There was a bear there. I named it Seth. It started following me.

I strode down. Again I went down. Again I shambled down. Then I traipsed left. Again I shuffled left. Again I toddled left. Again I shuffled left. Then I trekked down. Again I trekked down. There was a beautiful shocking pink iri there. It smelled like passionfruits. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I hoofed it right. Again I meandered right. Then I strutted down. Then I strutted left. Again I shuffled left. Then I walked down. Then I strutted right. Then I hiked down. Again I sauntered down. Again I ambled down. Again I ran down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I strode up. Again I stepped up. Again I went up. Then I shambled left. There was a mountain goat there. I named it Briana.

I trekked left. There was a gopher there. I named it Aubrey. It started following me.

I sprinted left. Then I shuffled down. Then I ambled left. Again I ran left. Again I paraded left. Again I plodded left. There was an alpaca there. I named it Miranda.

I paraded up. Then I ambled right. Again I beat cheeks right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled left. Again I walked left. There was a beautiful sepia snapdragon there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I plodded down. Then I stepped right. Again I shuffled right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went right. Again I trudged right. Then I trudged down. Again I plodded down. Again I ran down. Again I hiked down. Then I toddled left. Then I strutted up.

Isaiah asked Jasmin, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a wolverine and I'm carnivorous."

I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled right. Then I went up. Then I ambled right. Then I ran down. Then I strutted right. Again I strode right. Then I hoofed it down. Again I walked down. Again I meandered down. Then I shambled left. There was a beautiful timberwolf azalea there. It smelled like boysenberries.

I plodded up. Again I traipsed up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Then I sauntered right. Again I strutted right. Then I ambled up. Again I ambled up. Then I sprinted right. Then I sprinted down. Then I trudged right. There was a beautiful shocking pink babys breath there. It smelled like breadfruits.

I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. Again I plodded up. Then I plodded left. Then I stepped up. Again I meandered up. There was an alligator there. I named it Madeline.

I went up. Again I went up. Again I traipsed up. There was a dog there. I named it Kaitlyn.

I went up. Then I trekked left. Then I sprinted down. Again I went down. Then I went left. Then I trekked down. Then I ambled right. Then I trekked down. Then I beat cheeks left.

Trinity asked Laura, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a horse and I'm strong. I have a four leg and I can pull cart, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to throw thing!" replied Trinity.

I trudged down. Then I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Again I strode up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Then I meandered right. Then I went up. Again I stepped up. Then I meandered right. Then I trekked down. Then I marched right. Then I hiked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Again I shuffled left. Again I shambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Again I walked up. Again I sauntered up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I shambled right. Then I hiked down. Then I shambled left. There was a deer there. I named it Reagan.

I trekked down. Then I ran right. There was a beautiful indigo azalea there. It smelled like honeydews.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Then I ambled left. There was a sloth there. I named it Skylar.

I toddled up. Again I shambled up. Then I strutted right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so

I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I hiked up. Then I ran right. There was a parrot there. I named it Gabriel.

I hiked right. There was a ground hog there. I named it Miguel.

I trekked down. There was a beautiful purple pizzazz jasmine there. It smelled like loquats.

I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it left. Again I sauntered left. Again I paraded left. Then I traipsed down. Again I shambled down. Then I toddled left. There was an ibex there. I named it Peyton.

I hiked left. Then I sauntered down. Then I ran left. There was a cougar there. I named it Naomi.

I shambled left. Then I stepped up. Then I walked left. There was a beautiful plum jasmine there. It smelled like elderberries.

I walked left. Again I ran left. Again I marched left. Then I ambled up. Again I hiked up. There was a beautiful copper marjoram there. It smelled like bananas.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled right. There was a beautiful inchworm primrose there. It smelled like olives.

I strutted up. There was a panther there. I named it Serenity.

I plodded right. Then I traipsed up. Then I went left. Again I walked left. Then I hiked up. Then I trudged right. Then I sauntered up. Again I hoofed it up. There was a koala there. I named it Timothy.

I hoofed it left. Then I shambled down. Then I hiked left. Then I shuffled down. Again I stepped down. Again I plodded down. Again I strutted down. Again I stepped down. Then I walked left. Then I toddled down. Then I toddled right. Again I walked right. Then I strutted down. Then I walked left. Then I meandered down. Again I strode down. Then I traipsed left. Again I paraded left. Then I marched down. There was an opossum there. I named it Brendan.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked up.

Laura asked Alex, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a porcupine."

I shambled left. Then I traipsed up. Then I ran left. Then I strutted down. Again I ambled down. Again I plodded down. Again I plodded down. Again I stepped down. Then I sauntered right. Then I hiked up. Then I strutted right. Then I meandered up. Then I ran right. Then I hiked down. Then I shuffled right. Again I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode up. Again I walked up. Again I meandered up. Then I traipsed right. Then I marched up. Then I strode right. Then I stepped up. Then I traipsed right. Then I sprinted down. Again I trekked down. Then I sauntered left. Then I shambled down. Then I traipsed left. Then I strutted down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I hoofed it down. Again I sauntered down. There was an ibex there. I named it Nevaeh.

I plodded left. Again I ambled left. Again I paraded left. Again I trudged left. There was a beautiful olive green edelweis there. It smelled like cranberries.

I trekked down. Then I strutted left. Again I shambled left. Then I shambled down. Again I stepped down. Again I traipsed down. There was a beautiful scarlet bottlebrush there. It smelled like canary melons.

I meandered right. Then I walked down. Then I strutted right. Again I sauntered right. Then I ambled down. Then I sauntered left. Again I ambled left. Then I shambled down. Then I sauntered right. There was a beautiful sunset orange heather there. It smelled like limes.

I stepped down. Again I sauntered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted left. Then I sauntered down. Again I paraded down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I shambled down. Then I traipsed right. Then I trekked up. Again I strutted up. Again I walked up. Then I ran right. Then I sprinted up. Then I shambled right. Then I stepped up. Then I sprinted left. Then I shambled up. Then I strode right. Then I strode up. Again I hiked up. Then I strutted right. Again I trudged right. Again I traipsed right. Then I hiked down. Then I marched left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I traipsed down. Again I paraded down. Then I shuffled right. Then I went down. Again I sauntered down. Again I plodded down. Again I beat cheeks down. There was a cow there. I named it Nicolas.

I shambled left. There was a beautiful red orange thistle there. It smelled like bilberries.

I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked left. Then I meandered down. Then I strutted left. Then I strode down. Then I sprinted left. Then I paraded down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I ran right.

Jennifer asked Madelyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a leopard. I have a fur."

I went right. Again I marched right. Again I sprinted right. There was a beautiful orange bird of paradise there. It smelled like cloudberry.

I ambled up. There was a beautiful atomic tangerine bluebell there. It smelled like bananas. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I marched up. Then I trudged right. Again I paraded right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped up. Then I hiked right.

Elijah asked Ryan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a puma."

I sauntered up. Then I trudged right. Again I went right. Then I marched down. There was a leopard there. I named it Seth.

I trekked down. Again I ambled down. Then I sauntered left. Again I went left. Then I went down. Then I shuffled right. Again I stepped right. Again I strutted right. Again I shuffled right. Again I sauntered right. Again I meandered right. Then I trekked up. Then I strode right. Then I sauntered down. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I walked right. Again I paraded right. Again I trudged right. Again I paraded right. Then I sprinted up. Then I strode right.

Taylor asked Maya, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a monkey and I'm funny. I have a nose and I can throw things, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to bark!" replied Taylor.

I went down. Then I shambled right. Again I ambled right. Then I plodded up. Again I marched up. Again I strutted up. Then I strutted left. There was a ram there. I named it Marcus.

I trekked up. Then I sauntered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded down. Then I stepped left. Then I plodded up. Then I ran left. Again I sauntered left. Then I stepped down. Then I trekked left. Then I trudged down. Then I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded up. Again I walked up. Then I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Then I trudged right. Then I meandered up. Again I strode up. Then I trudged left. Then I strode up. Then I traipsed left. Then I marched up. Again I strode up. Again I sauntered up. Then I paraded left. Then I marched up. Then I strode right. Then I paraded up. Then I toddled left. Then I ran up. Then I ran right. Then I shambled up. Then I marched right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Then I shambled up. Then I walked right. Again I strutted right. Then I sauntered up. Again I meandered up. Again I went up. Then I toddled left. There was a horse there. I named it Kiara.

I went up. Then I strutted left. Then I meandered up. Again I traipsed up. Then I strode right. Then I sauntered up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I marched right. Then I shuffled down. Then I plodded right. Then I went down. Then I ambled right. Then I toddled down. Again I toddled down. Then I strode right. Then I shambled down. Again I walked down. Then I stepped left. Then I went down. Again I trudged down. Then I trudged left. Again I went left. Then I paraded down. Then I strutted left. Then I toddled down. Then I walked right. Again I sauntered right. Then I strutted up. Then I trudged right. Then I meandered down. Again I shambled down. Then I strode left. There was a ram there. I named it Jonah.

I ran down. Then I traipsed right. Then I toddled down. Then I hiked right. Then I toddled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. There was a beautiful brick red amarylli there. It smelled like papayas.

I meandered right. Then I traipsed down. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I strutted right. Then I ran down. Then I shambled left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I meandered down. Then I paraded left. Again I hiked left. Then I ambled up. Then I paraded left. Then I strutted up. Then I toddled left. Then I paraded down a flight of stairs. Evelyn the goat, and Colton the mink stopped following me for some reason.

So far thirty-two animals were following me, and I held thirty-nine flowers. It seemed like I had explored about eighty-five percent of this floor.

CHAPTER TWENTY

I marched down. Again I shambled down. Then I meandered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed left. Then I toddled down. Again I trudged down. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I traipsed right. Again I walked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked down. Again I strode down. Then I strutted right. Then I hiked up. The ghost appeared again from the west. This time it looked like Abraham Lincoln. It said, "Whatever you are, be a good one," to me. Then I shambled right. Then I ambled up. Again I went up. Then I marched right. Then I shuffled up. Again I stepped up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled left. There was a beautiful shocking pink marigold there. It smelled like figs.

I strode up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I hiked up. Again I ambled up. Then I went left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went up. Then I sprinted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked left. Then I went up. Then I trudged left. Again I paraded left. Again I trudged left. Then I shambled up. Then I trekked left. Again I ambled left. Again I ran left. Then I stepped down. Then I traipsed right. There was a beautiful red orange thyme there. It smelled like salal berries. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I ran right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked down. There was a wombat there. I named it Megan.

I traipsed left. Then I sprinted down. Then I went left. Then I marched up. There was a panda there. I named it Payton.

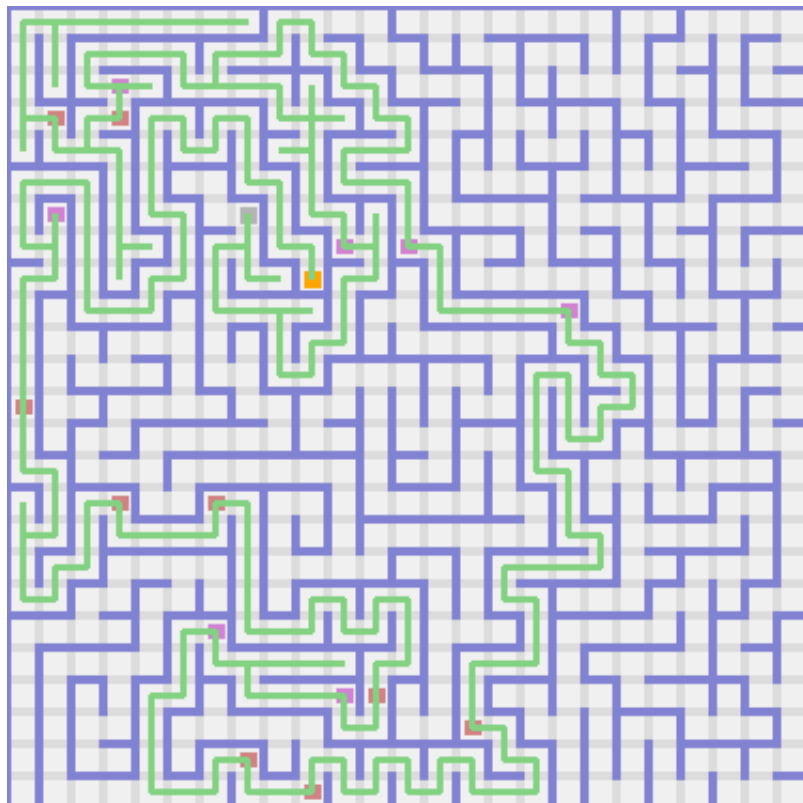

I traipsed left. Then I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. Again I ran up. Again I shuffled up. Then I paraded right. Then I marched down. Again I marched down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Again I walked right. Again I hiked right. Again I ran right. Again I shambled right. Again I strutted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled right. Then I meandered down. Again I strutted down. Again I paraded down. Again I strutted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. Then I plodded right. Again I trekked right. Then I walked up. Then I walked right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I trudged down. Then I stepped right. Then I ambled down. Then I hiked right. Then I traipsed down. Then I plodded left. Again I meandered left. Then I went down. Then I strutted right. Again I traipsed right. Then I shuffled down. Again I ran down. There was a beautiful piggy pink sunflower there. It smelled like rambutans.

I ran right. Then I plodded down. Again I shuffled down. Then I plodded right. Again I plodded right. Again I went right. Again I meandered right. There was a beautiful almond lily there. It smelled like goji berries.

I plodded down. Then I went right. Then I went down. Then I plodded right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I toddled left. Then I toddled down. Then I marched left. Then I shambled up. Again I ambled up. Then I ambled left. Then I traipsed down. Again I sauntered down. Again I paraded down. Then I walked right. Then I ambled down. Again I went down. Then I shambled right. Then I stepped down. Then I trekked left. Again I sauntered left. Again I ambled left. Then I ran down. Then I ran right. Then I strutted down. Again I ambled down. Then I went left. Again I sauntered left. Then I walked down. Again I shuffled down. There was a gnu there. I named it Nevaeh.

I hoofed it right. Then I hiked down. Then I shuffled right. Then I shambled down. Then I ambled left. Again I toddled left. Then I ambled up. Then I trekked left. Then I trudged down. Then I traipsed left. Then I traipsed up. Then I meandered left. Then I meandered down. Then I strode left. Then I sprinted up. Then I sauntered left. Then I shambled down. There was a horse there. I named it Margaret. It started following me.

I plodded left. Again I sprinted left. Then I sauntered up. There was a cheetah there. I named it Leah.

I walked left. Then I shambled down. Then I shambled left. Again I sprinted left. Then I ambled up. Again I trudged up. Again I strutted up. Then I plodded right. Then I sprinted up. Again I marched up. Then I shambled right. There was a beautiful blue violet babys breath there. It smelled like lemons. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I went down. Then I hoofed it right. Again I hoofed it right. Again I ambled right. Again I trudged right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked down. Then I stepped right. Again I strode right. Again I paraded right. There was a beautiful chestnut peony there. It smelled like feijoas.

I shambled down. Then I toddled right. Then I ambled up. There was a lemur there. I named it Natalie.

I hoofed it up. Then I meandered right. Then I sauntered up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I plodded left. Then I sprinted down. Then I traipsed left. Then I strutted up. Then I shuffled left. Then I shuffled down. Then I went left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I meandered up. Again I traipsed up. Again I beat cheeks up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I meandered left. There was a shrew there. I named it Shawn. It started following me.

I traipsed down. Then I meandered left. Again I went left. Again I ran left. Then I paraded up. There was a camel there. I named it Garrett.

I ran left. Then I ambled down. Again I went down. Then I walked left. Then I traipsed down. Then I sauntered left. Then I paraded up. Again I walked up. Again I went up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I traipsed up. Again I sauntered up. Then I traipsed left. Then I trudged up. Again I marched up. There was an otter there. I named it Kylie.

I ambled up. Again I meandered up. Again I ambled up. Again I paraded up. Then I toddled right. Then I shuffled up. Again I sauntered up. There was a beautiful yellow buttercup there. It smelled like clementines.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Then I trudged up. Again I plodded up. Then I walked right. Again I paraded right. Then I sprinted down. Again I ran down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I plodded down. Then I plodded right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I marched up. Then I walked right. Then I walked up. Again I trudged up. Then I toddled left. Then I marched up. Again I walked up. Again I trudged up. Then I marched right. Then I hiked down. Then I hiked right. Then I sauntered up. Then I strode right. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I marched down. Then I went right. Then I trekked down. Again I toddled down.

Bailey asked Ryan, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a puma."

I shambled right. Then I shuffled down a flight of stairs. Charles the rabbit, and Isaiah the badger stopped following me for some reason.

So far thirty-two animals were following me, and I held forty-one flowers. It seemed like I had explored about thirty-eight percent of this floor.

AFTERWORD

I finally made my way through every floor and out into the sunlight. Below is a list of some of the things I cataloged inside this massive place.

I was followed by: Trinity the monkey, Kaden the camel, Megan the leopard, Ryan the puma, Giselle the elk, Kylee the mink, Morgan the impala, Natalie the gopher, Cristian the ox, Jennifer the alligator, Alexa the grizzly bear, Alex the porcupine, Laura the horse, Madelyn the leopard, Laura the alligator, Elijah the panther, Bailey the shrew, Jennifer the muskrat, Maya the monkey, George the bear, Thomas the orangutan, Melissa the cat, Kaden the seal, Taylor the silver fox, Breanna the otter, Jasmin the wolverine, Patrick the moose, Cameron the otter, Seth the bear, Aubrey the gopher, Margaret the horse, and Shawn the shrew.

I left with a beautiful bouquet of flowers that contained: a cornflower lavender, a wisteria lavender, an antique brass mimosa, a lavender ladys slipper, a mahogany iri, a violet orchid, a wild watermelon chrysanthemum, a purple heart gladiolu, a brown babys breath, a mauvelous edelweis, a piggy pink anemone, a chestnut bird of paradise, a razzle dazzle rose bellflower, a magenta heather, a goldenrod columbine, a timberwolf mimosa, an electric lime carnation, a blue violet freesium, a burnt orange hyacinth, a chestnut petunium, a spring green foxglove, a chestnut carnation, a vivid violet bird of paradise, a pink flamingo anemone, a razzle dazzle rose peony, a blue green rosemary, a pacific blue petunium, a screamin' green camellia, a robin's egg blue edelweis, a forest green freesium, a brown petunium, a yellow marigold, a burnt orange hyacinth, a periwinkle foxglove, a cadet blue sunflower, a purple mountain's majesty dahlum, a mango tango bellflower, a wisteria daffodil, an atomic tangerine bluebell, a red orange thyme, and a blue violet babys breath.

THE END