

Flora and Fauna

PROLOGUE

I am a botanist and a zoologist. I came to this complex of mazes to catalog flora and fauna. What follows is the journal of my travails.

CHAPTER ONE

I walked right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I shambled down. Then I stepped left. There was a ground hog there. I named it Ella.

I walked left. Again I marched left. Then I sauntered down. Then I shambled left. Then I ran up. Again I traipsed up. Then I shambled left. Again I sauntered left. Then I trekked down. Again I meandered down. There was a beautiful copper edelweis there. It smelled like clementines.

I ran left. Then I stepped down. Again I strode down. Again I sprinted down. Again I strode down. Again I walked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it right. There was a raccoon there. I named it Aaliyah.

I went right. Again I meandered right. Then I marched down. Then I marched left. Again I went left. Then I toddled down. There was a beautiful plum hyacinth there. It smelled like rock melons. I picked it.

I trudged right. Again I stepped right. Then I traipsed down. Then I meandered left. Again I plodded left. There was a beautiful outrageous orange iri there. It smelled like avocados.

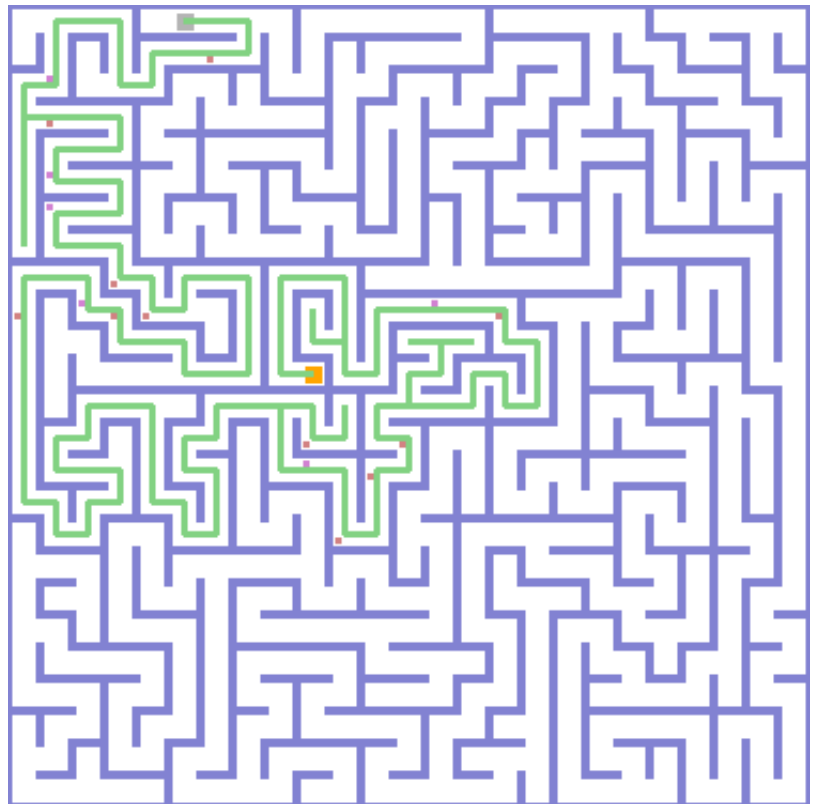

I shuffled down. Then I shuffled right. Again I walked right. Then I strode down. There was an elk there. I named it Connor.

I sauntered right. Then I paraded down. There was a lynx there. I named it Juan.

I stepped right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I shuffled right. Again I sprinted right. Then I traipsed down. Again I meandered down. Again I ran down. Then I meandered left. Again I meandered left. Then I trudged up. Then I sprinted left. Again I ran left. Then I hiked up. There was a chameleon there. I named it Anna.

I hiked left. There was a beautiful black lilac there. It smelled like olives.

I sprinted up. Then I stepped left. Again I walked left. Then I toddled down. There was a frog there. I named it Daniela.

I meandered down. Again I sprinted down. Again I toddled down. Again I sprinted down. Again I ambled down. Again I went down. Then I sauntered right. Then I trudged down. Then I trekked right. Then I sauntered up. Then I plodded right. Then I went up. Then I went left. Again I went left. Then I paraded up. Then I ambled right. Then I trudged up. Then I traipsed right. Again I trudged right. Then I shambled down. Again I paraded down. Again I strutted down. Then I trekked right. Then I toddled down. Then I meandered right. Then I strutted up. Again I ran up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I sauntered up. Then I toddled right. Then I traipsed up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I walked right. Again I plodded right. Then I sauntered down. There was a lemur there. I named it Thomas.

I meandered right. Then I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I meandered right. There was a beautiful apricot hibiscu there. It smelled like nuts.

I marched right. Then I meandered down. Again I hiked down. There was a rabbit there. I named it Cristian.

I walked right. Then I plodded up. Again I trudged up. There was a beaver there. I named it Jasmine.

I marched right. Then I plodded up. There was a capybara there. I named it Bryce.

I trudged left. Then I shuffled up. Then I toddled right. Then I ambled up. Then I ran right. Then I paraded up. Then I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled right. Again I trekked right. Then I ambled up. Then I paraded right. Then I strutted down. Then I trekked right. Then I ran up. Again I ambled up. Then I went left. Then I strode up. There was a crocodile there. I named it Landon.

I sprinted left. Again I trudged left. There was a beautiful green yellow clover there. It smelled like bilberries.

I plodded left. Again I toddled left. Then I traipsed down. Again I sprinted down. Then I walked left. Then I walked up. Then I paraded left. Then I went up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled up. Again I trekked up. Then I strutted left. Again I toddled left. Then I marched down. Again I shuffled down. Again I strutted down. Then I sauntered down a flight of stairs. So far I held one flower.

CHAPTER TWO

I meandered north. Again I beat cheeks north. Again I strutted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Then I sauntered north. Then I trudged west. Again I paraded west. Again I traipsed west. Again I strutted west. Again I walked west. Again I trudged west. Again I hiked west. Again I marched west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Again I strode south. There was a parakeet there. I named it Jenna.

I traipsed south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks east. Then I toddled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks south. Then I shambled west. Then I stepped south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I trekked south. Then I marched east. Then I shuffled north. Again I strutted north. Then I meandered east. Then I trekked south. Again I ran south. Then I ran east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I sprinted south. Then I ambled west. Again I walked west. Again I strode west. Again I hiked west. There was a beautiful salmon hyacinth there. It smelled like pameloes.

I walked west. Then I shambled north. Then I strode west. There was a lion there. I named it Eli.

I sprinted south. Then I strutted west. Again I shambled west. There was a mustang there. I named it Victoria. It started following me.

I beat cheeks north. There was an antelope there. I named it Shane.

I walked north. Again I marched north. Then I walked west. Then I trudged north. Then I went west. Then I plodded south. Then I plodded west. There was a donkey there. I named it Sadie.

I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Then I ran west. Again I shambled west. Again I went west. Again I stepped west. Then I trudged south. Then I strutted west. Again I shambled west. Then I sprinted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. There was a beautiful gray columbine there. It smelled like bananas. I picked it.

I traipsed west. Again I ambled west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I hiked west. There was a donkey there. I named it Isaiah.

I toddled west. Again I trudged west. There was a beautiful wild strawberry mimosa there. It smelled like mandarines.

I shuffled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. Again I strutted south. Again I shambled south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I traipsed south. Again I sprinted south. There was a beautiful white sage there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

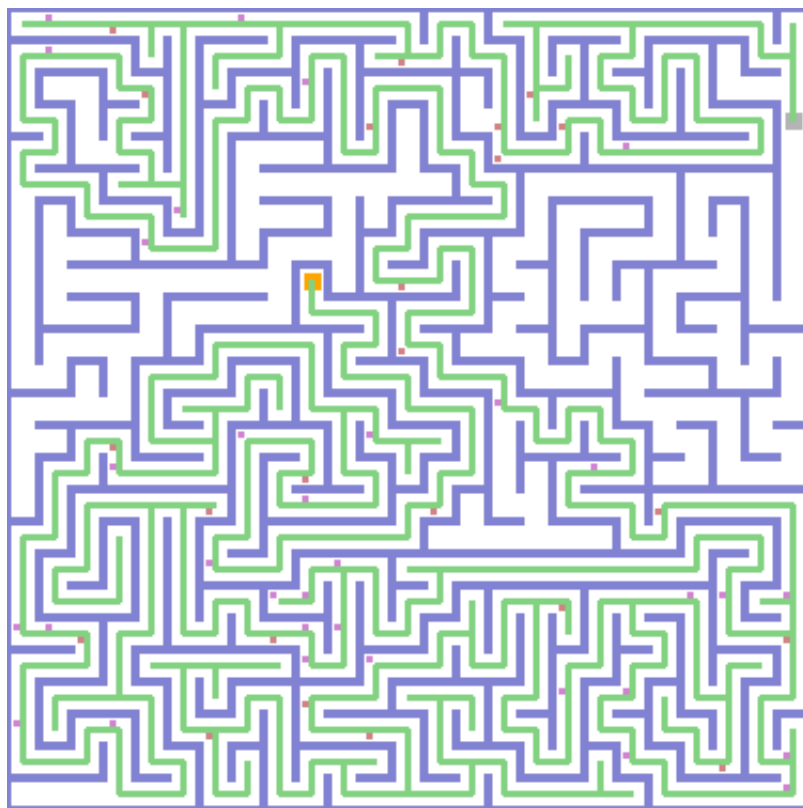

I shambled west. Again I trekked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked north. Then I strutted west. Then I traipsed north. Then I traipsed east. Then I strode north. There was a bat there. I named it Colin.

I hiked west. Then I plodded north. Then I sauntered west. Again I toddled west. There was a beautiful screamin' green sage there. It smelled like pears.

I shambled west. Then I traipsed south. Again I trekked south. Then I shambled east. Then I toddled south. Then I ran west. Then I strode south. Then I meandered east. Again I marched east. Then I marched south. Then I meandered east. Again I strode east. Then I trudged south. There was a beautiful cadet blue marjoram there. It smelled like clementines.

I trudged east. Again I plodded east. Then I strode north. Again I sauntered north. Again I beat cheeks north. Again I hiked north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I ambled north. Then I sprinted east. Then I marched south. Then I stepped east. Then I trudged north. There was a beautiful orange zinnium there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I plodded north. Then I trudged east. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I toddled south. Again I shuffled south. Then I stepped east. Then I went north. There was a silver fox there. I named it Liliana.

I shambled north. Then I meandered east. Again I toddled east. Then I trudged south. Again I hiked south. Then I walked east. Then I strutted south. Then I stepped east. Then I sauntered south. Then I trudged west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I sauntered west. Then I went south. Then I walked west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I paraded east. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Briana.

I marched east. Then I sprinted north. Then I trekked east. Then I hiked south. Again I strode south. Then I traipsed west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I toddled south. There was a crow there. I named it Isaac.

I trudged east. Then I plodded south. Then I sauntered east. Again I meandered east. Then I strutted south. There was a beautiful maroon foxglove there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I shambled east. Then I sprinted south. Then I stepped east. Then I ran north. Then I went east. Then I marched south. Then I ambled east. Then I strode south. Then I trekked west. There was a beautiful wild blue yonder bergamot there. It smelled like grapes. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I paraded west. Then I paraded south. Then I trekked east. Again I sauntered east. Then I stepped south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I trekked north. There was a giraffe there. I named it Oscar.

I beat cheeks east. Again I shuffled east. Again I went east. Again I sauntered east. Then I trudged south. Again I meandered south. Again I shambled south. There was a beautiful desert sand delphinium there. It smelled like quinces.

I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed south. There was a goat there. I named it Giovanni.

I ambled south. Again I plodded south. Then I trekked west. Then I trekked south. Again I trudged south. Then I shuffled east. There was a beautiful banana mania thistle there. It smelled like persimmons.

I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled south. There was a beautiful periwinkle orchid there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I trekked west. Again I strode west. Again I toddled west. Again I ran west. Then I ran north. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a beautiful beaver bellflower there. It smelled like lemons.

I ambled north. Then I hiked west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I strutted east. There was a beautiful white rhododendron there. It smelled like bilberries.

I hoofed it north. Then I trekked east. Then I ambled north. Then I sauntered west. Then I ambled north. Then I sauntered west. Then I toddled south. Again I plodded south. Then I marched west. Then I went south. There was a beautiful cerulean gerbera daisy there. It smelled like plums.

I shambled south. Again I sprinted south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I trekked west. Then I stepped north. Then I went east. Then I walked north. Again I sauntered north. Again I shuffled north. Then I meandered west. Then I shambled south. Again I plodded south. Then I paraded west. Then I marched north. Then I sauntered west. Then I meandered south. Then I went west. Again I trekked west. There was a beautiful tan tansy there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I trekked south. Then I stepped west. Again I shambled west. There was a dromedary there. I named it Genesis.

I beat cheeks south. Then I stepped east. Again I trekked east. There was a sloth there. I named it Anna.

I traipsed east. Then I strode south. Again I strode south. Then I strutted west. Again I stepped west. Then I traipsed north. Then I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched west. Then I sauntered south. Then I toddled west. Then I hiked north. Again I traipsed north. Again I paraded north. Then I meandered west. Then I went south. Then I shambled west. There was a squirrel there. I named it Gregory. It started following me.

I meandered south. Again I paraded south. Then I sprinted east. Then I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. Then I trekked north. Again I plodded north. Then I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped east. Again I ran east. Again I strode east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered east. Again I paraded east. Then I strutted north. Then I paraded east. Then I shambled south. Then I shambled east. Again I ambled east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I hiked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks west. Then I shuffled north. Again I meandered north. Then I marched west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered east. Then I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. There was an armadillo there. I named it Sara.

I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. Again I shuffled east. There was a beautiful antique brass camellia there. It smelled like pomeloes.

I marched south. Again I shuffled south. Again I paraded south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I shambled south. Again I sauntered south. There was a rat there. I named it Henry.

I plodded west.

Gregory asked Victoria, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a mustang and I'm wild."

Then I stepped north. Then I shuffled west. Then I walked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Then I stepped east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hiked north. There was a beautiful white anemone there. It smelled like bananas. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I plodded north. Then I ran east. Then I went north. Then I shambled west. Again I strode west. Then I trekked south. Then I trekked west. Again I walked west. Again I walked west. Again I trudged west. Again I shuffled west. Again I ran west. Again I paraded west. Again I walked west. Again I strode west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I sprinted west. Then I walked south. Then I toddled west. Then I trekked north. Again I beat cheeks north.

Then I trekked west. There was a beautiful goldenrod begonium there. It smelled like salal berries.

I sprinted west. Then I strutted south. There was a beautiful piggy pink amaranth there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I strutted west. There was a beautiful banana mania peach blossom there. It smelled like dates. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked south. Again I sprinted south. There was a beautiful sea green rosemary there. It smelled like goji berries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I plodded south. Then I paraded west. There was a beautiful piggy pink thyme there. It smelled like peaches.

I hoofed it north. There was a beautiful radical red primrose there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I stepped west. There was a grizzly bear there. I named it Danielle.

I hiked west. Then I ambled north. Then I shuffled west. Then I sauntered south. Then I trudged west. Then I sprinted north. Again I strutted north. Again I traipsed north. Again I sauntered north. Then I ran east. There was a koala there. I named it Elizabeth.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked west. Again I went west. Again I sprinted west. Then I trudged south. Again I walked south. Then I walked west. Then I shuffled south. Then I marched east. Again I shambled east. Then I stepped north. Again I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted south. Again I ambled south. Again I trekked south. Again I marched south. Then I shuffled west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I trekked south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I meandered west. Then I walked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled east. Then I shambled south. Again I strutted south. Then I ambled east. Then I hiked south. Then I walked west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I trekked north. Again I walked north. There was a beautiful magenta gerbera daisy there. It smelled like pears.

I meandered west. Then I stepped south. Then I strutted west. Again I shambled west. Then I beat cheeks north. There was a beautiful canary azalea there. It smelled like star fruit.

I beat cheeks north. Again I plodded north. Then I hiked east. Again I paraded east. Then I sprinted north. There was a lamb there. I named it Henry.

I trekked west. There was a beautiful magenta peach blossom there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I stepped west. There was a beautiful periwinkle snapdragon there. It smelled like loquats. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I hiked north. Again I meandered north. Again I shuffled north. Then I ran east. Then I strutted north. Again I paraded north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I paraded north. Then I walked east. There was an otter there. I named it Marissa.

I hoofed it south. There was a beautiful spring green tansy there. It smelled like salal berries.

I traipsed east. Again I toddled east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I ambled north. Again I ran north. Then I sauntered east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I trudged east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks west. Again I strutted west. Then I walked north. Again I ambled north. Then I toddled east. Again I toddled east. Then I stepped north. Then I plodded east. Again I ambled east. Again I sprinted east. Then I shuffled south. Again I strutted south. Then I ambled east. Again I paraded east. Then I marched south. There was a beautiful black begonium there. It smelled like feijoas.

I strutted east. Then I walked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. Again I meandered south. Then I sprinted east. Then I went south. Then I trekked west. Again I sauntered west. There was a beautiful wild blue yonder rose there. It smelled like peaches. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I meandered west. Then I shuffled north. Then I sauntered east. There was a bat there. I named it Alyssa.

I strode north. Then I traipsed west. Again I paraded west. There was a beautiful manatee heather there. It smelled like clementines.

I shambled south. Again I trudged south. Again I shambled south. Then I trudged west. Then I trekked south. There was a beautiful yellow delphinium there. It smelled like pameloes.

I walked east. Again I sprinted east. Then I marched north. Then I strutted east. Again I walked east. Again I sprinted east. Again I paraded east. Then I strode north. Then I sauntered east. There was a silver fox there. I named it Jessica.

I stepped north. Then I strutted east. Then I marched north. Again I paraded north. Then I toddled west. Again I sauntered west. Then I ran north. Then I meandered west. Again I stepped west. Then I toddled north. Then I trekked east. Then I sprinted north. Then I walked west. Again I toddled west. Then I paraded down a flight of stairs. So far two animals were following me, and I held six flowers.

CHAPTER THREE

I sauntered west. Again I paraded west. There was a tapir there. I named it David.

I trekked west. Then I shambled north. Then I sprinted east. Then I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. There was a beautiful sky blue gladiolu there. It smelled like breadfruits.

I shuffled north. Again I trudged north. Then I went west. Then I meandered north. There was a beautiful blue primrose there. It smelled like apples.

I ambled east. Again I trekked east. Again I shuffled east. There was a beautiful screamin' green delphinium there. It smelled like breadfruits.

I trudged north. Then I hoofed it east. There was a beautiful chestnut orange blossom there. It smelled like blood oranges.

I traipsed east. Again I traipsed east. Then I trekked north. Again I paraded north. Then I hiked east. Then I toddled north. Again I toddled north. Then I beat cheeks east. There was a ewe there. I named it Abby.

I shambled east. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose bird of paradise there. It smelled like blackberries.

I sauntered east. There was a yak there. I named it Leah.

I hoofed it east. There was a beautiful radical red hibiscu there. It smelled like rambutans. For some reason I ate it. It tasted terrible.

I paraded east. Then I hiked south. There was a beautiful spring green lavender there. It smelled like loquats.

I hoofed it west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed east. Then I ambled north. Then I stepped east. Again I went east. Then I traipsed south. Then I paraded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked east. Then I went north. Then I meandered east. Then I plodded south. There was a beautiful brick red gladiolu there. It smelled like physaliss.

I ambled south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I hiked west. There was a beautiful black peony there. It smelled like kumquats.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. Then I paraded south. Then I strutted west. Then I sauntered north. Then I hiked west. Again I strutted west. Again I hiked west. Again I ambled west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I marched west. Again I shuffled west. Then I shambled south. There was a gazelle there. I named it Carter. It started following me.

I hiked east. Again I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. There was a bull there. I named it Riley.

I marched south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

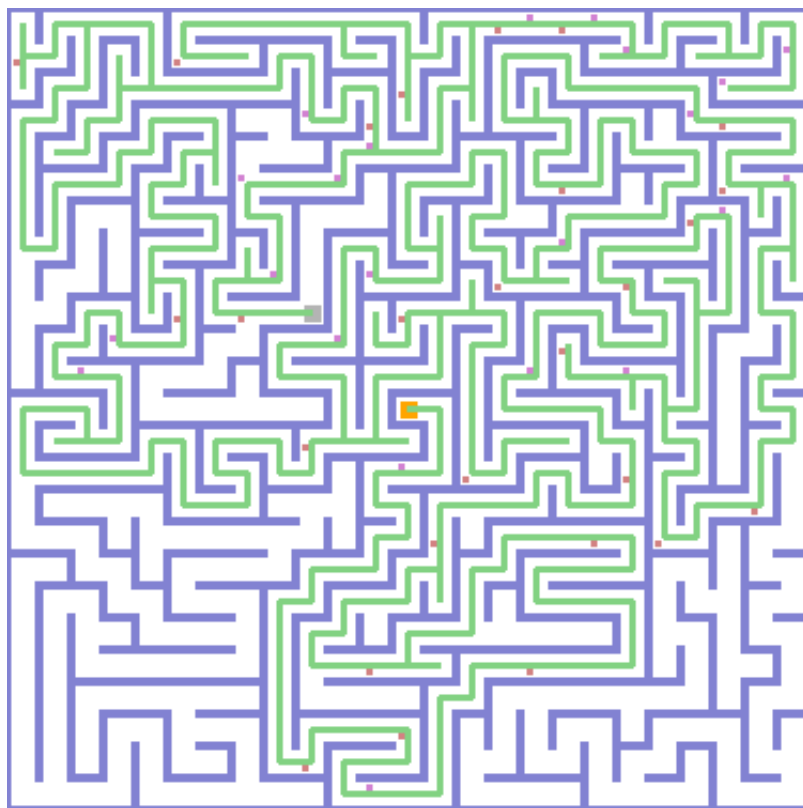

I traipsed north. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Brody.

I marched north. Then I ambled west. Then I went south. Then I ran west. There was a beautiful fern clover there. It smelled like nuts.

I marched north. Again I sprinted north. Then I shambled west. Then I toddled south. Then I toddled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I strutted west. Again I traipsed west. Again I paraded west. Then I trudged north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. Then I trudged west. Then I paraded south. Then I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered north. Again I meandered north. Then I ran west. Again I paraded west. Again I plodded west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I paraded west. There was an ox there. I named it Addison.

I went north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked south. Again I marched south. Then I ambled west. Then I strutted south. Then I trudged west. Then I plodded south. Again I walked south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I shambled south. Then I meandered east. Then I trekked north. Again I ran north. Then I ambled east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I strode east. Then I marched north. Then I plodded east. Again I shuffled east. Then I meandered south. Again I strode south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered west. Then I shambled south. Then I meandered west. Then I trekked south. Then I sprinted east. Again I shuffled east. Then I strutted south. Then I trudged west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I ran south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it east. Then I shuffled south. There was a mandrill there. I named it Crystal.

I ran south. Then I stepped west. Again I strutted west. There was a beautiful gray gerbera daisy there. It smelled like kumquats.

I meandered north. Then I trudged west. Then I walked south. Then I toddled west. Then I strutted south. Then I strode east. There was a beautiful white columbine there. It smelled like limes.

I stepped east. Then I meandered south. Again I trudged south. Then I toddled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Then I marched west. Again I meandered west. Then I trekked south. Again I meandered south. Then I trekked east. Again I stepped east. Again I hiked east. Again I meandered east. Then I ran north. Then I shambled east. Then I hoofed it south. Again I stepped south. Then I sauntered east. Again I plodded east. Then I went north. Then I marched west. Then I went north. Then I went east. Again I paraded east. Then I shuffled south. Then I walked east. Then I stepped north. There was a raccoon there. I named it Henry. It started following me.

I ran east. Again I toddled east. Then I walked north. Again I hiked north. Then I sauntered east. Again I hiked east. Then I ambled north. Again I ambled north. Then I strode west. There was an ape there. I named it Kaleb.

I meandered south. Then I trekked west. Then I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed east. Again I strutted east. Then I toddled south. Then I stepped west. Then I strode south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I ambled south. Again I shuffled south. There was a walrus there. I named it Parker.

I paraded east. Then I trudged north. Then I trekked east. Again I trekked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed north. Again I trudged north. Then I shambled west. Again I traipsed west. Then I shuffled north. Then I marched east. Again I plodded east. There was a beautiful pink sherbert freesium there. It smelled like lemons.

I meandered north. Again I sprinted north. Again I went north. Then I strutted east. Then I meandered south. There was a beautiful forest green chrysantemum there. It smelled like nuts.

I hiked east. Again I strutted east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I trudged north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled west. Then I toddled north. Again I traipsed north. Then I traipsed east. Again I ran east. Then I hoofed it north. Then

I hoofed it east. Then I paraded south. Again I plodded south. Then I went west. Then I hiked south. Then I ran east. Then I marched south. There was a wombat there. I named it Tanner. It started following me.

I hoofed it east. Again I toddled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it north. Then I trudged east. There was a beautiful burnt orange mimosa there. It smelled like lemons. For some reason I ate it. It tasted okay.

I shambled north. Then I walked east. Again I meandered east. Again I plodded east. Then I paraded north. Then I plodded east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I meandered west. Again I shambled west. Then I went north. Then I sprinted west. Then I toddled south. Again I walked south. Then I marched west. There was a deer there. I named it Claire.

I went west. Then I paraded north. Then I ran east. Then I ran north. Then I paraded west. Then I went north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I trekked north. Then I sauntered east. Again I walked east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I stepped east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I strode east. Again I ran east. Then I toddled south. There was a beautiful sepia iri there. It smelled like watermelons.

I sauntered east. There was a mink there. I named it Peyton.

I ran east. Again I walked east. Then I stepped south. Then I strutted west. Again I hiked west. Then I paraded south. There was a ram there. I named it Caitlyn. It started following me.

I marched east. Then I toddled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched east. There was a beautiful forest green water lily there. It smelled like persimmons.

I went south. Again I strode south.

Tanner asked Carter, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a gazelle."

Again I shuffled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks west. Then I hiked south. Again I sauntered south. Then I stepped east. Then I sauntered south. Again I toddled south. Then I marched west. Then I trudged south. Then I toddled east. Then I strutted south. Then I shambled west. Then I went south. Again I walked south. There was a cat there. I named it Andrew.

I went west. Again I trekked west. Then I ran south. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a toad there. I named it Ian.

I ambled north. Again I traipsed north. Then I stepped east. Then I trekked north. Then I strutted west. Then I hoofed it north. Again I traipsed north. Then I paraded west. There was a beautiful apricot mimosa there. It smelled like kumquats. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I shambled west. Again I strode west. Then I ambled north. There was a sheep there. I named it Christian.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked east. Then I walked north. Again I ambled north. Again I trekked north. Again I paraded north. Then I strutted west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered east. Then I walked north. Again I beat cheeks north. Again I marched north. There was a beautiful beaver anemone there. It smelled like honeydews.

I went west. There was a woodchuck there. I named it Colton.

I trekked south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I marched west. Again I sprinted west.

Gregory asked Carter, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a gazelle."

Then I beat cheeks south. Then I paraded east. There was a weasel there. I named it Alexis. It started following me.

I shuffled south. Then I stepped east. Then I trekked south. Then I plodded west. Again I traipsed west. Then I strode north. Then I hiked west. Again I trudged west. Then I trudged south. Again I stepped south. There was a beautiful brown primrose there. It smelled like chili peppers. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I marched west. Then I shambled south. Then I strode east. Again I meandered east. Again I paraded east. Then I shuffled south. Then I ran east. Then I trudged south. There was a deer there. I named it Natalie.

I walked south. Then I shuffled west. Again I walked west. Then I paraded north. Then I strode west. Then I plodded south. Then I marched west. Again I ran west. Again I marched west. Then I shuffled south. There was an orangutan there. I named it Caitlyn.

I hiked south. Again I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked west. Then I strutted south. Then I beat cheeks west.

Caitlyn asked Victoria, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a mustang and I'm wild."

Again I toddled west. Then I sauntered south. Then I hiked west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strutted east. Again I traipsed east. There was a cheetah there. I named it Eric.

I plodded east. Again I trudged east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded north. Then I ambled east. Again I sauntered east. Then I trekked north. Again I strode north. Then I went east. Then I trudged north. Then I traipsed east. Again I trekked east. Again I sprinted east. There was a crocodile there. I named it Christina.

I marched east. Then I sprinted south. Then I went west. Again I marched west. Again I toddled west. Then I stepped south. Then I marched east. Again I hiked east. Again I hiked east. Then I ambled south. Again I trudged south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I stepped west. Again I trekked west. There was a boar there. I named it Alyssa.

I ambled west. Again I paraded west. Then I ambled south. Then I hiked west. Then I ran south. Again I meandered south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I ran west. Again I walked west. There was a beautiful copper mimosa there. It smelled like apricots.

I ran west. Then I shuffled north. Then I shuffled east. Again I strutted east. Then I stepped north. There was a dromedary there. I named it Grace.

I shuffled west. Again I strode west. Again I shambled west. Then I toddled south. There was a toad there. I named it Arianna.

I shambled west. Then I stepped north. Again I traipsed north. Again I strutted north. Again I beat cheeks north. Again I sauntered north. Then I marched east. Then I plodded north. Then I paraded east. Again I walked east. Then I toddled north. Then I went east. Then I shambled north. Then I marched west. Then I walked north. Then I paraded east. There was a beautiful laser lemon marjoram there. It smelled like canary melons.

I trekked east. Then I sprinted north. Again I sprinted north. Then I trudged down a flight of stairs. Carter the gazelle stopped following me for some reason.

So far six animals were following me, and I held six flowers.

CHAPTER FOUR

I meandered north. Again I went north. Again I sauntered north. Then I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east.

Tanner asked Victoria, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a mustang and I'm wild."

Then I hoofed it north. Again I traipsed north. There was a beautiful yellow green camellia there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I strutted east. Again I trekked east. Then I went north. There was a monkey there. I named it Bianca.

I toddled north. Then I sauntered west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strutted west. There was an oryx there. I named it Jocelyn.

I trudged west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I strutted west. Then I meandered south. Again I plodded south. Then I stepped east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I meandered west. Again I stepped west. Again I stepped west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I trudged north. Then I traipsed west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I sprinted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged north. Then I paraded east. Then I stepped south. Then I ran east. Then I sprinted north. Again I walked north. There was a beautiful asparagus orange blossom there. It smelled like elderberries. I picked it.

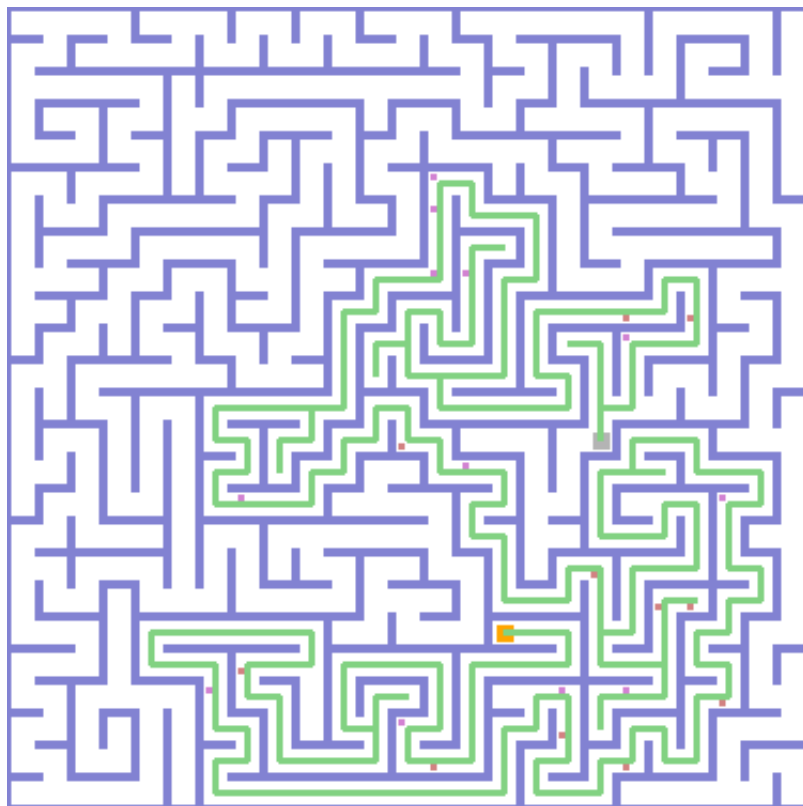

I trekked north. Then I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked east. Again I trudged east. Then I trekked north. Again I sprinted north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I trudged east. Then I strutted north. Again I sprinted north. Then I shambled west. Again I hiked west. Then I paraded north. Then I traipsed west. There was a beautiful salmon amarylli there. It smelled like pears.

I paraded south. There was a beautiful blush thistle there. It smelled like figs.

I hiked south. Again I strutted south. There was a beautiful unmellow yellow aster there. It smelled like bell peppers. For some reason I ate it. It tasted okay.

I meandered west. Again I paraded west. Then I marched south. Then I shuffled west. Then I toddled south. Again I went south. Again I paraded south. Then I marched west. Then I ambled south. Then I sauntered west. Then I marched south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered west. Again I meandered west. Again I toddled west. Then I ambled south. Then I went east. Then I marched south. Then I ran west. Then I shuffled south. Then I strode east. There was a beautiful granny smith apple bluebell there. It smelled like raspberries.

I ran east. Again I ran east. Then I trekked north. Then I went east. Then I toddled north. Then I plodded east. Then I traipsed north. Then I strutted east. Then I walked south. There was an opossum there. I named it Jonah. It started following me.

I hiked east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I shuffled east. There was a beautiful sunset orange tansy there. It smelled like oranges.

I traipsed east. Then I sprinted south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I paraded east. Then I toddled south. Again I plodded south. Then I shambled east. Again I toddled east. Then I strode north. Then I hoofed it east. There was a cat there. I named it Sarah. It started following me.

I hoofed it south. Again I marched south. Again I strode south. Then I sprinted east. Again I paraded east. Then I strode south. Then I hiked west. There was a beautiful wisteria daisy there. It smelled like blueberries.

I toddled west. Then I meandered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Again I strode north. There was a coyote there. I named it Breanna.

I sauntered east. There was an elk there. I named it Mckenzie.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I hoofed it east. Again I shuffled east. Then I marched north. Again I shuffled north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I strutted south. Then I ambled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I marched north. Again I marched north. Then I meandered east. Again I ambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks north. Then I hiked east. Again I ran east. Then I trudged south. Then I marched east. Again I trudged east. Then I walked south. Then I sprinted west. There was a beautiful electric lime columbine there. It smelled like boysenberries.

I stepped south. Again I shuffled south. Then I paraded east. Then I plodded south. Then I marched west. Then I trudged south. Then I stepped west. Then I meandered south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I walked south. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Anna.

I hoofed it west. Then I sprinted south. Again I toddled south. Then I traipsed west. Then I marched north. Then I strode west. Then I trudged south. There was a kangaroo there. I named it Cheyenne.

I hiked west. Then I traipsed south. Then I trudged west. Again I trekked west. Then I ambled north. Then I plodded east. Then I trekked north. There was an opossum there. I named it Marcus.

I traipsed north. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose gerbera daisy there. It smelled like cranberries.

I sauntered west. Then I trudged south. Then I toddled west. Then I walked south. Again I ambled south. Then I paraded west. Again I trudged west. Again I went west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I ambled west. Again I marched west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I meandered west. Again I plodded west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I trudged east. Then I sauntered north. Then I went west. Then I ran north. There was a beautiful blue bell water lily there. It smelled like rambutans.

I meandered north. Then I marched west. Again I meandered west. Then I strode north. Then I walked east. Again I strutted east. Again I traipsed east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I strutted east. Then I marched south. Then I marched west. Again I stepped west. There was a salamander there. I named it Joshua.

I ran south. Then I marched east. Then I marched south. Again I sauntered south. Then I shuffled east. Again I shambled east. Again I plodded east. Then I trekked north. Again I walked north. Then I trudged east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked west. Then I ambled north. Again I went north. Then I stepped east. Again I strode east. Again I traipsed east. Then I went south. Again I toddled south. Then I stepped west. There was a beautiful robin's egg blue buttercup there. It smelled like durians.

I stepped south. Then I traipsed east. There was a capybara there. I named it Mariah.

I sauntered east. Then I sauntered north. Again I sauntered north. Again I sauntered north. Then I trekked east. Again I ambled east. Again I strutted east. Then I shambled north. Then I strutted west. Then I hiked down a flight of stairs. So far eight animals were following me, and I held seven flowers.

CHAPTER FIVE

I trekked north. Again I toddled north. Again I strutted north. Again I marched north. Again I trudged north. Again I went north. Again I strode north. Then I strutted east.

Alexis asked Sarah, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a cat and I'm cute. I have a sharp claw and I can drink milk, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Alexis.

Again I sauntered east. Again I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted north. Again I sprinted north. Again I marched north. Again I strutted north. Again I marched north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

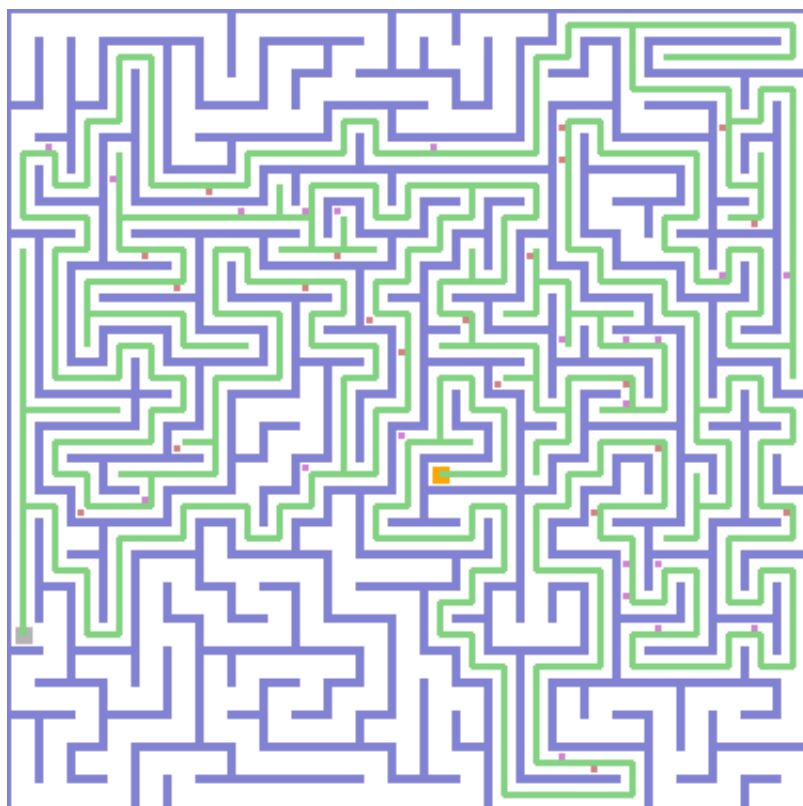

I strode east. Then I shambled south. Again I trudged south. Then I sprinted east. Then I walked south. Again I trudged south. Then I trudged east. Then I toddled north. Again I plodded north. Again I traipsed north. Then I traipsed east. Again I paraded east. Then I sprinted north. Then I marched east. Again I ambled east. Then I toddled south. Then I meandered east. Then I hiked north. Then I shuffled east. Then I plodded north. There was a beautiful blue gerbera daisy there. It smelled like cantaloupes. I picked it.

I trekked east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hiked north. Again I marched north. Then I stepped east. Then I toddled north. Again I went north. There was an ox there. I named it Brendan.

I plodded north. Then I toddled west. There was a finch there. I named it Abigail.

I trekked north. Then I ran east. Then I plodded north. Then I strutted east. Then I trudged north. Then I traipsed east. Then I ambled north. Then I shambled west. Again I trudged west. Then I strutted south. Then I strutted west. Then I went north. Then I stepped west. Again I strode west.

Victoria asked Alexis, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a weasel and I'm furry. I have a nose."

Then I toddled south. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose bird of paradise there. It smelled like nectarines.

I strutted south. Then I ran west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled east. There was a ewe there. I named it Justin.

I meandered north. There was a beautiful vivid tangerine crocu there. It smelled like damsons.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled west. Again I shambled west. There was a beautiful spring green narcissu there. It smelled like strawberries.

I beat cheeks west. Again I walked west. Again I toddled west. Again I ran west. Then I went north. There was a beautiful green yellow thyme there. It smelled like blueberries.

I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. Then I hiked east. There was a bull there. I named it Gavin.

I shuffled east. Then I stepped south. There was a whale there. I named it Jake.

I trudged west. Again I sprinted west. Again I shambled west. Then I strutted south. Then I plodded east. Again I walked east. Again I sauntered east. Then I paraded south. Then I hiked east. Again I trekked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. Again I toddled east. Then I shuffled south. Then I walked west. Then I trekked south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I traipsed west. Then I marched north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks west. Then I trekked south. Then I hiked east. There was a gopher there. I named it Grant.

I trekked south. Then I traipsed east. Again I marched east. Then I strode south. Then I stepped west. There was an otter there. I named it Sergio. It started following me.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted south. Then I paraded east. Then I trekked south. Then I strutted west. Then I meandered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Then I ambled east. Again I sauntered east. There was a hamster there. I named it Brandon.

I beat cheeks south. There was a beautiful banana mania petunium there. It smelled like blackberries.

I strode west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Then I stepped north. Again I beat cheeks north. There was a beautiful green primrose there. It smelled like satsumas.

I plodded west. There was a beautiful fern begonium there. It smelled like kumquats. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I sprinted west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I trudged west. Then I hiked south. There was a beautiful yellow orange buttercup there. It smelled like mandarines.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Then I strutted west. Then I shuffled north. There was a ground hog there. I named it Kenneth.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled south. Then I shuffled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Again I traipsed north. Again I sauntered north. Then I shuffled east. Then I strode north. Then I paraded west. Again I plodded west. Then I shuffled north. Then I stepped east. Then I hiked north. Then I went west. There was a rabbit there. I named it Caden.

I toddled west. Again I went west. Then I strutted north. Then I sprinted west. Then I ambled south. Again I toddled south. Then I walked east. Again I strode east. Then I walked south. Again I strode south. Then I plodded west. Again I sauntered west. Then I toddled south. Again I plodded south.

Tanner asked Caitlyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a ram."

Then I sauntered west. There was a muskrat there. I named it Breanna. It started following me.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. Then I ambled west. Again I stepped west. Again I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled south. There was a beautiful brown carnation there. It smelled like breadfruits.

I trekked west. Again I plodded west. There was an opossum there. I named it Aubrey.

I stepped north. Then I marched west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I sprinted east. Again I trekked east. Again I traipsed east. Then I trekked north. Then I shambled east. Then I shuffled north. Then I walked west. Then I traipsed north. Then I sauntered west. Then I went south. Then I walked west. Again I ambled west. Then I walked north. Again I went north. Again I ambled north. Again I went north. Then I meandered east. Then I trekked north. Then I walked west. Again I trudged west. Then I marched north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I trekked east. There was a beautiful cornflower bird of paradise there. It smelled like grapefruits. For some reason I ate it. It tasted good.

I sauntered south. Then I ran east. Then I strode north. Again I strode north. Then I sprinted east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I strode north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I trekked south. Again I strutted south. Again I marched south. Again I ambled south. Then I plodded east. Again I traipsed east. There was a buffalo there. I named it Brooklyn.

I plodded east. Then I walked north. Then I walked east. Again I walked east. Again I sauntered east. Then I stepped north. Then I ran east. Then I shuffled south. Then I shuffled east. Again I sauntered east. There was a beautiful olive green edelweis there. It smelled like olives.

I hiked east. Again I marched east. Again I plodded east. Then I plodded north. Again I strode north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I trekked east. Then I traipsed north. Then I walked east. Again I trekked east. Again I trekked east. Again I shuffled east. Again I meandered east. Again I plodded east. Again I toddled east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I meandered west. Again I went west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it south. Again I strode south. Then I ambled east. Again I sprinted east. Again I paraded east. Then I shuffled south. There was a marmoset there. I named it Parker.

I beat cheeks south. Again I ran south. Then I sprinted east. Then I hoofed it south. There was a jackal there. I named it Cody. It started following me.

I hoofed it west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped east. Then I strutted north. Then I hiked east. Then I trekked south. Again I hiked south. Again I ran south. Again I ambled south. Again I stepped south. Again I meandered south. There was a beautiful wisteria bergamot there. It smelled like clementines.

I strode south. Again I paraded south. Again I ambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. Again I ran west. Then I went north. Then I plodded east. Then I ran north. Again I walked north. Then I ambled west. Then I toddled south. There was a beautiful mauvelous columbine there. It smelled like chili peppers. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shuffled west. Then I walked north. Then I toddled west. Then I marched north. Then I hiked east. Then I plodded north. Again I shambled north. Then I toddled west. Again I shuffled west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I toddled north. Then I sprinted west. There was an alpaca there. I named it Marissa. It started following me.

I ambled south. There was a gopher there. I named it Kiara.

I strode south. Again I plodded south. Again I strode south. Then I walked east. Then I shuffled south. Then I hiked east. Again I sauntered east. Then I stepped south. Then I strutted east. Then I shambled south. Again I strode south. Again I walked south. Again I shambled south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I sprinted south. Again I meandered south. Then I trudged west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I paraded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Then I hiked north. Then I toddled east. Then I plodded south. Then I plodded east. Then I walked south. Then I meandered west. Then I paraded south. Again I ran south. Then I traipsed east. There was a cheetah there. I named it Jeremiah.

I walked south. Then I plodded west. Again I trekked west. Then I marched south. Again I strutted south. Then I strode east. Then I marched north. Then I traipsed east. Then I shambled south. Again I walked south. Again I walked south. Then I plodded west. Then I trudged north. There was a beautiful maroon snapdragon there. It smelled like feijoas.

I sauntered west. Then I shuffled south.

Jonah asked Victoria, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a mustang and I'm wild."

Then I toddled west. Again I hiked west. Again I plodded west. Then I sprinted north. Then I traipsed east. There was a beautiful cerise foxglove there. It smelled like raisins.

I hoofed it east. Then I sauntered north. Again I plodded north. Then I shuffled west. There was a beautiful lavender delphinium there. It smelled like pineapples.

I sprinted south. Then I shambled west. There was a beautiful tan edelweis there. It smelled like persimmons.

I marched north. There was a beautiful blue bell sage there. It smelled like peaches.

I toddled north. Then I trudged west. Then I sprinted north. There was a chipmunk there. I named it Jordan.

I paraded east. Again I hiked east. Then I ran north. Again I strutted north. There was a ferret there. I named it Noah.

I beat cheeks west. Again I strutted west. Then I meandered south. Then I strode west. Then I trudged south. Then I traipsed west. Then I marched south. Again I trudged south. Then I meandered east. Again I trudged east. Then I ran south. Again I trekked south. Again I traipsed south. Then I marched west. Again I ran west. Then I trekked south. Again I meandered south. Again I traipsed south. Then I hoofed it east. There was a beautiful violet red rhododendron there. It smelled like cranberries.

I meandered east. There was a yak there. I named it Caleb.

I strode east. Then I strode south. Then I plodded west. Again I stepped west. Again I marched west. Again I shuffled west. Then I ambled north. Again I hiked north. Again I shambled north. Again I marched north. Then I traipsed west. Then I walked north. Then I strutted west. Then I trekked north. Then I ran east. Then I ran north. Then I paraded east. Then I sauntered north. Again I paraded north. Then I paraded west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I trekked west. Again I paraded west. Again I hiked west. Then I hiked north. Then I paraded east. Then I meandered north. Again I strode north. There was a beautiful navy blue crocu there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I paraded east. Again I sauntered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I shambled east. Then I ambled south. Then I traipsed east. Then I ambled south. Again I trudged south. Then I shuffled west. Then I strutted down a flight of stairs. So far twelve animals were following me, and I held ten flowers.

CHAPTER SIX

I hiked up. Again I hiked up. Then I hiked left. Then I ran up. There was a camel there. I named it Jason.

I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped right. There was a beautiful green freesium there. It smelled like blueberries.

I stepped down. There was a beautiful navy blue peony there. It smelled like cantaloupes.

I toddled down. Then I shuffled left. There was a beautiful screamin' green tulip there. It smelled like bilberries.

I ran left. There was a beautiful atomic tangerine hibiscu there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I hoofed it up. Again I hiked up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I stepped up. Again I sprinted up. Then I plodded left. Again I meandered left. Then I walked up. There was a beautiful desert sand bellflower there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I hoofed it left. Then I toddled up. Again I ambled up. Again I trekked up. Again I strode up. There was a ground hog there. I named it Christian.

I ambled left. Then I plodded up. Again I marched up. There was a crow there. I named it Paige.

I hiked left. Then I stepped down. There was an aardvark there. I named it Lindsey.

I stepped down. Then I sprinted left. Then I strode up. Then I hiked left. Again I strutted left. Then I walked down. There was a hedgehog there. I named it Ella. It started following me.

I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled up. Then I strode right. Again I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Then I shambled down. Again I hiked down. Then I meandered left. Then I shambled up. Again I trudged up. Then I stepped left. Then I walked down. Then I traipsed left. Then I sauntered up. There was a beautiful burnt orange rose there. It smelled like jambuls.

I meandered left. Again I ran left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I sprinted up. Then I marched right. Then I stepped up. Again I ambled up. There was a kangaroo there. I named it Sydney.

I walked left. Then I toddled up. Again I strode up. Again I sprinted up.

Jonah asked Sarah, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a cat and I'm feline. I have a sharp claw and I can drink milk, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Jonah.

Then I meandered right. Then I toddled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Again I plodded right. Again I traipsed right. Then I shuffled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. Again I went up. Then I shambled right. Then I sauntered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled right. Again I meandered right. Then I sprinted up.

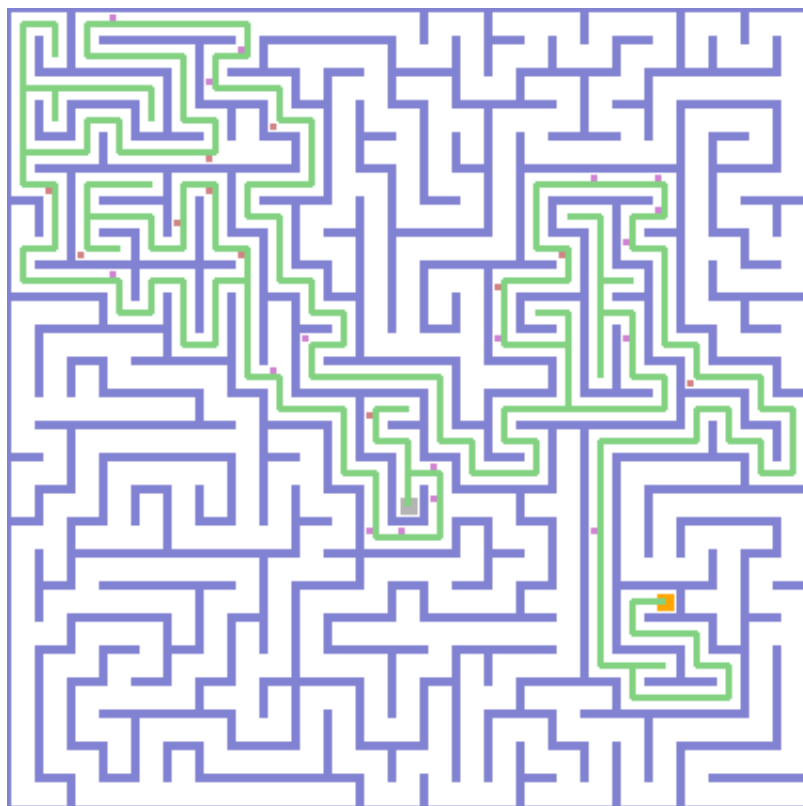

Alexis asked Gregory, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a squirrel. I can gather acorn, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Alexis.

Then I strutted right. Then I ran down. Then I hoofed it right. Again I toddled right. Again I sprinted right. There was a capybara there. I named it Brayden.

I hoofed it up. Then I sauntered left. Then I trekked up. Again I trudged up. Then I sprinted left. Again I ran left. Again I meandered left. Then I strutted up. Then I strode right. There was a beautiful caribbean green foxglove there. It smelled like quinces.

I meandered right. Again I hiked right. Again I ambled right. Again I meandered right. Then I ambled down. There was a beautiful mountain meadow bellflower there. It smelled like pomeloos.

I shambled left. Then I beat cheeks down. There was a beautiful cerulean marigold there. It smelled like nuts.

I plodded right. Again I trudged right. Then I stepped down. There was a reptile there. I named it Valeria.

I strutted right. Then I marched down. Again I meandered down. Then I meandered left. Again I went left. Then I sauntered down. Then I strutted right. Then I shambled down. Again I toddled down. Then I ambled right. Then I shambled down. Then I walked right. Then I traipsed down. Then I plodded left. There was a beautiful almond rhododendron there. It smelled like star fruit. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I ran down. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I hiked right. Again I walked right. Again I toddled right. Then I sprinted down. Again I trekked down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I trudged down. Then I hoofed it right. Again I meandered right. Then I trudged up. Then I trudged left. Then I paraded up. Then I sprinted right. Again I shambled right. Again I sauntered right. Again I stepped right. Again I paraded right. Then I stepped up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I toddled up. There was a beautiful lavender violet there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I sprinted up. Then I shambled left. Then I meandered down. Again I shuffled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran up. Then I ran right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went up. Again I went up. Then I shuffled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Again I plodded up. Again I hiked up. Then I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched left. Again I strode left. There was a beautiful granny smith apple sage there. It smelled like kiwi fruit.

I shuffled up. Again I walked up. There was a wildcat there. I named it Ellie.

I shambled right. Again I paraded right. Then I paraded up. There was a skunk there. I named it Cooper.

I beat cheeks left. Then I strode up.

Breanna asked Cody, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a jackal."

Again I trudged up. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I traipsed right. There was a beautiful outrageous orange rhododendron there. It smelled like bilberries.

I traipsed right. Again I toddled right. There was a beautiful tan marigold there. It smelled like cantaloupes.

I marched down. There was a beautiful burnt orange bird of paradise there. It smelled like pomeloos.

I hiked left. Then I sauntered down. There was a beautiful gold delphinium there. It smelled like tangerines.

I plodded right. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I ambled down. Again I shambled down. Then I strutted right. Then I beat cheeks down. There was a gazelle there. I named it Marco.

I marched right. Again I strode right. Then I toddled down. Then I shambled right. Then I shuffled down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I paraded left. Then I sauntered up. Then I went left. Then I toddled up. Then I ambled left. Then I shuffled down. Then I trekked left. Again I traipsed left. Again I sauntered left. Then I went down.

Sarah asked Cody, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a jackal."

Again I paraded down. Again I traipsed down. There was a beautiful pacific blue tulip there. It smelled like cherimoyas.

I strode down. Again I hiked down. Again I strutted down. Again I strutted down. Then I traipsed right. Again I strutted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Then I trekked right. Again I walked right. Again I paraded right. Then I trudged up. Then I walked left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I paraded left. Again I traipsed left. Then I toddled up. Then I plodded down a flight of stairs. So far thirteen animals were following me, and I held ten flowers.

CHAPTER SEVEN

I sauntered east. Then I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I stepped north. Then I trekked west. Then I trudged south. Again I strode south. Then I marched west. Then I trudged north. Then I traipsed west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I meandered north. Then I shuffled west. Then I trudged north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Again I sprinted north. Then I strutted west. Then I trekked north. Then I ran east. Then I beat cheeks north. There was a beautiful white bluebell there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I trudged west. Then I sauntered north. Then I shuffled west. Then I traipsed north. Again I stepped north. There was a coyote there. I named it Ryan.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. There was a fox there. I named it Mya.

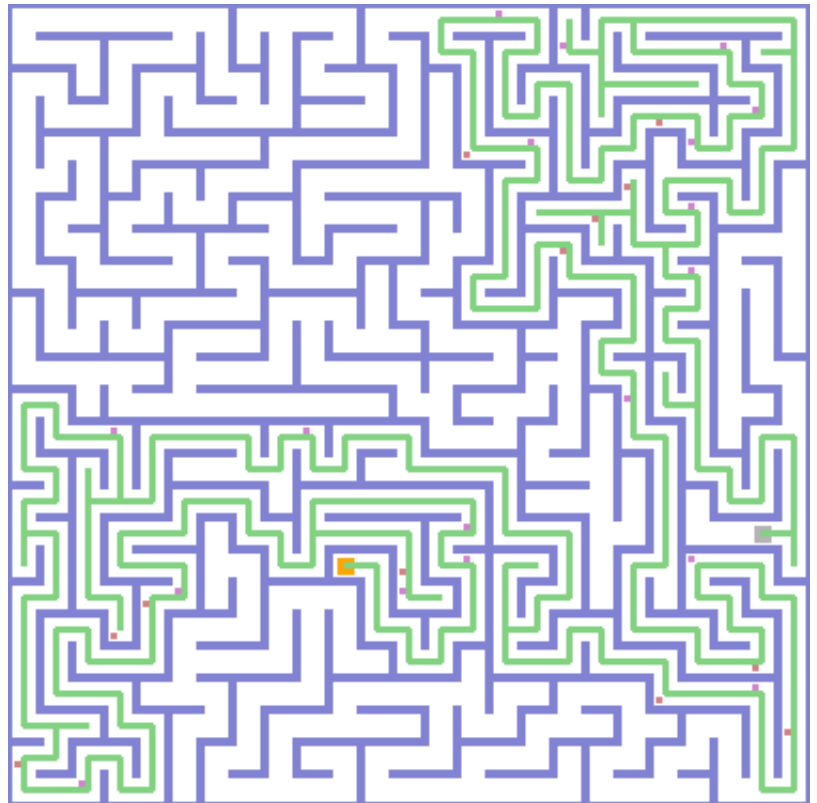

I shuffled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. Then I meandered north. There was a beautiful pink flamingo rhododendron there. It smelled like mandarines.

I trudged west. Then I traipsed north. Then I sprinted east. Again I walked east. Then I went south. Then I walked east. Then I went north. Again I ran north. Then I trudged east. Then I stepped north. Again I trudged north. Again I traipsed north. Then I trekked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded north. Then I marched west. Again I meandered west. Again I went west. Again I went west. Again I strutted west. Again I ran west. Then I went south. Again I walked south. Again I traipsed south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted east. Again I strutted east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. There was a beautiful yellow dahlia there. It smelled like pameloes.

I strode north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Then I stepped east. Again I shuffled east. Again I shambled east. There was a beautiful piggy pink columbine there. It smelled like satsumas.

I traipsed south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I shambled south. There was a beautiful yellow green rosemary there. It smelled like cucumbers.

I stepped west. Then I shambled south. Then I walked west. There was a beautiful carnation pink iri there. It smelled like salal berries.

I beat cheeks north. Then I marched west. There was a salamander there. I named it Devon.

I strutted west. Then I trudged south. Then I trekked west. Then I shuffled south. Then I went west. Then I ran north. Again I sauntered north. Again I trekked north. Then I toddled west. Then I sprinted south. Then I hiked west. Then I sprinted north. Again I traipsed north. Then I marched east. Then I trekked north. Then I hoofed it west. There was a beautiful turquoise blue gerbera daisy there. It smelled like watermelons.

I shuffled west. Again I strode west. Then I shambled south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I meandered south. Again I shambled south. Again I went south. There was a bear there. I named it Carter.

I sauntered east. Again I ran east. There was a beautiful peach rose there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I walked south. Then I strutted west. Then I hiked south. Again I ambled south. Again I hiked south. Then I hiked west. Then I ran south. Then I plodded east. Again I sprinted east. Then I trudged north. Again I meandered north. Then I strode east. There was a reindeer there. I named it Joshua.

I ambled south. Then I trekked east. Again I plodded east. Then I strode south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I trekked west. Then I paraded south. Then I paraded east. Then I traipsed south. There was a beautiful wild strawberry chrysanthemum there. It smelled like mulberries.

I beat cheeks south. Then I trudged east. Then I went south. Again I sauntered south. Again I plodded south. Again I shambled south. Then I went west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I hiked south. Then I hiked east. Again I traipsed east. Then I shambled south. Then I sprinted east. Again I shuffled east. There was a mountain goat there. I named it Hayden.

I beat cheeks north. Then I sauntered west. Then I ambled north. Then I stepped west. Then I strode north. There was a beautiful red bottlebrush there. It smelled like raspberries.

I strutted east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I went south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I hoofed it south. Again I stepped south. Again I sprinted south. Again I trekked south. There was a wolverine there. I named it Dylan.

I toddled south. Again I stepped south. Then I sauntered west. Then I paraded north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I sprinted north. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose daffodil there. It smelled like coconuts.

I hoofed it west. Again I sprinted west. Again I trekked west. There was a walrus there. I named it Noah.

I shambled north. Then I sprinted west. Again I sprinted west. Then I ran north. Then I hiked west. Then I sauntered south. Then I ambled west. Again I sauntered west. Then I shambled north. Again I meandered north. Again I ran north. Then I strode east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. Then I paraded north. Then I sauntered east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I sauntered north. Then I strode west. Again I strutted west. Then I toddled north. Again I marched north. Then I sprinted west. Again I shuffled west. Again I ambled west. Then I marched north. Then I went west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I trekked south. Then I marched west. Then I traipsed north. There was a beautiful violet red gerbera daisy there. It smelled like kiwi fruit.

I plodded west. Then I ambled south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I traipsed north. Then I strode west. Again I paraded west. Again I plodded west. Then I paraded south. Again I marched south. Then I ran west. Again I toddled west. Then I toddled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged south. Again I sauntered south. Again I marched south. Then I stepped east. Then I ran south. There was a gnu there. I named it Skylar.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered north.

Henry asked Cody, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a jackal."

Again I went north. There was a beautiful fuchsia mimosa there. It smelled like kumquats.

I sauntered west. Again I strode west. Then I strutted north. Then I hoofed it west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I trekked south. Then I trekked east. Then I went south. Then I strode west. Then I ran south. Again I trudged south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Then I ambled south. Again I walked south. Then I sprinted west. Then I trudged south. Again I went south. Again I meandered south. Again I ambled south. Then I ran east. Again I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. Then I meandered west. There was a rat there. I named it Diego.

I toddled south. Then I traipsed east. Again I walked east. There was a beautiful green yellow babys breath there. It smelled like redcurrants.

I paraded north. Then I trekked east. Then I toddled south. Then I strutted east. Then I shuffled north. Again I went north. Then I hiked west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I hiked west. Again I strode west. Then I strutted north. Again I trekked north. Then I traipsed east. Then I traipsed south. Then I marched east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I hiked north. Again I hiked north. There was a finch there. I named it Hannah.

I stepped east. There was a beautiful burnt orange buttercup there. It smelled like pears.

I strutted north. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I shambled west. Then I ambled north. Then I plodded east. Again I strutted east. Then I traipsed north. Then I trudged east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I strode east. Then I paraded south. Then I trekked east. Then I walked north. Then I trekked east. Again I ambled east. Again I toddled east. Then I traipsed south. There was a cheetah there. I named it Erick.

I hiked south. There was a beautiful chestnut babys breath there. It smelled like papayas.

I paraded east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed north. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I hiked east. Again I meandered east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I walked east. Then I sprinted south. There was a beautiful pacific blue iri there. It smelled like olives.

I hiked west. Then I ambled south. Then I hiked east. There was a beautiful gray bird of paradise there. It smelled like limes.

I sprinted south. Again I hoofed it south. Then I trekked west. Then I trudged south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I paraded north. Then I ran west. Then I hiked north. Again I shambled north. Then I traipsed down a flight of stairs. So far thirteen animals were following me, and I held ten flowers.

CHAPTER EIGHT

I meandered south. There was a beautiful manatee camellia there. It smelled like blueberries.

I trekked south. Then I marched east. Again I trudged east. Then I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked south. Then I marched west. Then I meandered south. Then I meandered west. Then I traipsed north. Then I shambled west. Again I toddled west. There was a wombat there. I named it Tanner.

I shuffled south. Then I strutted west. Again I hiked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled north. Then I toddled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. There was a beautiful sunglow water lily there. It smelled like plums.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted east. Then I toddled north. Then I toddled east. Then I hiked north. Again I shambled north. Again I traipsed north. Again I marched north. Then I shambled west. Again I plodded west. Then I stepped north. Then I walked east. Again I sauntered east. There was a raccoon there. I named it Zoe.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked south. Again I paraded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode west. Then I trekked south. Again I shambled south. Then I strode west. Again I strutted west. Then I paraded south. Again I trudged south. Then I walked west. There was a gnu there. I named it Isabella.

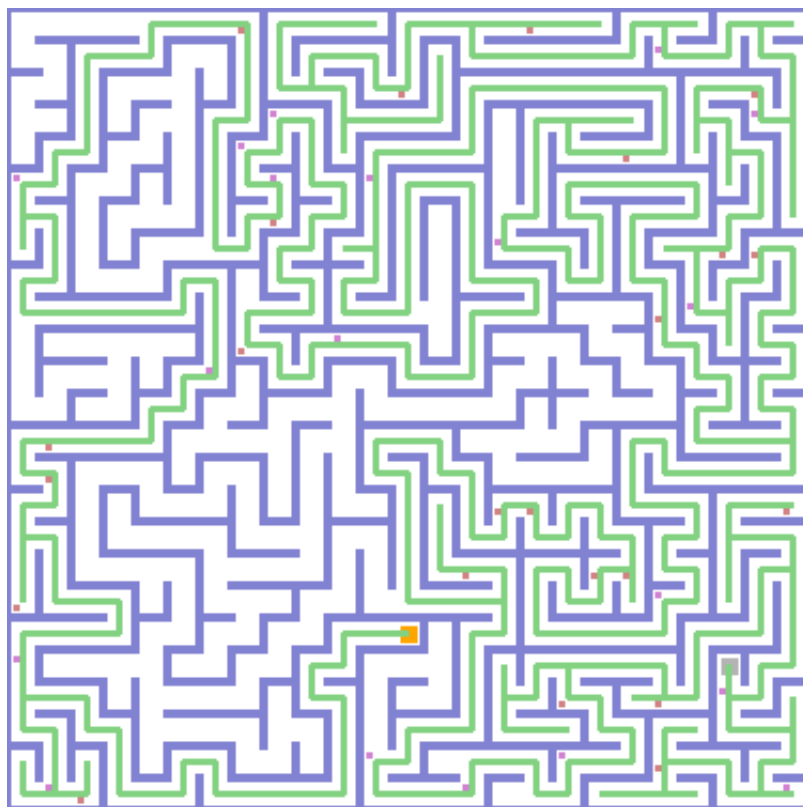

I went west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked north. Then I shuffled west. Again I trudged west. Again I walked west. Again I shuffled west. Then I sauntered south. Then I walked west. Then I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered south. Then I strutted east. Again I sprinted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran south. There was an orangutan there. I named it Adrian.

I ran east. Then I trudged south. Then I strode east. Then I toddled south. Then I hiked west. Again I strode west. There was a beautiful wild watermelon lady's slipper there. It smelled like clementines.

I sauntered south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I stepped north. Then I shambled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I sprinted south. There was a beautiful mango tango clover there. It smelled like blackberries.

I strode west. Again I strutted west. Again I shuffled west. Then I went north. There was a beautiful dandelion foxglove there. It smelled like loquats.

I hoofed it east. Then I hiked north. Then I stepped east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I meandered north. Again I shambled north. Again I stepped north. Then I plodded east. Then I shuffled north. Again I hiked north. Then I trudged west. There was a wildcat there. I named it Kiara.

I traipsed west. Then I plodded north. Again I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks west. Again I toddled west. Again I sprinted west. Then I plodded north. Again I shambled north. Again I trekked north. Again I toddled north. Then I ran west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I ran east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I sprinted south. Then I walked east. Then I paraded south. Again I sauntered south. Then I hiked east. Then I sauntered north. There was a capybara there. I named it Ana.

I strode east. There was a kangaroo there. I named it Patrick. It started following me.

I strode south. Then I meandered east. Then I ambled north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I strutted south. Then I hiked east. Then I ambled south. There was a camel there. I named it Karina.

I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. There was a goat there. I named it Valeria.

I plodded south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I paraded north. Then I marched west. Then I strode south. Again I strode south. Then I trudged east. Again I sauntered east. Again I strode east. Again I shambled east. Then I strutted north. There was a beautiful yellow edelweis there. It smelled like boysenberries.

I toddled east. Then I meandered north. Then I sprinted west. Then I sauntered north. Then I shuffled east. Then I strode north. Then I ran west. Again I sprinted west. Then I trekked north. Again I sprinted north. Then I paraded east. Then I ambled south. Then I hoofed it east. Again I meandered east. Again I ambled east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I toddled north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I trudged west. Then I strutted north. Then I paraded east. Then I shambled north. Then I stepped west. Then I hiked north. Then I trekked east. Then I sauntered north. Again I shambled north. Then I trudged west. There was a rhinoceros there. I named it Emmanuel.

I ambled south. Then I toddled west. Then I meandered south. Then I plodded west. There was a beautiful red violet bergamot there. It smelled like loquats. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I hoofed it north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I toddled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled east. There was a mongoose there. I named it Ariana.

I sauntered north. Then I trudged east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I trekked north. Then I walked west. Then I shambled north. Then I ran west. Then I ran south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks north.

Caitlyn asked Henry, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a raccoon. I have an integrity and I can bicycle badly, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Caitlyn.

Then I beat cheeks east. Again I plodded east. There was a cow there. I named it Juan.

I strutted south. There was a beautiful robin's egg blue zinnium there. It smelled like goji berries.

I paraded east. Then I meandered south. Again I shuffled south. Again I traipsed south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled north. Again I strode north. Then I went west. Then I strutted north. Then I ambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered west. Then I trekked south. Then I traipsed west. Again I paraded west. There was a beautiful pine green clover there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I meandered north. Then I strutted east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Then I ran south. Then I shambled west. Again I shambled west. Again I plodded west. Again I ambled west. Again I strode west. Then I trekked north. Then I toddled east. Again I strutted east. There was a mongoose there. I named it Emma.

I trekked east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. Again I ran west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I hoofed it south. There was a giraffe there. I named it Danielle.

I paraded west. Then I toddled north. Then I plodded west. Again I shuffled west. Then I meandered south. Then I strutted west. Then I went north. Again I shambled north. Then I hiked east. Again I marched east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed east. Then I traipsed south. Then I marched east. Again I went east. Again I trudged east. Then I went north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks west. Again I shambled west. Again I sauntered west. Then I trudged north. Then I shuffled east. Then I paraded north. Then I strode west. Then I trekked north. Then I plodded west.

Henry asked Patrick, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a kangaroo. I have a tail and I can jump far, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to bicycle badly!" replied Henry.

Then I ambled north. There was a puma there. I named it Spencer.

I paraded north. Then I marched west. Then I strutted north. Again I shambled north. Then I went east. Again I paraded east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I sauntered west. Again I walked west. Again I trekked west. Again I shuffled west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I sprinted south. Again I shuffled south. Then I plodded west. Then I ran north. Then I shuffled west. Again I walked west. There was a beautiful brown crocu there. It smelled like elderberries.

I went north. Then I hiked east. Then I stepped north. Again I ran north. Again I sprinted north. Then I traipsed east. Again I paraded east. Again I strode east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. Then I traipsed east. Again I toddled east. There was an armadillo there. I named it Angelina.

I plodded east. Then I walked north. Again I toddled north. Then I strode west. Again I trudged west. Again I trudged west. Again I trekked west. Again I ran west. Again I sprinted west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I ran south. Then I paraded west. Again I stepped west. Again I meandered west. Then I sauntered south. There was a beautiful olive green buttercup there. It smelled like loquats.

I strutted south. Again I trudged south. Then I sauntered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I plodded south. Then I sauntered east. Again I traipsed east. Then I hoofed it north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I walked north. Again I sprinted north. Then I plodded east. Again I went east. Then I trudged south. Again I strode south. Again I meandered south. Then I ambled east. Again I marched east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I traipsed west. Then I stepped south. Again I sauntered south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I strode west. Then I ambled north. Then I toddled west. Again I marched west. There was a beautiful copper bird of paradise there. It smelled like guavas.

I traipsed west. Then I walked south. Then I trudged west. Then I hiked north. Then I plodded west. There was a gopher there. I named it Trinity. It started following me.

I stepped north. Then I trekked east. Again I went east. Then I sprinted north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I meandered north. Then I hiked east. Then I strode north. Then I trudged east. Then I shambled north. Then I paraded west. Then I hiked north. Again I trekked north. Then I trudged west. There was a beautiful silver holly there. It smelled like dates.

I strode south. Then I meandered west. There was a beautiful canary primrose there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I trudged south. Then I plodded east. There was a beautiful pacific blue tulip there. It smelled like canary melons.

I strode south. There was a gopher there. I named it Hector.

I paraded west. Then I shambled south. Then I marched west. Then I walked north. Again I sauntered north. Again I toddled north. Again I stepped north. Then I sauntered east. Then I walked north. Again I strutted north. Again I traipsed north. There was a raccoon there. I named it Cameron.

I sauntered west. Again I ambled west. Again I ambled west. Then I sauntered south. Then I strutted west. Again I walked west. Then I ambled south. Again I shambled south. Again I walked south. Then I walked west. Then I strutted south. Then I trudged west. There was a beautiful red violet sage there. It smelled like tangerines.

I sprinted south. Again I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. Then I sprinted south. Again I went south. Then I strutted west. Then I hiked south. Then I ran east. Again I strode east. Again I sprinted east. Again I ran east. Again I traipsed east. Then I sauntered north. Then I plodded east. Then I ambled south. Again I shambled south. Again I went south. There was a beautiful blue green camellia there. It smelled like physaliss.

I meandered west. Then I toddled south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I went south. Then I trudged west. Again I plodded west. Again I strutted west. There was a sheep there. I named it Jayden.

I ambled west. Then I shuffled south. Then I ran east. There was a toad there. I named it Hunter.

I toddled south. Then I stepped west. Then I ran south. Again I plodded south. Again I walked south. There was a marmoset there. I named it Zoey.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed east. Then I shuffled south. Again I strode south. Then I hoofed it east.

Gregory asked Jonah, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an opossum."

Again I strode east. Then I walked south. Then I ran west. Again I paraded west. Again I meandered west. Then I strode south. There was a beautiful navy blue bluebell there. It smelled like jambuls.

I sauntered south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I beat cheeks south.

Breanna asked Marissa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alpaca."

Again I strode south. There was a beautiful purple mountain's majesty sage there. It smelled like watermelons.

I ran west. Then I toddled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. There was a snake there. I named it Sean.

I shambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. Again I paraded east. Then I marched south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I hiked south. Again I ambled south. Then I toddled east. Again I meandered east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I toddled east. Then I marched south. Then I plodded east. Again I toddled east. Again I traipsed east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I plodded north. Again I trekked north. Again I strode north. Then I ambled west. Then I plodded north. Then I traipsed east. Then I strutted north. Then I trudged east. Then I strode down a flight of stairs. So far fifteen animals were following me, and I held ten flowers.

CHAPTER NINE

I meandered east. Again I stepped east. Again I shambled east. Again I shambled east. Then I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped north. Again I ambled north. Then I strode east. Again I strode east. Again I plodded east. Then I went south. Then I ambled west. Then I trudged south. There was a beautiful wisteria jasmine there. It smelled like durians. I picked it.

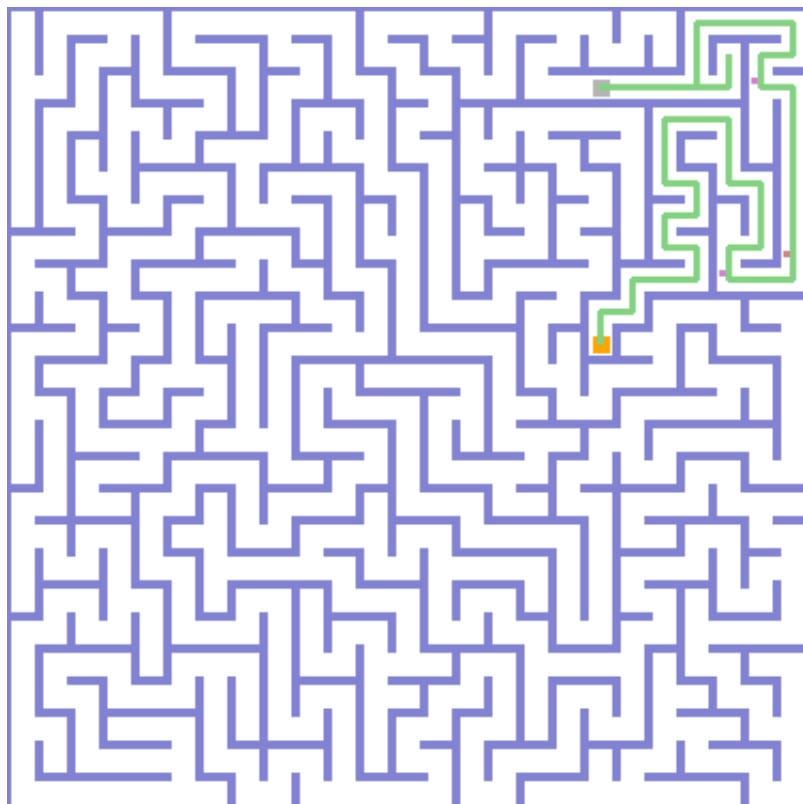

I toddled east.

Cody asked Patrick, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a kangaroo. I have a tail and I can jump far, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Cody.

Then I plodded south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I strutted south. Again I plodded south. Again I shuffled south. There was an alpaca there. I named it Serenity. It started following me.

I sauntered south. Then I hiked west. Again I ambled west. There was a beautiful macaroni and cheese heather there. It smelled like watermelons.

I beat cheeks north. Then I walked east. Then I shuffled north. Again I ambled north. Then I ran west. Then I ambled north. Again I trudged north. Then I meandered west. Again I went west. Then I stepped south. Again I plodded south. Then I ran east. Then I went south. Then I plodded west. Then I hiked south. Then I sprinted east. Then I shambled south. Then I meandered west. Again I paraded west. Then I trekked south. Then I traipsed west. Then I beat cheeks down a flight of stairs. So far sixteen animals were following me, and I held eleven flowers.

CHAPTER TEN

I marched left. Then I plodded down. There was a skunk there. I named it Katherine. It started following me.

I strutted left. Then I traipsed up. Again I meandered up. Again I went up. Then I paraded right. There was a beautiful violet bird of paradise there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I meandered up. Then I went right. Again I toddled right. There was a beautiful blue violet tulip there. It smelled like blueberries.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I ran down. Then I traipsed right. Then I shuffled up. Then I meandered right. Then I stepped up. There was a beautiful sky blue orchid there. It smelled like star fruit.

I traipsed right. Then I walked up. Then I marched right. Then I went down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled up. Then I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. There was a beautiful burnt sienna foxglove there. It smelled like dates.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

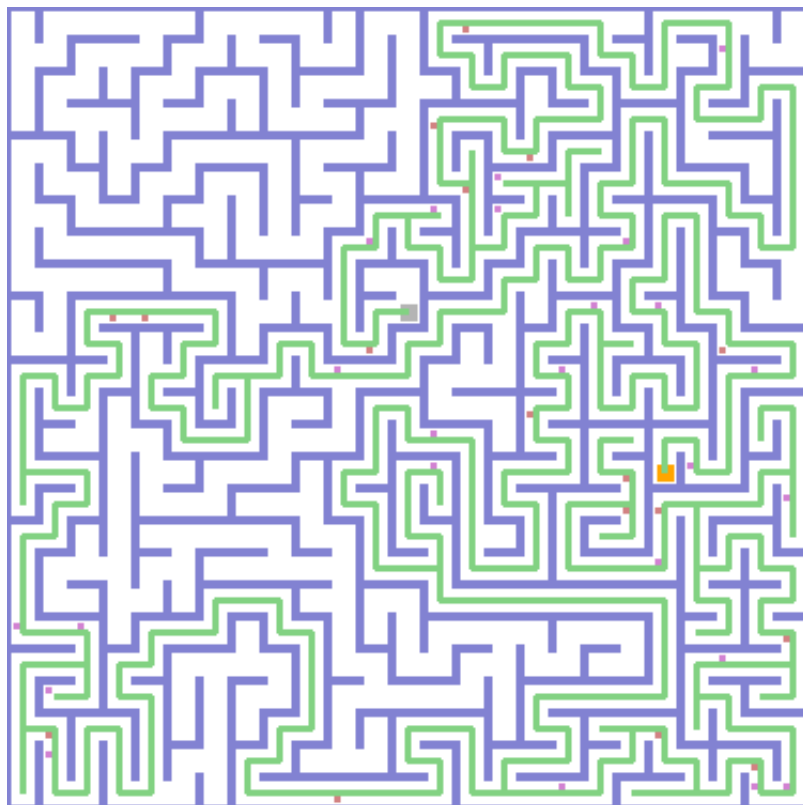

I trekked up. Again I went up. There was a horse there. I named it Grace.

I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks left. Then I strutted up. Again I went up. There was a rabbit there. I named it Elizabeth.

I sprinted right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I traipsed down. Then I meandered right. There was a prairie dog there. I named it Seth.

I hiked up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I ambled right. Then I plodded up. Then I strode left. Then I stepped up. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I walked left. Then I shambled down. Then I went left. Then I strutted up. Then I trudged left. Then I toddled up. Then I strode right. There was an aardvark there. I named it Sean.

I trudged right. Again I shuffled right. Again I meandered right. Again I paraded right. Then I toddled down. Then I sauntered right. Then I meandered down. Then I strutted right. Then I strutted up. Again I walked up. Then I sauntered right. Again I toddled right. Then I traipsed down. There was a beautiful antique brass orchid there. It smelled like blueberries.

I trekked down. Then I traipsed left. Then I went down. Then I went right. Again I went right. Then I sprinted up. Then I stepped right. Then I strode down. Again I plodded down. Again I meandered down. Again I meandered down. Again I walked down. Then I sprinted left. Then I paraded up. Then I ran left. Then I went up. Then I shambled left. Again I traipsed left. Then I traipsed up. Again I traipsed up. Then I trekked left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I went down. Then I ran left. Then I sauntered down. Then I stepped right. Then I strutted down. There was a beautiful purple heart begonium there. It smelled like peaches.

I marched left. Then I sauntered down. Then I trekked left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I sauntered left. Then I trudged down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I shuffled down. Then I trudged left. Again I went left. Then I marched down. Then I trudged left. Then I went down. Then I stepped left. Again I traipsed left. There was a beautiful vivid violet iri there. It smelled like jambuls. For some reason I ate it. It tasted terrible.

I strode left. Then I trudged up. Then I strode left. Then I meandered down. Then I sauntered left. Again I traipsed left. Then I ambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Again I shuffled down. Then I sauntered left. Again I sprinted left. Then I stepped up. Then I shambled left. Then I plodded up. Then I strutted right. Then I ambled up. Then I strode right. Then I meandered up. Then I toddled left. Again I shambled left. There was a mole there. I named it Layla.

I marched left. There was a dingo there. I named it Jayla.

I strutted left. Then I ambled down. Then I went right. Then I paraded down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I hiked down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I shuffled up. Then I went left. Then I walked down. Again I strode down. Again I went down. Again I sprinted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I shambled left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I shambled left. Then I marched down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I plodded down. There was a beautiful pink flamingo ladys slipper there. It smelled like canary melons.

I walked right. Again I stepped right. There was a beautiful apricot petunium there. It smelled like bananas.

I shuffled down. Again I traipsed down. Then I trudged left. There was a beautiful black delphinium there. It smelled like nuts.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered left. Again I went left. Then I stepped down. Again I meandered down. Again I stepped down. Again I ambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged right. There was a salamander there. I named it Edward.

I strode down. There was a beautiful cerulean anemone there. It smelled like olives.

I ran down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I shuffled up. Again I meandered up. Then I sprinted right. Then I stepped down. Again I hiked down. Then I sprinted right. Then I shuffled up. Again I trekked up. Again I meandered up. Then I strutted left. Then I shambled up. Then I stepped right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I shambled right. Again I paraded right. Then I strode up. Then I ran right. Again I shuffled right. Then I stepped down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I hiked down. Again I meandered down. Again I shambled down. Then I paraded left. Then I plodded down. Then I paraded left. Then I hiked down. Then I meandered right. Again I toddled right. Again I stepped right. There was an opossum there. I named it Kate.

I hoofed it right. Again I shuffled right. Again I went right. Then I ambled up. Then I sprinted left. Then I traipsed up. Then I marched right. Again I paraded right. Then I hiked down. Again I ran down. Then I shambled right. Again I hiked right. Again I toddled right. There was a beautiful neon carrot crocu there. It smelled like eggplants.

I went right. Then I strode up. Then I ran right. Then I ambled up. Then I traipsed right. There was a bear there. I named it Kimberly. It started following me.

I went down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I paraded down. Then I stepped right. Then I trudged up. Then I strutted right. There was a bison there. I named it Mackenzie.

I paraded down. There was a beautiful pink sherbert carnation there. It smelled like avocadoes.

I trudged right. There was a beautiful denim bottlebrush there. It smelled like persimmons.

I hiked up. Again I hiked up. Then I plodded left. Again I strutted left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I trekked left. Then I stepped up. Then I stepped right. There was a beautiful tan lilac there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I trekked right. Again I sprinted right. Then I went up. There was an otter there. I named it Genesis.

I strode left. Then I sauntered up. Then I stepped right. Then I meandered up. Then I marched left. Then I sprinted up. Then I trekked left. Then I trekked down. Then I strode left. Then I ran up. Again I strutted up. Then I sauntered left. There was a tapir there. I named it Caleb.

I hiked down. Again I strutted down. There was a beautiful red violet holly there. It smelled like bilberries.

I trudged left. Again I ran left. Again I paraded left. Then I hoofed it up. Again I strode up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I shambled right. There was a finch there. I named it Brandon. It started following me.

I shuffled down. Then I trekked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode up. There was an iguana there. I named it Reagan. It started following me.

I hoofed it left. Then I sauntered up. Then I strutted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Again I ambled right. Then I went up. Then I sauntered right. Then I ambled down. There was a beautiful yellow green sage there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I strutted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. Again I strutted up. Then I shuffled left. Then I strode down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked down. Then I went right. Then I ran down. Then I traipsed left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Again I went left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. Then I meandered right. Again I toddled right. Then I toddled up. Then I strode left. Then I ambled up. Then I shuffled right. Again I sprinted right.

Katherine asked Marissa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alpaca."

Again I beat cheeks right. Again I strode right. Then I shuffled up. Again I plodded up. Again I traipsed up. Then I trekked left. Again I toddled left. Again I trudged left. Again I plodded left. Again I walked left. Again I plodded left. Again I marched left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I shambled up. Then I trudged left. Then I strode up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I traipsed right. There was a beautiful outer space bottlebrush there. It smelled like blueberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted like chicken.

I marched down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Again I shuffled left. Then I toddled up. Again I shambled up. Then I trekked left. Then I ran up. Then I meandered right. Then I walked up. Again I shuffled up. Then I traipsed right. Then I ambled down. Then I ambled right. There was a beautiful magenta clover there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I beat cheeks right. Then I shuffled down. Again I paraded down. Again I went down. Again I trekked down. Then I meandered right. Again I ran right. Then I trekked up. Again I plodded up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I ran up. Then I trekked right. Again I trekked right. Then I went up. Then I ambled left. Then I stepped up. There was a fox there. I named it Jared.

I stepped right. Then I plodded up. There was a beautiful blue violet crocu there. It smelled like nectarines.

I ambled left. Then I traipsed up. Then I traipsed right. Then I sauntered up. Then I meandered right. There was a beautiful mango tango crocu there. It smelled like nuts.

I trudged down. Then I meandered right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded down. Again I hiked down. Then I strode right. Then I paraded up. Then I walked right. Then I trekked down. Then I ambled right. Then I trekked up. Again I meandered up. Then I meandered left. Then I shambled up. There was a beautiful fuchsia carnation there. It smelled like loquats.

I went left. Then I trekked up. Then I hiked right. Then I sprinted up. Again I meandered up. Then I paraded right. Then I shambled down. Again I paraded down. Again I ambled down. Then I marched right. Then I walked down. There was a weasel there. I named it Kendall.

I traipsed right. Again I traipsed right. Then I paraded down. Then I shuffled left. There was a beautiful green lilac there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I meandered left. Then I sauntered down. Again I traipsed down. Again I trekked down. Then I trudged left. There was a beautiful brown begonium there. It smelled like persimmons.

I hoofed it up. Then I traipsed left. Then I sauntered down a flight of stairs. So far twenty animals were following me, and I held eleven flowers.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

I paraded down. Then I marched right. Then I traipsed down. There was a leopard there. I named it Crystal.

I ran left. Then I beat cheeks down. There was an aardvark there. I named it Layla.

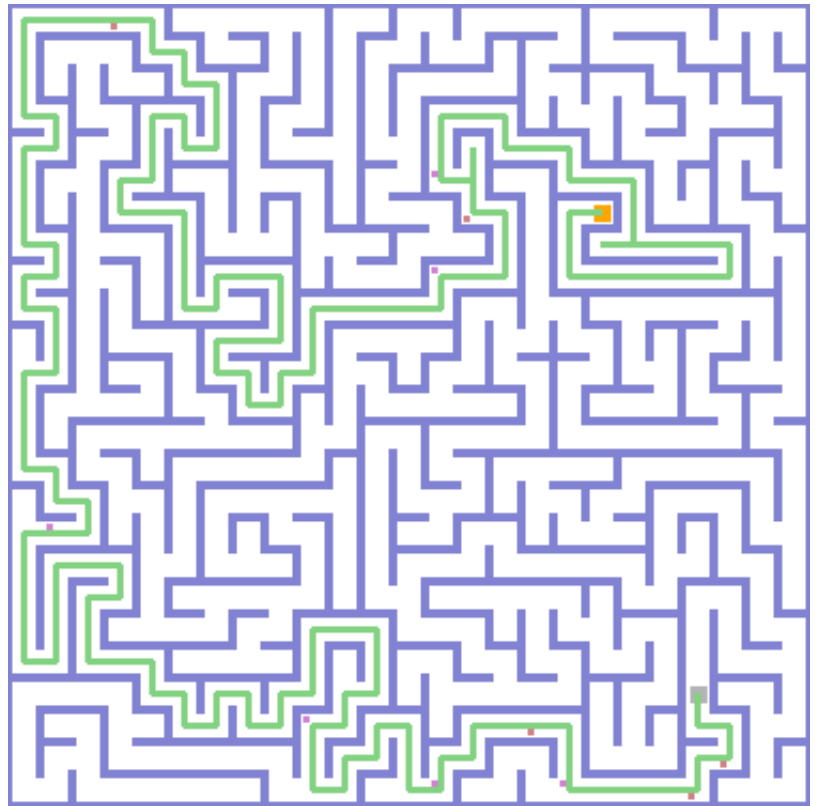

I hoofed it left. Again I sprinted left. Again I shuffled left. Again I went left. There was a beautiful vivid violet camellia there. It smelled like lychees.

I hiked up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I toddled left. There was an iguana there. I named it Bianca.

I shuffled left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I ran down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I stepped down. There was a beautiful wild strawberry marigold there. It smelled like durians.

I trekked left. Then I hiked up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I hiked left. Then I ran down. Then I meandered left. Then I hiked down. Then I meandered left. Then I ambled up. Again I ran up. There was a beautiful hot magenta hyacinth there. It smelled like persimmons.

I shuffled right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I trekked right. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I marched up. Then I strode left. Again I walked left. Then I ambled down. Again I strutted down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I walked down. Then I toddled left. Then I marched up. Then I sprinted left. Then I meandered down. Then I sprinted left. Then I plodded up. Then I strutted left. Then I meandered up. Then I marched left. Again I walked left. Then I strutted up. Again I ambled up. Then I hiked right. Then I strode up. Then I stepped left. Again I ran left. Then I ran down. Again I trudged down. Again I paraded down. Then I strutted left. Then I traipsed up. Again I paraded up. Again I hoofed it up. Again I stepped up. Then I toddled right. There was a beautiful yellow lilac there. It smelled like rock melons.

I sauntered right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I trudged up. Then I toddled left. Then I ran up. Again I ran up. Again I traipsed up. Then I hiked right. Then I ambled up. Again I paraded up. Then I strutted left. Then I trekked up. Then I marched right. Then I stepped up. Then I walked left. Then I shuffled up. Again I hoofed it up. Again I toddled up. Then I hiked right. Then I ran up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I toddled up. Again I paraded up. Again I stepped up. Then I went right. Again I walked right. Again I strutted right. There was a boar there. I named it Bryce.

I shambled right. Then I marched down. Then I trekked right. Then I walked down. Then I marched right. Then I paraded down. Again I trudged down. Then I plodded left. Then I shambled up. Then I strode left. Then I traipsed down. Again I plodded down. Then I sauntered left. Then I sauntered down. Then I sprinted right. Again I ambled right. Then I strode down. Again I ran down. Again I paraded down. Then I toddled right. Then I trekked up. Then I ambled right. Again I trudged right. Then I plodded down. Again I ran down. Then I meandered left. Again I strutted left. Then I traipsed down. Then I went right. Then I ran down. Then I trekked right. Then I meandered up. Then I went right. Then I strode up. Again I shambled up. Then I sprinted right. Again I stepped right. Again I ambled right. Again I sauntered right. Then I strode up. There was a beautiful bittersweet marigold there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I strode right. Again I stepped right. Then I plodded up.

Kimberly asked Patrick, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a kangaroo. I have a tail and I can jump high, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to mother cub!" replied Kimberly.

Again I traipsed up. Then I strode left. There was a panda there. I named it Caleb.

I marched up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran left. There was a beautiful fuchsia lady's slipper there. It smelled like guavas.

I trudged up. Again I toddled up. Then I strutted right. Again I stepped right. Then I strode down. Then I trekked right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I sauntered down. Then I meandered right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I shambled down. Again I hiked down. Then I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Again I paraded right. Again I sauntered right. Then I paraded down. Then I sauntered left. Again I went left. Again I shambled left. Again I went left. Again I trekked left. Then I strutted up. Again I trudged up. Then I meandered down a flight of stairs. So far twenty animals were following me, and I held eleven flowers.

CHAPTER TWELVE

I sprinted right. Again I plodded right. Then I traipsed up. Again I ran up. Then I stepped left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled up. Again I trudged up. Then I toddled right. Then I trekked down. Then I walked right. Then I paraded down. There was a beautiful green yellow amarylli there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I ambled right. Again I toddled right. There was a beautiful wisteria zinnium there. It smelled like persimmons.

I plodded up. There was a beautiful purple pizzazz petunium there. It smelled like damsons.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted down. Then I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped down. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I toddled left. Then I walked down. Again I traipsed down. Again I marched down. There was a dromedary there. I named it Omar.

I stepped down. Then I toddled right. Then I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Then I plodded left. Then I meandered down. Again I strode down. Then I hiked left. There was a beautiful copper anemone there. It smelled like kumquats. For some reason I ate it. It tasted terrible.

I paraded down. Then I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

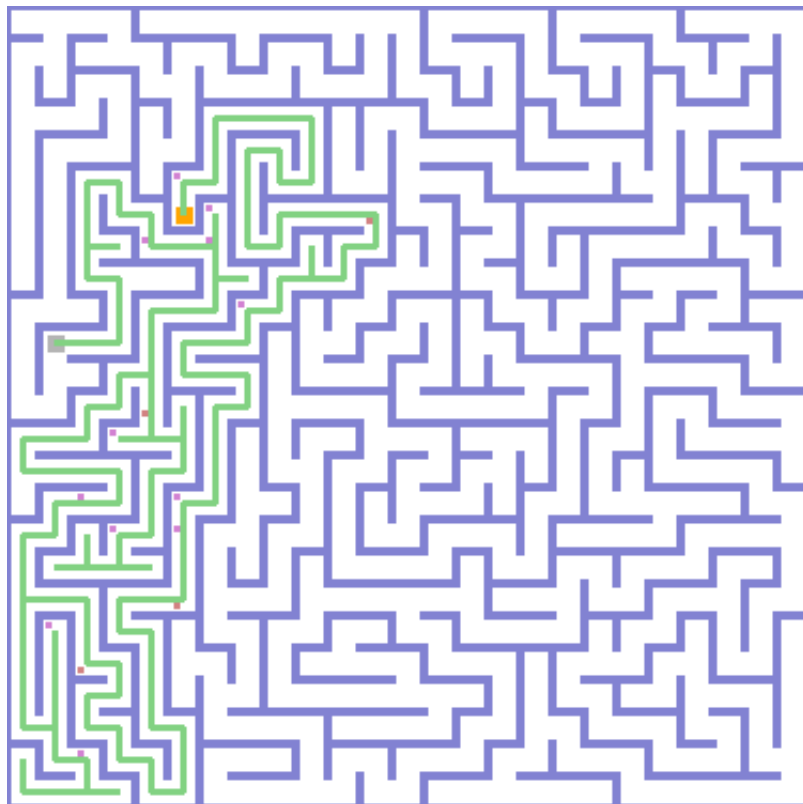

I ran left. Again I shambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. There was a beautiful desert sand bottlebrush there. It smelled like lychees. I picked it.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked left. Then I shambled down. Then I sauntered left. Then I ambled down. Then I trudged left. Again I shuffled left. Then I hiked down. Then I traipsed right. Again I traipsed right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I ran down. Then I traipsed left. There was a beautiful bittersweet orchid there. It smelled like kiwi fruit. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I plodded left. Then I toddled down. Then I strode left. Then I traipsed down. Again I toddled down. Again I paraded down. Again I hiked down. Again I sprinted down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I walked right. Then I hiked down. Then I went right. There was a beautiful cotton candy azalea there. It smelled like jujubes.

I trekked down. Then I shambled left. Again I sprinted left. Then I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered up. Again I walked up. Again I shambled up. There was a beautiful lavender foxglove there. It smelled like quinces.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Again I sprinted right. Then I sauntered down. Again I ran down. There was a porcupine there. I named it Sophie.

I shuffled right. Then I meandered down. Then I hiked left. Then I plodded down. Then I sauntered right. Then I went down. Then I plodded right. Then I ambled down. Then I toddled right. Then I ran up. Again I shuffled up. Then I strode left. Then I sauntered up. Again I plodded up. Again I ambled up. Then I shambled left. Then I meandered up. Then I ambled right. Again I paraded right. There was a lizard there. I named it Hector.

I traipsed up. Again I toddled up. There was a beautiful tropical rain forest marigold there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I went up. There was a beautiful fern tansy there. It smelled like peaches.

I toddled right. Then I meandered up. Again I walked up. Again I shambled up. Then I hiked right. Then I marched up. Then I marched left. Again I ambled left. Then I strutted up. Then I trudged right. Again I sauntered right. Then I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful aquamarine rosemary there. It smelled like jambuls.

I plodded right. Then I strutted up. Then I strode right. Then I strutted up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled right. Then I ambled up. Then I traipsed right. Then I walked up. There was a gorilla there. I named it Vincent.

I stepped left. Again I walked left. Again I sprinted left. Then I plodded down. Then I shambled left. Then I shuffled up. Again I strutted up. Again I walked up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I shambled down. Then I stepped right. Then I strode up. Again I sprinted up. Then I meandered left. Again I trekked left. Again I shambled left. Then I trekked down. Again I traipsed down. Then I sprinted left. There was a beautiful fuchsia orchid there. It smelled like papayas.

Then I paraded down a flight of stairs. So far twenty animals were following me, and I held twelve flowers.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

I trekked east. There was a canary there. I named it Erik.

I stepped east. Then I shambled north. Then I stepped east. Then I toddled north. Then I shuffled west. Then I strode north. Again I shuffled north. Then I ran east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I paraded north. Again I hiked north. Then I trudged west. Again I sauntered west. Again I trekked west. Then I paraded north. Again I sauntered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

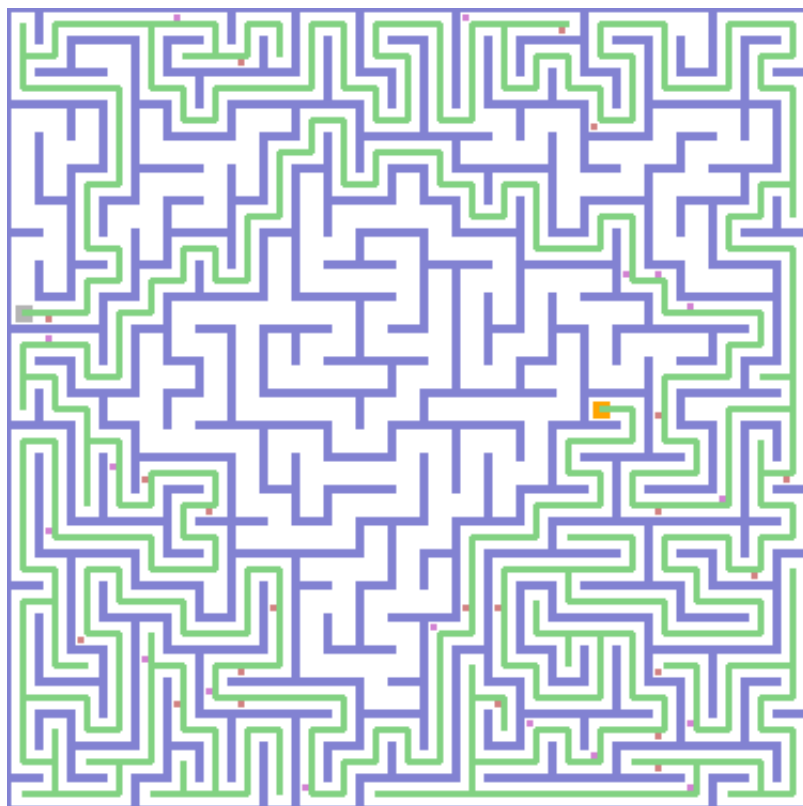

I ran east. Then I sprinted north. Then I sauntered east. Again I marched east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I meandered east. There was a beautiful manatee daffodil there. It smelled like strawberries.

I hiked east. Then I traipsed south. Then I stepped east. There was a mink there. I named it Jaden.

I plodded north. Then I strode east. Then I trekked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it south. Again I marched south. Then I paraded east. Then I paraded south. Then I shambled east. Then I shambled north. Then I trudged east. Again I hiked east. Again I hiked east. Then I ran north. Again I ambled north. Then I walked east. Then I meandered south. Again I sprinted south. Then I sauntered east. Then I ambled south. Then I sprinted east. Then I meandered north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I shuffled west. Then I ran north. Then I plodded east. Again I trudged east. Then I sprinted south. Again I meandered south. Again I paraded south. Then I trudged east. Then I plodded north. Again I trudged north. Again I trudged north. There was a beautiful white freesium there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I paraded east. Again I went east. Again I sprinted east. There was a platypus there. I named it Mason.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Again I marched south. Then I sprinted east. Then I strode north. Then I strutted east. Then I ran south. Then I traipsed east. Then I sauntered south. There was a toad there. I named it Laura.

I traipsed east. Then I strode north. Again I traipsed north. Then I traipsed west. Then I toddled north. Then I strutted east. Again I sauntered east. Then I sprinted south. Again I ran south. Then I went east. Again I hiked east. Then I trudged north. Again I toddled north. Then I paraded east. Again I plodded east. Then I sprinted south. Then I sauntered west. Then I sprinted south. Then I sprinted east. Then I strode south. Again I meandered south. Again I marched south. Again I trudged south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded west. Then I paraded south. Then I strode west. Then I strode south. Then I strode east. Again I meandered east. Then I went south. Again I trekked south. Again I shuffled south. Again I hiked south. Then I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Again I stepped south. Again I hiked south. There was a hamster there. I named it Jacob.

I strutted west. Then I traipsed south. Then I ran east. Then I went south. Then I sprinted west. Then I strode south. There was a ferret there. I named it Gabriela.

I hoofed it west. Then I walked north. Then I hiked west. Again I ran west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I sprinted east. Then I meandered south. Then I sauntered east. Again I trudged east. Then I sprinted south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I plodded west. Again I walked west. Then I strode north. Then I strode west. Again I sauntered west. Again I strutted west. Then I paraded north. Then I hoofed it west. Again I sauntered west. Then I plodded south. There was a frog there. I named it Trinity.

I hoofed it south. Again I trudged south. Then I plodded east. Then I meandered south. Then I went east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I sauntered north. Again I paraded north. Then I trekked west. Then I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I walked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. Then I strutted south. Again I stepped south. Then I strode east.

Sergio asked Victoria, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a mustang and I'm wild."

Then I walked south. There was a rabbit there. I named it Sebastian.

I stepped west. Again I stepped west. Then I meandered south. There was a beautiful purple heart amaranth there. It smelled like damsons.

I stepped west. Then I strode north. Then I went west. There was a beautiful almond sunflower there. It smelled like tangerines.

I strutted south. Then I went west. Again I went west. Then I shambled north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I ran east. There was a mandrill there. I named it Danielle.

I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I sprinted east. Again I walked east. Again I trudged east. Again I plodded east. Again I marched east. Again I meandered east. Again I paraded east. There was a beautiful mountain meadow peony there. It smelled like kiwi fruit. I picked it.

I hoofed it north. Then I sauntered east. Again I shambled east. Then I plodded south. Then I strutted west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it east. Then I walked north. Again I meandered north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I paraded north. Then I marched east. Then I ran north. Then I hoofed it west. Again I hiked west. Then I plodded south. Again I strode south. Then I meandered west. There was a beautiful lavender foxglove there. It smelled like rock melons.

I trekked north. Again I trekked north. Then I sauntered west. There was a monkey there. I named it Genesis.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks north. Again I toddled north.

Patrick asked Breanna, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a muskrat."

Again I strutted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran west. There was a giraffe there. I named it Cooper.

I marched west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched west. Again I stepped west. Again I stepped west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. Again I ambled east. Then I walked north. Then I trekked west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Again I traipsed west.

Reagan asked Trinity, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a gopher. I can enter grind, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to be pet!" replied Reagan.

Then I walked south. Again I paraded south. Again I meandered south. There was a beautiful pine green water lily there. It smelled like jambuls.

I hiked west. Again I shuffled west. There was a rhinoceros there. I named it Angel.

I beat cheeks west. Then I stepped north. Then I marched east. Again I stepped east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I ambled north. There was a ferret there. I named it Dominic.

I walked north. Then I went east. Again I traipsed east. Then I trudged north. Then I paraded east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I hiked west. Again I meandered west. There was a beautiful purple heart crocu there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I ambled west. Then I strutted north. There was a beautiful razzmatazz bottlebrush there. It smelled like jujubes.

I trudged west. There was a beautiful beaver crocu there. It smelled like nuts. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I shuffled north. Again I trekked north. Then I shuffled west. Then I traipsed south. Then I went west. Again I shambled west. Then I ran north. Again I sprinted north. Then I sauntered west. Then I shuffled south. Then I shuffled west. Then I ambled north. Then I walked west. Then I went north. Then I marched west. Again I strode west. Then I sprinted south. Then I toddled west. Then I strutted north. Again I went north. Then I marched west. Then I marched south. Then I sauntered west. Then I plodded south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I shambled west. Then I trudged south. Again I plodded south. Then I sprinted west. Then I ran north. Then I meandered west. Then I plodded south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I sprinted west. Then I stepped south. Again I marched south. Then I hiked west. Then I walked north. Then I shuffled west. There was a beautiful brick red thistle there. It smelled like ugli fruit. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I paraded west. Then I walked south. Again I shambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it east. Then I trudged south. Then I meandered east. Then I sauntered south. Again I toddled south. Again I trekked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed east. Then I sauntered south. There was a beautiful tan amaranth there. It smelled like limes. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shuffled south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I strutted north. There was a porcupine there. I named it Karen. It started following me.

I beat cheeks east. Again I shambled east. Then I sprinted south. There was a snake there. I named it Kylee.

I stepped west. Then I went south. Then I traipsed east. Then I traipsed south. Then I toddled west. Again I meandered west. Then I sprinted north. Then I trekked west. Again I meandered west. Again I hiked west. There was a beautiful cadet blue gladiolu there. It smelled like watermelons.

I walked north. Again I paraded north. Again I meandered north. Then I shambled west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I strode south. Again I trekked south. Again I went south. Then I hiked east. Then I shuffled south. Again I ambled south. Again I trudged south. Then I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode west. Then I went south. Again I shambled south. Again I toddled south. Again I sprinted south. Again I ambled south. Then I stepped east. Then I traipsed south. Then I strutted west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked east. Again I toddled east. Then I ran north. Then I went west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. Then I marched north. Again I plodded north. Again I hiked north. There was a beautiful inchworm daisy there. It smelled like cranberries.

I hiked east. Then I trudged south. There was a ground hog there. I named it Maria.

I plodded south. Then I toddled east. Then I sauntered south. Again I meandered south. Then I traipsed east. Then I sprinted north. Again I ambled north. Then I toddled east. Then I marched south. Again I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it east. Again I ran east. Then I ambled south. Then I sauntered east. Then I trekked north. Again I ran north. Again I strutted north. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a yak there. I named it Jalen.

I hoofed it north. Again I paraded north. Then I sauntered east. Then I sauntered south. Then I trudged east. Again I went east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I stepped east. Again I shambled east. Then I plodded north. Again I went north. Then I toddled east. Then I sprinted south. There was a chimpanzee there. I named it Kiara.

I paraded south. Again I toddled south. Then I shambled west. There was a yak there. I named it Evelyn.

I hoofed it west. Then I trekked south. There was a beautiful silver petunium there. It smelled like mulberries.

I shambled east. There was a beaver there. I named it Brianna.

I walked east. Again I walked east. Again I plodded east. Then I went south. Then I shambled west. Then I ambled south. Again I plodded south. There was a beautiful brown hibiscu there. It smelled like passionfruits.

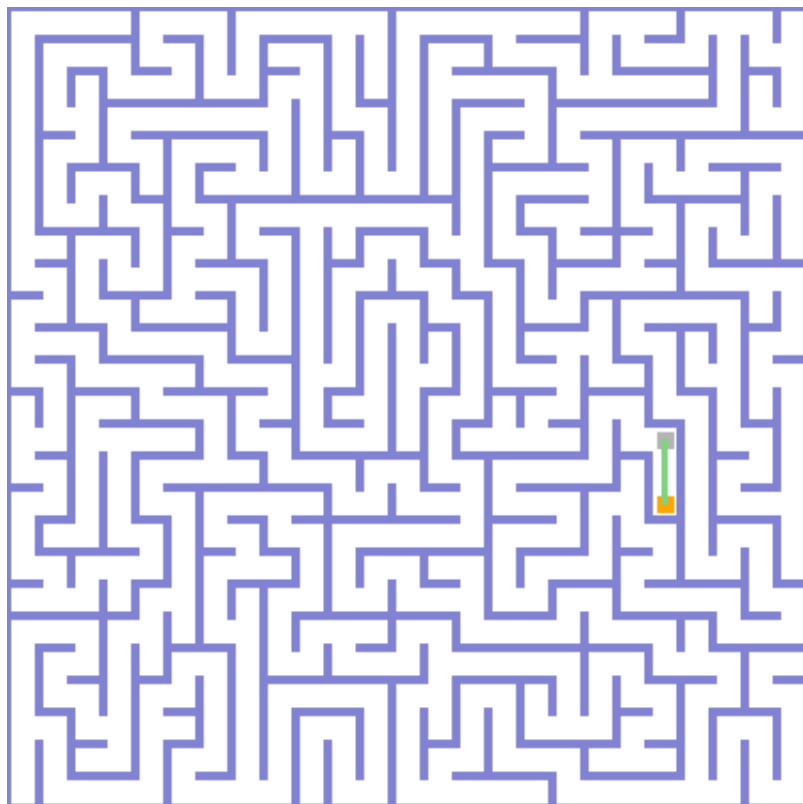

I shuffled east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I ambled east. Then I stepped north. Then I paraded east. Then I walked south. Then I sprinted east. Then I strode north. Again I plodded west. Again I strutted north. Again I stepped north. There was a beautiful pine green amarylli there. It smelled like blueberries.

I hiked east. Then I strutted north. There was a porcupine there. I named it Kaylee.

I strutted north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I shuffled east. Again I traipsed east. Then I trudged north. Then I shambled east. Again I went east. Then I walked north. Then I marched west. Then I sauntered north. Then I hoofed it east. Again I toddled east. Then I ambled north. Then I beat cheeks down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-one animals were following me, and I held fifteen flowers.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

I sprinted south. Then I beat cheeks down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-one animals were following me, and I held fifteen flowers.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

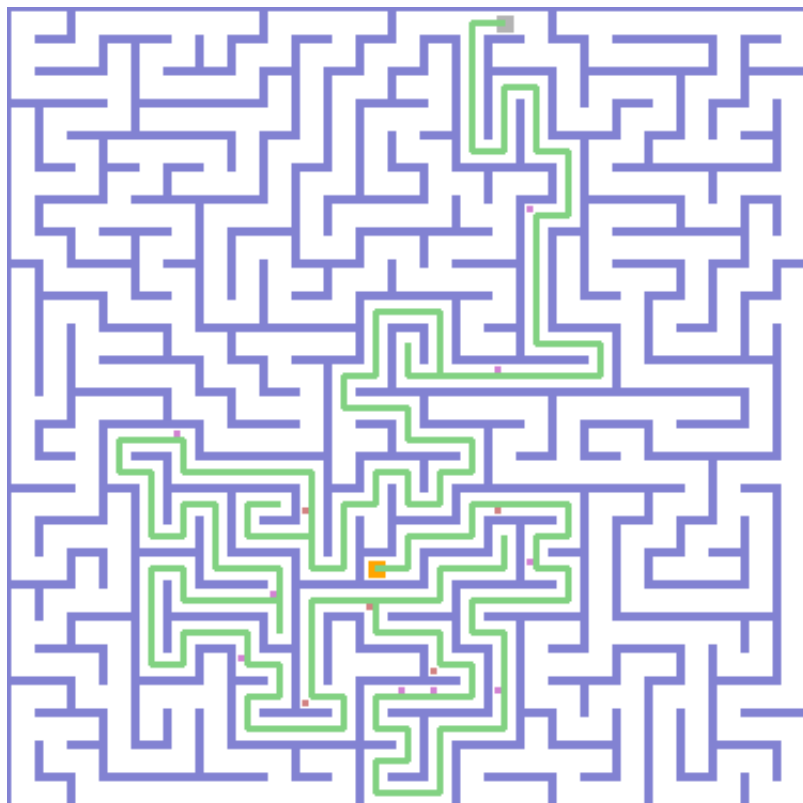

I traipsed west. Then I strutted south. Again I paraded south. Again I toddled south. Again I traipsed south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I walked north. Again I hiked north. Then I ambled east. Then I sauntered south. Again I went south. Then I traipsed east. Then I went south. Again I toddled south. Then I ambled west. There was a beautiful outer space heather there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I meandered south. Again I paraded south. Again I toddled south. Again I walked south. Then I meandered east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I ambled south. Then I sauntered west. Again I walked west. Again I ran west. There was a beautiful sea green crocu there. It smelled like apricots. I picked it.

I hiked west. Again I walked west. Again I hiked west. Then I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Again I meandered north. Then I plodded west. Again I shambled west. Then I marched south. Again I trekked south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I plodded south. Then I shambled east. Again I strode east. Then I went south. Then I plodded east. Again I strode east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I ran west. Then I meandered south.

Then I trekked west. Then I went north. Then I stepped west. Then I marched south. Then I strutted west. Then I hiked south. Again I trudged south. Then I shambled west. Then I paraded north. Then I marched west. Again I shambled west. Then I ambled north. Then I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged north. There was a mandrill there. I named it Kate.

I shambled north. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I strutted west. Again I trudged west. Again I paraded west. Then I ambled north. There was a beautiful yellow snapdragon there. It smelled like satsumas.

I shambled west. Again I shuffled west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strutted east. Then I marched south. Again I meandered south. Then I went east. Then I plodded north. Then I paraded east. Then I shuffled south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I meandered east. Again I hiked east. Then I strode south. There was a beautiful sepia hyacinth there. It smelled like raspberries.

I meandered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. Again I sprinted west. Again I shambled west. Then I sauntered north. Then I marched west. Then I sprinted south. Again I went south. Again I shuffled south. Then I went east. Then I stepped north. Then I marched east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I ran south. There was a beautiful dandelion zinnium there. It smelled like cranberries.

I shuffled east. Then I trekked south. Then I strutted west. Then I ran south. Then I ran east.

Sarah asked Caitlyn, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a ram."

Again I trekked east. Again I stepped east. Then I hiked north. Then I walked west. There was a camel there. I named it Colby.

I traipsed north. Again I meandered north. Again I shuffled north. Then I hoofed it east. Again I traipsed east. There was a weasel there. I named it Riley.

I ran east. Again I shambled east. Then I stepped north. Then I strode east. Again I walked east. Then I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled south. Then I trudged east. Again I stepped east. Then I toddled south. There was an iguana there. I named it Cody.

I ambled east. Then I toddled south. Then I shuffled west. There was a beautiful brown dahlia there. It smelled like bilberries.

I ambled west. There was a beautiful royal purple begonia there. It smelled like avocados.

I plodded west. Then I sauntered south. Then I stepped east. Then I strode south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I plodded east. Again I paraded east. Then I toddled north. Again I shambled north. Then I went east. Again I toddled east. Then I shuffled north. There was a beautiful sunglow rhododendron there. It smelled like watermelons.

I strode north. Again I sprinted north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I trekked north. Then I trudged east. Again I toddled east. Again I sprinted east. Then I traipsed north. Then I traipsed west. There was a beautiful tumbleweed lavender there. It smelled like physalis.

I went north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I ambled west. Again I trudged west. There was an alligator there. I named it Jeremy.

I sprinted west. Then I traipsed south. Then I stepped west. Again I sprinted west. Then I marched south. Then I traipsed down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-one animals were following me, and I held sixteen flowers.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

I trekked north. Again I marched north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I sprinted east. Again I ran east. There was a beautiful asparagus gerbera daisy there. It smelled like strawberries.

I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. Again I sprinted south. There was a seal there. I named it Aubrey.

I plodded east. Then I trudged north. Then I ran east. Then I hiked north. Then I shuffled east. Again I traipsed east. Then I marched south. There was a lemur there. I named it Edwin.

I stepped east. Again I ambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode north. Then I strutted east. Again I went east. Again I toddled east. Again I paraded east. Again I strode east. Again I ambled east. Again I trekked east. Again I ran east. Again I strutted east. Again I trudged east. There was a rabbit there. I named it Kevin.

I walked south. There was a beautiful mahogany lady's slipper there. It smelled like pineapples.

I strode south. Again I strutted south. Then I traipsed west. Again I traipsed west. Then I strutted north. Again I ambled north. Then I meandered west. Then I trudged south. Then I ambled west. Then I strode north. There was a beautiful brick red pansy there. It smelled like clementines.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered east. Then I shambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Again I ran south. Then I hiked west. Again I walked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked north. Then I hiked west. Again I strode west.

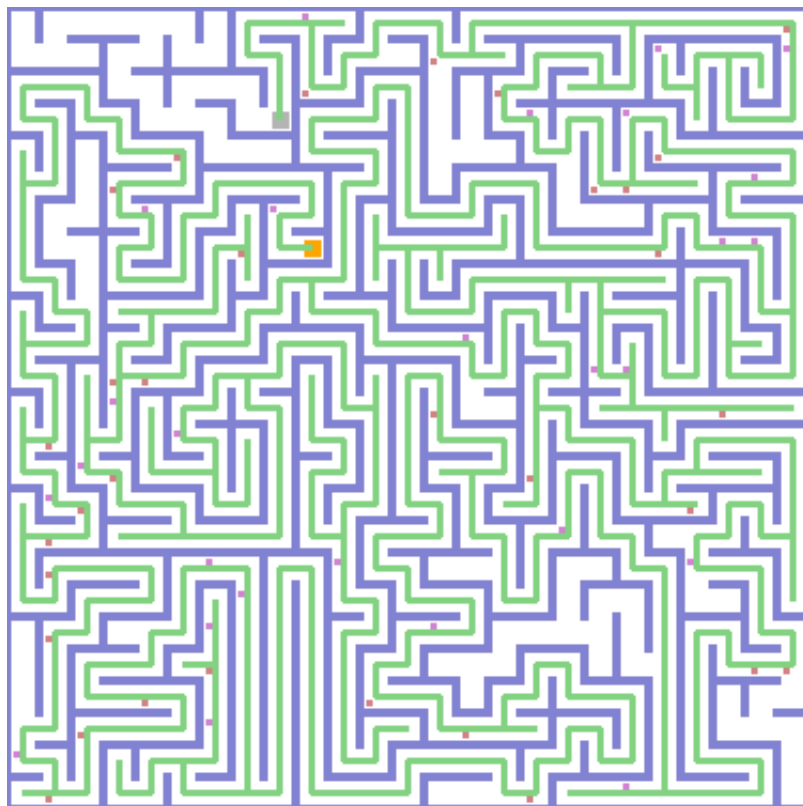

Marissa asked Ella, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a hedgehog."

Then I strutted south. Then I toddled west. There was a lemur there. I named it Mya.

I paraded south. Then I ambled east. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose chrysanthemum there. It smelled like tangerines.

I ran south. Then I meandered east. Then I trekked north. Then I trekked east. Then I hoofed it south. Again I traipsed south. There was a jackal there. I named it Elijah.

I traipsed east. There was a gazelle there. I named it Bailey.

I trudged east. Again I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted north. Again I plodded north. There was a beautiful cornflower heather there. It smelled like elderberries.

I toddled east. Then I trekked south. There was a gopher there. I named it Karen.

I ambled east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I sauntered east. Again I shuffled east. Then I strode south. Then I stepped west. There was a beautiful almond buttercup there. It smelled like ugli fruit.

I hoofed it west. Then I hiked south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I marched east. Then I shambled south. Again I hiked south. Again I marched south. Again I sprinted south. Again I traipsed south. Then I hiked west. Again I strode west. Then I meandered north. Then I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted north. Again I trekked north. Then I sauntered west. Then I ambled south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I shuffled south.

Caitlyn asked Gregory, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a squirrel. I can store nut, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Caitlyn.

Then I traipsed west. Then I shuffled north. Again I paraded north. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I went west. Then I went south. Again I stepped south. There was a beautiful carnation pink camellia there. It smelled like bananas.

I ran east. There was a beautiful goldenrod forget me not there. It smelled like cherimoyas. I picked it.

I walked south. Then I toddled east. Again I ambled east. Again I marched east. There was an iguana there. I named it Ava.

I stepped east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded north. Then I shambled west. Again I sprinted west. Again I meandered west. Again I trudged west. Then I marched south. Then I sauntered west. Again I shambled west. Then I paraded north. Again I sprinted north. Then I strutted east. Then I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I hiked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went west. Then I sprinted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. Again I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I meandered north. Again I beat cheeks north. There was a beautiful inchworm water lily there. It smelled like physaliss.

I ran west. There was a beautiful caribbean green rose there. It smelled like lychees.

I hoofed it west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I paraded west. Then I shambled south. There was an alligator there. I named it Leonardo.

I ambled west. Again I strode west. Again I trudged west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I meandered north. Again I strode north. Then I stepped west. Again I trudged west. Then I ran south. Then I sauntered west. Again I went west. Then I walked north. Again I plodded north. Again I walked north. Again I strode north. Then I plodded west. Then I trudged south. Then I ambled west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I ran east. Again I sprinted east. Then I meandered south. Then I ran west. Then I paraded south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I trekked south. Then I went west. Again I stepped west. Then I sprinted south. Then I traipsed west. Then I trudged south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I ran west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I sauntered west. There was a lamb there. I named it Erick.

I went west. There was a turtle there. I named it Kaleb. It started following me.

I marched south. There was a beautiful outrageous orange tansy there. It smelled like apples.

I ambled south. Then I plodded west. Then I shambled north. Again I trudged north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. There was a beautiful atomic tangerine zinnium there. It smelled like papayas.

I strode east. There was a gazelle there. I named it Colin.

I marched south. Then I marched east. Again I stepped east. Then I toddled south. Then I marched east. Again I strutted east. Again I walked east. Then I marched north. Again I hiked north. Again I beat cheeks north. Again I marched north. Then I paraded west. Then I paraded north. Then I traipsed east. Then I marched north. Then I paraded east. Again I toddled east. Then I toddled south. Again I sauntered south. Then I sauntered east. Then I trekked south. Again I trudged south. Again I trekked south. Then I hiked west. Then I plodded south. Then I strutted west. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I sprinted north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I ran north. Then I ambled west. Then I trudged north. Again I strutted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded south. There was a beautiful lavender lilac there. It smelled like mandarines. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I plodded south. Then I paraded east. Then I strutted south. Then I toddled west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I ran south. Again I ambled south. Then I traipsed east. Then I strode north. Then I sauntered east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. Then I strutted south. Then I strode west. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose camellia there. It smelled like bananas.

I trekked east. Then I shuffled south. Then I plodded west. Again I went west. Then I shambled north. Again I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched south. Then I stepped east. Then I meandered north. Again I shambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled west. Again I traipsed west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted north. Then I strutted east. Then I strutted north. Then I toddled east. Again I ran east. Then I strode north. Again I meandered north. Then I sauntered east. There was a parakeet there. I named it Jeremy.

I toddled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks south.

Caitlyn asked Karen, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a porcupine."

Then I paraded east. Again I shambled east. Then I sauntered south. Then I hoofed it east. Again I shambled east. Again I walked east. There was a beautiful pacific blue amaranth there. It smelled like plums.

I plodded south. Then I hiked east. Then I hiked north. Again I ambled north. Then I plodded east. Then I sprinted south. Then I trekked east. Then I sprinted south. Then I ambled west. Then I ambled south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I sprinted south. There was a gazelle there. I named it Jeffrey.

I stepped south. Then I marched west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted east. Then I marched south. Then I toddled east. Again I walked east. Then I plodded south. Again I hiked south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I paraded east. There was a gopher there. I named it Samantha.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Then I toddled east. Again I hiked east. Again I trekked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it north. Then I shuffled east. Again I ambled east. Again I shambled east. Then I strutted south. Again I trudged south. Again I walked south. Again I sauntered south. Again I sprinted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled west. Then I strutted north. Then I plodded west. Then I shuffled south. Then I plodded west. Then I hiked south. There was a beautiful navy blue hyacinth there. It smelled like canary melons. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I plodded east. Again I walked east. Then I strutted south. Again I shambled south. Then I marched east. Then I marched south. There was a bull there. I named it Julia.

I ambled west. There was a moose there. I named it Sophia.

I shuffled west. Then I sprinted north. Then I plodded west. Then I hiked south. Again I walked south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I strutted south. Then I meandered east. Again I stepped east. Then I hiked south. Then I shuffled west. Again I trekked west. Again I hiked west. Again I shambled west. There was a beautiful almond bergamot there. It smelled like cherries.

I walked west. Again I plodded west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. Again I paraded north. Again I ran north. Again I ran north. Again I sprinted north. Again I sprinted north. Again I traipsed north. Then I paraded west. Then I traipsed north. Then I walked west. Then I walked north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I sprinted west. Then I sauntered south. Again I stepped south. There was a beautiful lavender amaranth there. It smelled like elderberries.

I ambled west. Then I ran south. Again I shuffled south. Then I walked west. Then I shuffled north. Again I trekked north. Then I meandered west. Then I ambled north. Again I walked north. Then I shambled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. Then I went north. Then I toddled west. Again I stepped west. Then I strutted north. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Genesis.

I ambled north. Then I plodded west. Then I sprinted south. Again I strode south. Again I trudged south. Again I shuffled south. Then I sprinted east. Then I shambled south. Then I meandered west. Again I paraded west. Then I sprinted south. Then I strode east. Then I strutted south. Then I meandered east. Again I trudged east. Then I sauntered south. Then I shuffled west. There was a beautiful vivid tangerine amaranth there. It smelled like star fruit. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I ambled west. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I ambled west.

Victoria asked Marissa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alpaca."

Then I shambled south. There was a shrew there. I named it Cooper.

I traipsed east. Again I traipsed east. Then I strode south. Then I hiked east. There was a shrew there. I named it Dylan.

I shuffled east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. Then I ran east. Then I sprinted north. Then I shuffled east. Then I went south. Then I traipsed east. Again I trudged east. Then I plodded south. Again I stepped south. Then I sprinted west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I plodded south. Then I paraded west. Then I strode south. There was a parakeet there. I named it Tristan.

I plodded west. Then I marched north. Then I traipsed west. Again I hiked west. Again I toddled west. Then I strode south. Then I paraded west. Again I trudged west. Again I sauntered west. Then I shambled north. Again I shambled north. Again I shuffled north. Again I sauntered north. Again I toddled north. Again I hiked north. Again I shuffled north. Then I strutted west. Then I meandered south. Again I ran south. Again I hoofed it south. Again I trekked south. Again I ambled south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I shuffled south. Then I stepped west. Again I sprinted west. Again I sauntered west. Then I sauntered north. Then I sauntered east. Then I strutted north. There was a beautiful cornflower freesium there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I shambled north. Again I trekked north. There was a hippopotamus there. I named it Colin.

I beat cheeks west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered north. There was a beautiful canary bird of paradise there. It smelled like pineapples.

I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode west. Then I paraded south. Then I toddled west. Then I meandered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks north. Again I went north. Again I traipsed north. Again I ran north. Again I ambled north. Again I marched north. There was a beautiful chestnut petunium there. It smelled like boysenberries.

I went north. Then I sprinted west. There was a beautiful plum babys breath there. It smelled like rambutans.

I sprinted west. Then I beat cheeks south. Again I sprinted south. Then I ran west. Then I went south. Then I shambled west. Again I marched west. Then I ran south. Then I sprinted east. Again I ran east. There was a buffalo there. I named it Devin.

I strode east. Then I stepped south. Then I hoofed it west. Again I ran west. Again I hiked west. There was a shrew there. I named it Oliver.

I traipsed south. Again I meandered south. Then I ran west. There was a porcupine there. I named it Claire.

I shuffled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. Then I trudged west. There was a beautiful hot magenta mimosa there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I traipsed north. Then I paraded east. Then I plodded north. Again I trudged north. Again I walked north. There was a jackal there. I named it Laura.

I beat cheeks east. Then I traipsed north. Then I shuffled east. Again I shuffled east. Then I walked north. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I sauntered west. Again I traipsed west. There was a frog there. I named it McKenzie.

I sprinted south. Then I paraded west. Then I shuffled north. Again I ran north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed east. There was a buffalo there. I named it Caden.

I traipsed east. Then I sauntered north. There was a donkey there. I named it Alondra.

I paraded west. There was a beautiful yellow orange begonium there. It smelled like passionfruits.

I walked north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I paraded north. Again I hiked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged east. There was a dromedary there. I named it Ruby.

I paraded north. Again I ran north. Then I trekked west. Then I trekked north. Again I meandered north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered east. Again I shuffled east. Then I sprinted north. Then I toddled west. Then I ambled north. Then I hoofed it west. Then I ambled north. Again I hoofed it north. Again I shuffled north. Again I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went east. Then I trudged north. Again I meandered north. Then I hiked west. Then I plodded north. Then I trudged east. Again I plodded east. Then I ran south. Then I strutted east. Then I ambled south. Then I beat cheeks east. Again I ambled east. There was an elephant there. I named it Alejandro.

I stepped south. Then I plodded west. Again I ambled west. There was a woodchuck there. I named it Garrett.

I trekked south. Then I walked east. There was a beautiful green delphinium there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I trudged south. Then I meandered west. Then I stepped south. Then I trekked east. Again I paraded east. Then I shuffled north. Again I strutted north. Then I stepped east. Then I walked north. Then I marched east. Again I strutted east. Again I sprinted east. Then I meandered south. Then I shuffled west. There was a beautiful radical red sage there. It smelled like persimmons.

I walked south. Then I ran down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-two animals were following me, and I held twenty flowers.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

I sprinted west. Then I trekked south. Then I went west. There was a woodchuck there. I named it Peter.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Then I plodded south. Then I trekked east. Then I plodded south. Then I stepped east. Again I trudged east. There was a mynah bird there. I named it Michelle.

I traipsed east. There was an oryx there. I named it Mia.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. Again I went south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded west. Again I sprinted west. Then I walked north. Then I strutted west. Then I trekked south. Again I trekked south. Then I hiked east.

Cody asked Henry, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a raccoon. I have an integrity and I can climb tree, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Cody.

Then I ambled south. Then I strode east. Again I hiked east. Then I shuffled north. Then I paraded east. Then I shuffled south. Again I marched south. There was a beautiful tan primrose there. It smelled like strawberries.

I hiked east. Again I trekked east. Then I trekked north. Again I trekked north. Then I plodded east. Then I ran north. Again I shuffled north. Then I trekked west. Again I ambled west. Again I marched west. Then I shuffled north. There was a beautiful peach daisy there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I plodded east. Then I ran north. Again I sauntered north. There was a beautiful turquoise blue lavender there. It smelled like cloudberry.

I strode east. Again I sauntered east. Then I toddled north. Again I ran north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I ambled west. Then I traipsed north. Then I strutted west. Then I went south. There was a beautiful denim rhododendron there. It smelled like plums.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Then I traipsed north. Then I ran east. Then I marched south. Again I marched south. Again I toddled south. Again I traipsed south. Again I paraded south. Again I shambled south. Then I ran west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

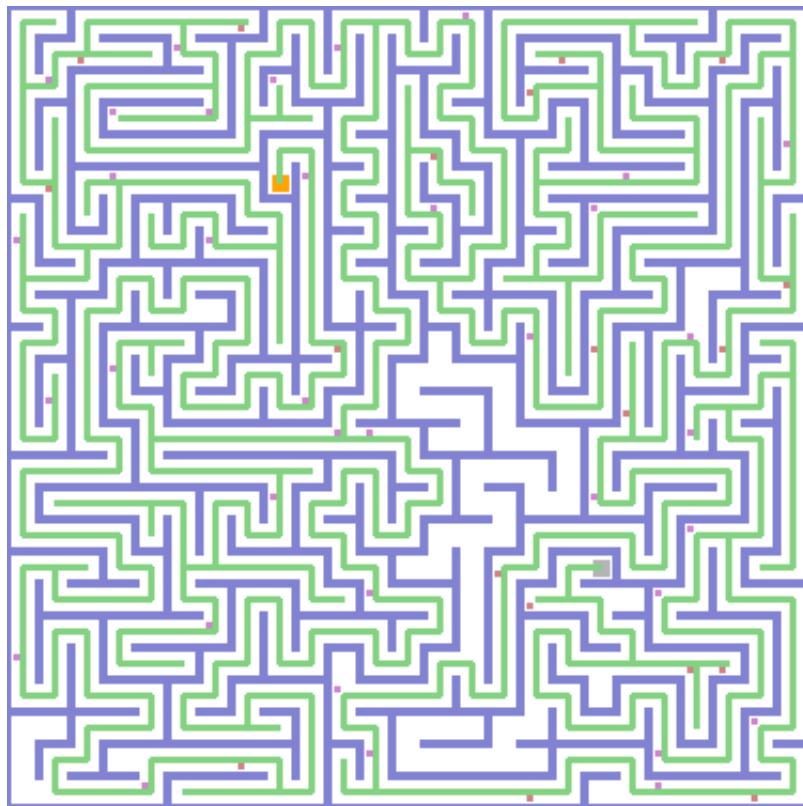

I meandered north. Then I hiked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked south. Again I shambled south. Then I marched east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I sauntered south. Again I ambled south. Again I stepped south. Again I ran south. Then I ambled west. There was a beautiful caribbean green zinnium there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I plodded south. Then I hiked east. Then I toddled south. Then I ran west. There was a jackal there. I named it Donovan.

I shuffled west. Again I went west. Again I trudged west. There was a beautiful vivid violet bird of paradise there. It smelled like ugly fruit. I picked it.

I hoofed it west. Then I walked north. Then I shuffled west. Again I traipsed west. Then I strode south. Then I walked west. There was a chinchilla there. I named it Bradley.

I toddled west. Again I toddled west. Again I strutted west. Again I stepped west. Again I traipsed west. Again I traipsed west. Then I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. There was a beautiful magenta forget me not there. It smelled like salal berries.

I shambled north. Then I meandered west. Then I trudged north. There was a beautiful cornflower rose there. It smelled like raisins. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I paraded east. Again I sauntered east. Again I toddled east. Then I trudged north. Then I stepped east. Then I trudged south. Then I sauntered east. Then I traipsed north. Again I walked north. Again I sprinted north. Again I ambled north. There was a hog there. I named it Kaleb.

I traipsed east. Then I hiked north. Then I hoofed it east. Again I strode east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I ran south. Then I plodded east. Then I toddled north. Again I paraded north. Then I went east. Again I traipsed east. Then I marched north. Then I stepped west. Again I shambled west. Again I ambled west. Then I ran south. Then I stepped west. There was a beautiful melon holly there. It smelled like nuts.

I beat cheeks north. Again I meandered north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I trudged north. There was a gazelle there. I named it Mario.

I marched north. Again I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped east. Then I shuffled north. Again I trudged north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I ran east. There was a beautiful pine green sage there. It smelled like pears.

I ambled south. Then I trekked east. Then I plodded north. There was a bull there. I named it Amber.

I beat cheeks north. Then I ambled east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I beat cheeks north. There was a jackal there. I named it Dalton.

I plodded north. Again I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked west. Then I toddled north. Again I hiked north. Again I sprinted north. Again I sprinted north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. Then I plodded north. There was a beautiful screamin' green columbine there. It smelled like tangerines.

I hoofed it north. Again I sprinted north. Again I ran north. Again I paraded north. Then I marched west. Again I plodded west. Then I hoofed it south. There was a shrew there. I named it Jeffrey.

I paraded west. Then I sauntered south. Then I shuffled west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I paraded east. Again I trekked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted west. Again I paraded west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I ambled west. Then I traipsed south. Again I trudged south. Again I paraded south. Then I meandered east. Then I went north. There was a parrot there. I named it Jaden.

I marched east. Again I traipsed east. Then I stepped south. Again I trekked south. Then I paraded east. Again I went east. Again I trekked east. Then I marched south. Then I ambled west. Again I beat cheeks west. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose rosemary there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I meandered west. Again I hoofed it west. Again I marched west. Then I trudged south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I beat cheeks south. Then I marched west. Then I marched south. Then I trudged west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded east. Then I sprinted south. Again I strutted south. Again I marched south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it east. Then I plodded north. Again I plodded north. There was a beautiful turquoise blue marigold there. It smelled like physaliss.

I paraded east. Again I strode east. Again I trudged east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped north. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I sprinted north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled north. Then I trekked west. Again I ran west. Then I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. Then I beat cheeks west. There was a fish there. I named it Jayla.

I shuffled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed west. Then I shambled south. Then I paraded west. Then I sauntered south. Again I trekked south. Again I stepped south. Again I sprinted south. Again I went south. Then I trudged west. Again I sauntered west. Again I trekked west. Then I trekked south. Then I strutted east. Then I traipsed south. Then I strutted west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I strode south. There was a porcupine there. I named it Michael.

I beat cheeks south. Again I trudged south. Then I trekked west. Again I sprinted west. Then I toddled north. Again I hoofed it north. There was a beautiful carnation pink petunium there. It smelled like mulberries.

I shambled north. Then I went west. Then I marched south. Then I plodded west. Then I shuffled north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I trudged north. Then I shambled west. Then I walked north. Then I ambled east. Then I paraded north. There was a beautiful asparagus clover there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I shambled west. Then I paraded north. Again I trudged north. Then I paraded east. There was a coyote there. I named it Lucy. It started following me.

I trekked south. Then I trekked east. Then I paraded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled east. Then I hiked north. Then I trudged east. Then I stepped north. Again I plodded north. Again I strode north. Then I paraded west. Then I trudged north. Then I plodded west. Then I trekked north. Then I hoofed it east. Then I marched north. Again I shuffled north. There was a beautiful red violet there. It smelled like oranges.

I meandered west. Then I shambled south. Then I walked west. Then I ran north. Then I hiked west. Again I paraded west. Then I marched south. There was a beautiful timberwolf azalea there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I sprinted south. Then I traipsed west. Then I paraded north. Again I ambled north. Then I stepped west. Then I sprinted south. Then I traipsed west. Then I trudged south. Again I paraded south. Again I toddled south. Then I trudged west. Again I traipsed west. Again I strode west. Again I ambled west. Again I strode west. Then I hiked north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I went east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I strode east. Again I paraded east. Then I trekked north. Then I sauntered west. There was a beautiful white freesium there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I hiked north. Then I traipsed west. Again I ambled west. Again I paraded west. Then I plodded south. There was a moose there. I named it Cody.

I sauntered east. Again I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered west. Then I stepped south. There was a beautiful goldenrod rhododendron there. It smelled like passionfruits. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shuffled west. Then I trudged south. Again I shuffled south. Again I toddled south. Then I shuffled east. There was a reindeer there. I named it Sara.

I ran north. Again I paraded north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks south. Again I went south. Then I sauntered east. Again I meandered east. Then I went north. Again I hoofed it north. There was a beautiful yellow green chrysanthemum there. It smelled like durians.

I paraded east. Again I ran east. Again I sprinted east. Again I paraded east. Then I hiked south. Then I strode east. Then I hoofed it south. Again I ambled south. Again I toddled south. Again I plodded south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. Again I strode west. There was a beautiful green yellow gerbera daisy there. It smelled like jambuls. For some reason I ate it. It tasted okay.

I trudged north. Then I walked west. Then I hiked south. Then I went west. Then I trekked north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted west. Then I shambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. Then I plodded west. Again I meandered west. Then I paraded north. There was a beautiful cerulean amaranth there. It smelled like rock melons.

I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went south. Then I toddled east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I stepped west. Then I paraded south. Again I walked south. Again I plodded south. Then I marched east. Then I sauntered north. There was a beautiful chestnut peach blossom there. It smelled like olives.

I traipsed north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it north. Again I walked north. Then I toddled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. Again I shambled east. There was a raccoon there. I named it Ariana.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped south. There was a beautiful blue violet bottlebrush there. It smelled like durians.

I beat cheeks west. Again I trekked west. Again I hoofed it west. There was a beautiful red sage there. It smelled like dragonfruits.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded east. Again I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. There was a beautiful outer space camellia there. It smelled like breadfruits.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. Again I ran south. Again I sauntered south. Then I walked west. Then I meandered south. Then I trekked east. Then I toddled south. Then I trekked west. Then I walked south. Then I strutted east. Then I marched south. Then I walked west. Then I hiked south. Then I trudged east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I trekked east. Then I meandered south. Then I sprinted west. Then I paraded south. Again I sauntered south. Then I stepped west. Then I beat cheeks south. There was a beautiful wild blue yonder holly there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I trekked west. Again I trudged west.

Tanner asked Jonah, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an opossum."

Again I hiked west. Again I traipsed west. Again I stepped west. Again I traipsed west. Then I strode south. Then I stepped east. Again I went east. Again I hiked east. Again I strode east. Then I marched south. There was a beautiful jungle green narcissu there. It smelled like lychees.

I went south. Then I ambled west. Then I meandered north. Then I shuffled west. Then I toddled south. Again I sprinted south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I shambled south. Then I stepped east. Then I ran south. There was a beautiful hot magenta delphinium there. It smelled like breadfruits.

I trekked west. Again I hiked west. Again I stepped west. Then I paraded south. Then I shambled east. Again I shambled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched north. Again I meandered north. Then I sprinted west. Then I strutted south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted west. Again I stepped west. Again I toddled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I sauntered east. Then I walked south. Then I hiked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged north. Then I shuffled west. Then I traipsed north. There was a beautiful bittersweet sunflower there. It smelled like canary melons.

I marched north. Then I hiked east. Then I sauntered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled east. There was a beautiful wild strawberry iri there. It smelled like watermelons.

I trekked east. Then I paraded south. Then I trudged east. Then I plodded south. Then I strutted west. Then I ran south. Then I stepped west. Then I toddled north. Again I traipsed north. Then I sauntered west. Then I paraded south. Then I sauntered west. Then I meandered south. Then I ran east. Then I traipsed south. Then I plodded east. Then I plodded south. There was a beautiful granny smith apple peony there. It smelled like cherries.

I sprinted east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I meandered west. Then I hoofed it south. Then I strode west. Then I sauntered north. Then I hiked west. Again I traipsed west.

Alexis asked Jonah, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an opossum."

Then I walked south. Then I shambled west. Then I went north. Again I hiked north. Then I hoofed it west. Then I traipsed south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I trudged west. Then I strutted south. Then I traipsed west. Then I shuffled south. Then I trekked east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I stepped east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it north. Then I trekked east. Again I toddled east. Then I paraded south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I strode south. Then I trudged west. Again I paraded west.

Sarah asked Kimberly, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a bear. I have a snout and I can mother cub, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to scratch!" replied Sarah.

Again I ran west. Again I marched west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered north. Then I shambled west. There was a reptile there. I named it Savannah.

I strutted west. Again I went west. Again I strutted west. Then I sprinted south. There was a beautiful silver forget me not there. It smelled like pomegranates. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I walked west. Again I sauntered west. Again I walked west. Then I hiked north. Then I strutted east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I paraded east. Again I sauntered east. Then I shambled north. Then I strode west. Again I paraded west. Then I stepped north. Again I marched north. Then I shuffled west. Then I hoofed it south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I shuffled west. Then I marched north. There was a beautiful indigo sage there. It smelled like bananas.

I walked north. Again I sprinted north. Again I trekked north. Then I went east. Again I trekked east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered south. Then I sprinted east. Again I shuffled east. Again I toddled east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I toddled west. Then I strode north. Then I shuffled west. Again I marched west. Again I sauntered west. Then I hoofed it north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I stepped east. Again I hoofed it east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I shuffled north. Then I paraded west. Then I trudged north. Again I sprinted north. Again I traipsed north. Again I trudged north. Then I ran east. Then I hiked north. Then I strode east. Then I shuffled south. Then I meandered east. Then I ambled north. Then I hoofed it east. Again I meandered east. Then I hoofed it south. Again I marched south. Then I ambled west. Then I ambled south. Then I paraded west. Then I strutted south. Then I strutted east. Again I shuffled east. Then I marched north. Then I shambled east. Then I ambled south. Then I ran east. There was a beautiful navy blue peach blossom there. It smelled like blood oranges. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I stepped north. Then I ambled east. Then I meandered north. There was a lizard there. I named it Ivan.

I went west. Then I walked north. Again I meandered north. Again I stepped north. Again I walked north. Again I marched north. There was a beautiful timberwolf baby's breath there. It smelled like rambutans.

I strode north. Then I plodded west. Then I paraded down a flight of stairs. Sarah the cat stopped following me for some reason.

So far twenty-two animals were following me, and I held twenty-four flowers.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

I beat cheeks east. Then I sauntered south. Again I ambled south. Again I strutted south. There was a cougar there. I named it Michelle.

I sauntered west. Then I strutted south. Again I beat cheeks south. Again I strutted south. Then I shuffled west. Again I walked west. Then I shuffled north. Then I plodded east. Then I trekked north. Again I sauntered north. Then I hiked west. Then I ran south. Then I walked west. Then I trekked south. Again I plodded south. Again I strode south. Then I traipsed west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched east. Again I trekked east. Again I walked east. Again I hiked east. There was a silver fox there. I named it Robert.

I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked north. There was a beautiful screamin' green lady's slipper there. It smelled like plums.

I strode east. Then I trudged north. Again I trekked north. Then I trekked east. Then I strode south. Again I paraded south. Again I trudged south. Then I hoofed it east. Again I sprinted east. Then I went north. Then I strutted east. There was a beautiful macaroni and cheese holly there. It smelled like bananas.

I traipsed east. Then I went south. Then I ran east. Then I beat cheeks north. Again I walked north. Then I stepped east. Again I marched east. There was a silver fox there. I named it Cassandra.

I strutted south. Again I strode south. Then I ambled east. Then I toddled north. Then I went east. Then I trudged south. Then I ambled east. Then I strode north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I paraded west. Again I sprinted west. Then I shambled north. Again I shuffled north. Then I strutted east. There was a cougar there. I named it Sophie.

I ambled south. Then I trudged east. Then I went north. There was a beautiful cadet blue babys breath there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I hoofed it north. Again I meandered north. Then I went west. Again I sprinted west. Then I strode south. Then I toddled west. Again I stepped west. Then I went north. Again I went north. Then I trudged east. Then I toddled north. Then I plodded east. Again I beat cheeks east. There was a beautiful sky blue lilac there. It smelled like apricots.

I plodded south. Then I toddled east. Then I trudged north. Again I toddled north. Then I ambled west. Again I shuffled west. Then I stepped north. There was a reindeer there. I named it Caleb.

I walked east. Again I stepped east. Then I marched north. Then I stepped west. Then I shambled north. There was a beautiful blue violet bottlebrush there. It smelled like honeydews. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I stepped east. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I plodded west. Then I toddled north. Then I traipsed west. Again I strutted west. Then I sauntered north. Then I walked east. Then I strutted north. Then I trudged west. Then I walked north. Then I shambled east. There was a beautiful mountain meadow petunium there. It smelled like pomeloes.

I traipsed east. Again I trekked east. Then I trekked north. Then I stepped west. Again I ambled west. Again I meandered west. Then I shambled north. Then I ambled west. Then I sprinted north. Then I went west. Again I hoofed it west. Then I traipsed south. Again I traipsed south. There was a porcupine there. I named it Robert.

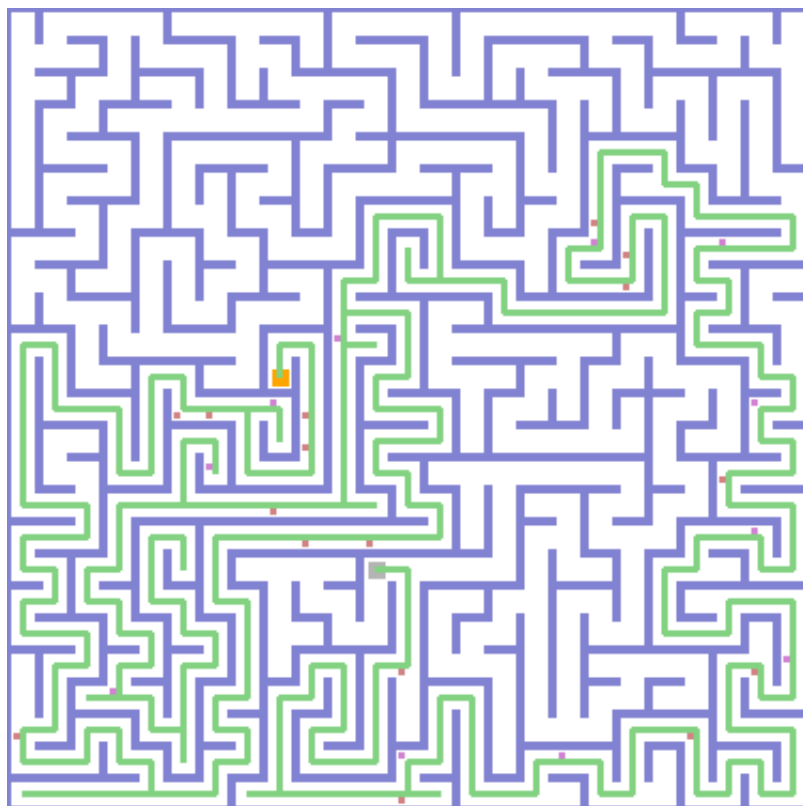

I sauntered south. There was a beautiful sepia zinnium there. It smelled like damsons.

I trudged west. Then I stepped south. Then I toddled east. Again I meandered east. There was a wildcat there. I named it Arianna.

I hiked north. There was a monkey there. I named it Caitlin.

I walked north. Then I walked east. Then I plodded south. Again I sauntered south. Again I meandered south. Then I ambled west. Again I walked west. Again I strode west. Again I plodded west. Again I meandered west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I sprinted west. Again I sauntered west. Again I trekked west. Then I ran north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked north. Again I traipsed north. Then I trekked west. Again I shuffled west. Then I traipsed south. Again I strutted south. Then I paraded west. Then I plodded south. Again I hiked south. There was a beautiful fuchsia lily there. It smelled like coconuts.

I went east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled south. Again I strode south. Again I paraded south. Again I ran south. Again I beat cheeks south. Then I toddled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it west. Again I sprinted west. There was a dog there. I named it Jordan.

I marched west. Again I shuffled west. Again I paraded west. Then I toddled north. Again I trudged north. Then I went east. Then I toddled south. There was a beautiful aquamarine bluebell there. It smelled like cloudberry.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode west. Again I sauntered west. Then I traipsed south. Again I stepped south. Then I hiked west. Then I marched south.

Cody asked Ella, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a hedgehog."

Then I sprinted east. Then I traipsed south. Then I beat cheeks east. Then I strode south. Then I meandered west. Then I sauntered south. There was a beautiful copper petunium there. It smelled like pameloes.

I walked east. Then I ambled south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I meandered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran north. Again I walked north. Then I went east. Then I walked north. Then I hiked west. Then I hoofed it north. Then I trudged west. Then I shambled north. Again I walked north. Then I meandered east. Then I shambled south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered east. Again I strutted east. Then I marched south. Again I shambled south. Then I plodded west. Then I ran south. Then I trudged east. Again I marched east. Then I strode south. Then I traipsed west. Again I sauntered west. Then I strutted south. Then I ambled east. Then I traipsed south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I hoofed it south. Then I paraded west. Again I hoofed it west. There was a chimpanzee there. I named it Kate.

I trudged west. Again I trekked west. There was a rabbit there. I named it Laura.

I walked west. Again I hiked west. Again I sprinted west. Then I shambled south.

Serenity asked Victoria, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a mustang and I'm wild."

Again I marched south. Then I ran east. Then I trekked south. Again I ambled south. Again I marched south. Then I trekked west. Then I toddled south. Then I paraded east. Then I strutted south. Then I stepped west. Then I paraded south. Then I walked west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I hiked west. Again I sauntered west. Again I hiked west. Again I trekked west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Then I toddled west. Then I ambled north. Then I meandered west. Then I strode south. Then I shambled west. Again I strutted west. Then I shuffled north. There was a goat there. I named it Marcus.

I toddled east. Then I sprinted north. Again I trudged north. Then I sauntered east. Then I ran north. Then I traipsed west. Again I stepped west. Then I trekked north. Then I meandered east. Then I plodded north. Then I marched west. Then I meandered north. Then I paraded east. Again I hoofed it east. Then I plodded north. Then I paraded west. Again I trekked west. Then I marched north. Again I plodded north. Again I marched north. Again I strutted north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I trudged east. Then I shuffled south. Again I ran south. Then I strutted east. Again I stepped east. Then I meandered south. Again I ran south. Then I shambled east. Then I strode north. Again I strutted north. Again I sprinted north. Then I shambled east. Then I went south. There was a fish there. I named it Mary.

I stepped east. There was a chimpanzee there. I named it Derek.

I trekked east. Again I went east. There was a beautiful mountain meadow tulip there. It smelled like watermelons.

I meandered south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted south. Again I toddled south. Then I ran east. Again I strutted east. Then I walked north. There was a mandrill there. I named it Timothy.

I trudged north. There was a deer there. I named it Michelle.

I shuffled north. Again I marched north. Then I trekked west. Then I toddled down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-two animals were following me, and I held twenty-four flowers.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

I paraded north. Again I meandered north. Then I ambled west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went north. Again I ambled north. Then I strode east. Then I marched north. Again I marched north. Again I marched north. Then I meandered west. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted west. Then I plodded south. Then I toddled west. Then I shuffled north. Again I sprinted north. Again I ambled north. Then I shambled east. Then I paraded north. Again I sprinted north. Then I ran east. Then I toddled north. Then I walked west. Then I shambled north. Again I ambled north. Then I strutted west.

Henry asked Lucy, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a coyote. I can eat roadrunner, can you?"

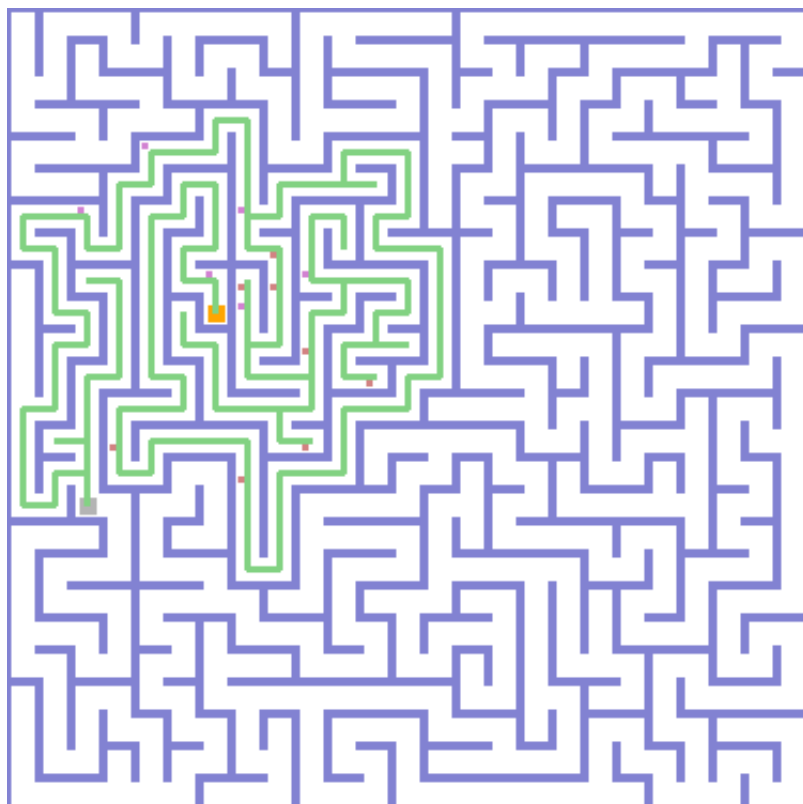

"No I can't, but I do know how to climb tree!" replied Henry.

Then I sauntered north. Then I plodded east. Again I sprinted east. There was a beautiful shamrock edelweis there. It smelled like rock melons.

I sprinted south. Then I ambled east. Then I walked north. Again I beat cheeks north. Then I shambled east. Then I beat cheeks north. There was a beautiful laser lemon rose there. It smelled like avocados.

I strode east. Again I marched east. Then I traipsed north. Then I paraded east. Then I hiked south. Again I went south. Again I sauntered south. There was a beautiful beaver petunium there. It smelled like feijoas.

I went south. Then I traipsed east. There was a wolverine there. I named it Lindsey.

I stepped south. There was a squirrel there. I named it Eduardo.

I hoofed it south. Again I marched south. Then I sprinted west. Then I ambled north. There was a beautiful chestnut peony there. It smelled like goji berries.

I stepped north. There was a chipmunk there. I named it Peyton.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed south. Then I toddled east. Again I stepped east. Then I stepped south. Then I hoofed it west. Then I trekked south. Then I shuffled east. There was a capybara there. I named it Jaden.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran west. Again I hiked west. Then I ambled north. Again I marched north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I ambled north. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks north. There was a chameleon there. I named it Joseph.

I ambled north. Then I went east. Then I strutted north. Then I plodded east. Again I strutted east. Then I sprinted south. Then I strode west. Then I trekked south.

Kimberly asked Breanna, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a muskrat."

Then I trudged east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted west. Then I went south. Then I trekked east. There was a rabbit there. I named it Alexander.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode west. There was a beautiful sunset orange sunflower there. It smelled like loquats. I picked it.

I hoofed it north. Again I walked north. Then I marched east. Then I ran south. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled east. Then I hiked north. Then I sprinted east. Again I ambled east. Again I shuffled east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled north. Then I ran east. Again I traipsed east. Then I meandered south. Again I marched south. Then I toddled west. Then I strutted south. Then I hoofed it east. Again I traipsed east. Then I marched south. Again I shambled south. Again I sprinted south. Again I toddled south. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I stepped south. Then I ambled west. Again I shuffled west. Then I sauntered south. Again I paraded south. Then I hiked west. Again I marched west. Then I sprinted south. Again I walked south. Again I trekked south. Then I plodded west. Then I sprinted north. Again I strutted north. Again I paraded north. There was an ox there. I named it Isaiah.

I shambled north. Then I sauntered west. Again I plodded west. Again I stepped west. Then I trekked south. Then I plodded west. Then I went north. There was a badger there. I named it Bryce.

I trekked north. Then I went east. Again I toddled east. Then I hoofed it north. Then I strode west. Then I stepped north. Again I traipsed north. Again I sauntered north. Again I meandered north. Again I went north. Then I sauntered east. Then I ambled north. Then I marched east. Then I shambled south. Again I meandered south. Then I trudged west. Then I sauntered south. Then I ambled east. There was a beautiful spring green foxglove there. It smelled like elderberries.

Then I toddled down a flight of stairs. Caitlyn the ram, Jonah the opossum, and Katherine the skunk stopped following me for some reason.

So far nineteen animals were following me, and I held twenty-five flowers.

CHAPTER TWENTY

I stepped right. Again I beat cheeks right. There was an orangutan there. I named it Lucas.

I strode up. There was a polar bear there. I named it Aaron. It started following me.

I shambled right. Then I hoofed it up. There was an opossum there. I named it Micah.

I went up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted left. Then I meandered up. Then I marched right. Then I ambled up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I paraded up. There was a beautiful silver orchid there. It smelled like tamarilloes. I picked it.

I strode up. Again I traipsed up. Then I marched left. Again I went left. Then I sprinted up. Then I trudged left. Then I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful gold narcissu there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I hiked left. Then I toddled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. There was a beautiful blue rosemary there. It smelled like pineapples.

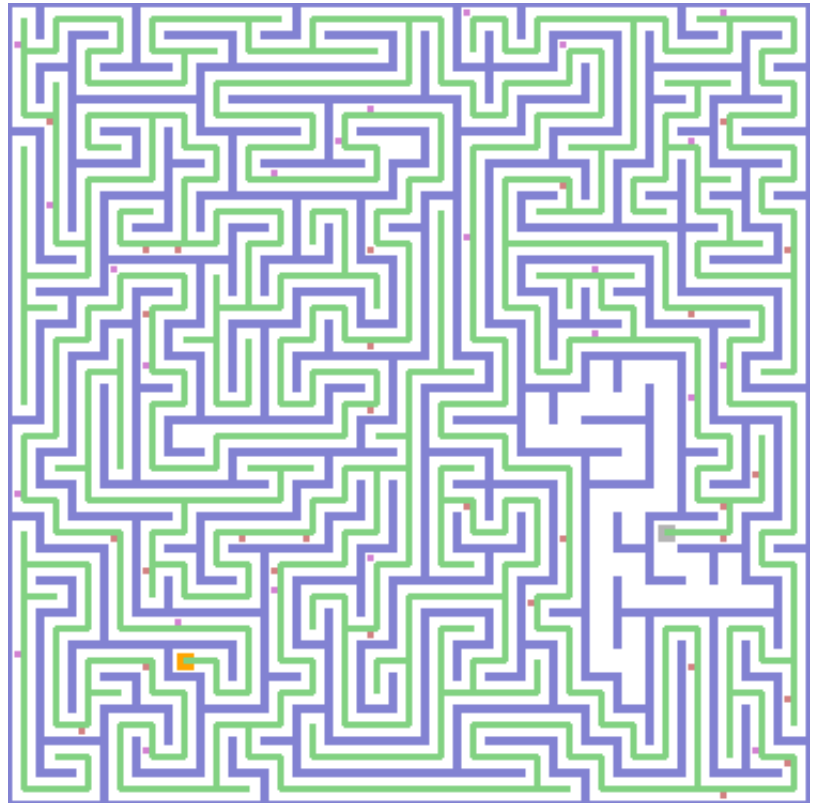

I paraded left. Then I sprinted down. Then I trudged left. Then I meandered up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I shambled up. Again I marched up. Again I went up. Again I ambled up. Then I marched right. Again I shuffled right. There was a moose there. I named it James.

I sauntered down. Then I sauntered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I strode up. Again I hiked up. Then I traipsed right. Then I toddled up. Again I hoofed it up. Again I trekked up. Again I went up. Then I ran right. Then I walked down. Then I went right. Again I paraded right. Then I sprinted up. There was a beautiful red rhododendron there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I marched right. Again I walked right. Then I shambled down. Then I went left. Then I ran down. Then I traipsed right. Then I sprinted down. Then I walked left. Again I ambled left. There was an aardvark there. I named it Haley.

I beat cheeks down. Then I shuffled right. Again I ambled right. Then I strode down. Then I marched left. Then I stepped down. Then I ambled right. Then I shuffled down. There was a turtle there. I named it Jalen.

I paraded down. Then I walked left.

Kimberly asked Lucy, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a coyote. I can eat roadrunner, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to hunt rabbit!" replied Kimberly.

Again I strode left. Again I traipsed left. Then I strode up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I sauntered up. Then I traipsed left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I strutted up. There was a beautiful tickle me pink bluebell there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I strutted left. Then I plodded down. Then I hiked left. Then I shuffled down. Then I strode right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Then I toddled right. Then I hiked up. Then I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Again I strutted down. Again I meandered down. Then I trudged left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I trudged left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I marched left. Then I ambled up. Then I went left. There was a beautiful cotton candy lady's slipper there. It smelled like guavas.

I marched down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched right. Again I meandered right. Again I strutted right. Again I plodded right. Again I ambled right. Then I marched down. Again I meandered down. Then I toddled right. There was a bat there. I named it Austin.

I meandered right. Again I sauntered right. Then I trekked down. Then I sauntered left. Then I walked down. There was a beautiful canary bottlebrush there. It smelled like grapefruits.

I traipsed down. Then I ran right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I sprinted down. Again I meandered down. Again I shuffled down. Again I paraded down. Then I trudged left. Then I marched down. Then I toddled right. Then I walked down. Again I ambled down. Again I toddled down. Again I shuffled down. There was a guinea pig there. I named it Lillian.

I went down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed left. Then I traipsed up. Then I went left. Then I went down. Again I sauntered down. Again I trekked down. Again I ran down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I sprinted down. There was a beautiful neon carrot gladiolus there. It smelled like durians. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I strutted right. There was a fox there. I named it Jackson.

I sprinted down. Then I meandered left. Again I toddled left. There was an otter there. I named it Jayla.

I plodded left. Again I marched left. Again I went left. Again I strode left. Then I went up. Then I traipsed left. Then I trekked up. Then I stepped left. Again I ran left. Again I sauntered left. Then I sauntered down. Then I meandered right. Again I trudged right. Then I traipsed down. Then I strutted left. Again I marched left. Again I strode left. Again I marched left. Again I strutted left. Again I meandered left. Again I ran left. Again I paraded left. Then I stepped up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I shambled up. Then I traipsed right. Then I meandered up. Then I toddled right. Then I strode up. Then I paraded left. Then I traipsed up. Again I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful silver amaranth there. It smelled like mandarines.

I traipsed up. There was a warthog there. I named it Chloe. It started following me.

I plodded right. Again I trudged right. Then I sauntered up. Then I walked right. Then I sauntered up.

Breanna asked Kimberly, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a bear. I have a snout and I can scare person, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Breanna.

Again I stepped up. Then I strode right. Then I marched down. Again I paraded down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I strutted left. There was a beautiful orange marigold there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I trekked down. Again I trudged down. There was a mynah bird there. I named it Connor.

I ambled left. Then I strutted down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I ambled down. Then I walked right. Again I toddled right. Then I strutted up. Again I walked up. Again I trekked up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I went right. Again I went right. Again I traipsed right. Then I paraded up. Then I toddled right. Then I went up. Again I strutted up. Then I strutted left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I trudged up. There was a chimpanzee there. I named it Margaret.

I marched left. Then I strode down. Again I sprinted down. Then I shuffled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Then I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed down. Again I shuffled down. Then I sprinted left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I walked left. Then I went down. Again I walked down. Then I plodded left. Again I sauntered left. Again I marched left. Again I walked left. Then I sprinted up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Again I sauntered up. Then I trekked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. Again I walked right. Then I traipsed up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Then I marched down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled up. Then I hiked left. Then I marched down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched up. Then I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled up. Again I strode up. Then I stepped right. Then I shambled up. Again I shambled up. Again I ran up. Again I toddled up. Again I went up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Then I ambled down. Then I hiked left. Then I shambled down. There was a llama there. I named it Zachary.

I trekked left. Again I shuffled left. There was a warthog there. I named it Leslie.

I traipsed left. Then I shuffled down. Then I toddled right. Then I ran down. Then I shambled left. Again I shambled left. Then I traipsed up. Then I shambled left. There was an oryx there. I named it Mary.

I shuffled up. Then I trekked right. Then I hiked up. Then I sauntered right. Again I walked right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I hiked up. Then I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed left.

Marissa asked Alexis, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a weasel and I'm small. I have a nose."

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled left. Again I plodded left. Again I went left. Then I ambled up. Then I strutted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it up. Again I traipsed up. Again I plodded up. Then I marched right. Then I stepped up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled down. Again I trudged down. Again I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Then I ambled down. Again I meandered down. Then I walked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked left. Again I sauntered left. Again I sprinted left. Then I trudged up. Again I shuffled up. Then I shuffled right. Then I beat cheeks down. There was a beautiful robin's egg blue chrysanthemum there. It smelled like apples.

I toddled right. Then I strutted up. Again I strode up. Then I marched left. Then I shambled up. There was a mule there. I named it Juan.

I hiked left. Again I strutted left. Then I trekked down. Then I shuffled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. There was a coyote there. I named it Aiden.

I stepped left. Then I ran up. Again I trekked up. Again I paraded up. Then I marched right. Then I strode up. Again I trekked up. Then I stepped left. Again I walked left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Again I ambled down. There was a beautiful wild blue yonder mimosa there. It smelled like pears.

I hiked down. Again I went down. Again I sauntered down. Again I trekked down. Then I strutted right. Again I strutted right. Then I paraded up. Then I paraded left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks up. Again I meandered up. Again I shuffled up. Again I strutted up. There was a gazelle there. I named it Hope.

I strutted up. Then I trekked left. Then I meandered down. Again I ambled down. Again I sauntered down. Again I went down. Then I stepped left. Then I paraded up. Then I shambled left. Then I hiked up. Then I marched left. Then I paraded up. Again I toddled up. Then I ambled left. Then I marched up. There was a capybara there. I named it Nolan.

I trudged right. Then I marched up. Again I hoofed it up. There was a jaguar there. I named it Zachary.

I marched up. Again I walked up. Then I trekked left. Again I ambled left. Then I strutted up. Then I shambled left. Again I trekked left. Then I stepped up. Then I trekked right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I meandered up. Again I ambled up. Then I paraded left. Then I ambled up. Again I ran up. Again I toddled up. There was a beautiful green aster there. It smelled like passionfruits. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I meandered up. Again I sprinted up. Again I walked up. Then I marched right. Again I plodded right. Then I went up. Then I ambled right. Again I plodded right. Then I paraded up. Again I sauntered up. Then I trekked left. There was a beautiful asparagus hibiscus there. It smelled like figs.

I traipsed down. Then I hoofed it left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I strode down. Then I plodded left. Then I plodded up. Then I paraded left. Then I strutted up. Again I toddled up. Then I hoofed it left. Again I traipsed left. Again I ambled left.

Victoria asked Serenity, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alpaca."

Again I sprinted left. Then I sauntered down. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I ran left. Then I ambled up. Then I traipsed left. Again I strutted left. Again I toddled left. Then I went down. Then I paraded right. Then I toddled down. Then I plodded left. Again I shambled left. Again I meandered left. Then I traipsed up. Then I traipsed right. Then I strode up. Then I ran left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I paraded down. Then I shuffled left. There was a beautiful bittersweet lotus flower there. It smelled like tamarilloes.

I beat cheeks down. Again I walked down. Then I walked right. There was a parakeet there. I named it Max.

I trudged down. Again I traipsed down. Again I strode down. There was a beautiful denim mimosa there. It smelled like blood oranges. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I strode down. Then I shuffled right. Then I went up. Again I marched up. Then I meandered right. Again I hiked right. Then I stepped up. Again I strutted up. Then I ambled right. Then I hiked down. Then I hiked right. Then I strutted down. Then I sprinted left. Then I strutted down. Again I marched down. There was a deer there. I named it Chelsea.

I went left. There was a hedgehog there. I named it Shelby.

I beat cheeks left. Then I trudged up. Then I paraded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. Then I sauntered up. Then I trudged right. Again I stepped right. Then I shuffled down. Then I stepped left. Then I marched down. Again I trudged down. Then I trudged left. Then I toddled down. Again I ambled down. Again I hiked down. Then I meandered right. Then I hoofed it up. Again I hiked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Then I ambled up. Then I sprinted right. Again I toddled right. Then I went up. Again I trekked up. Then I hiked left. Then I trekked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked right. Then I trekked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked left. Again I strutted left. Then I walked down. Then I ambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed down. Then I sprinted left. Again I sauntered left. Then I walked down. Again I sauntered down. Again I stepped down. Again I sauntered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. Again I shambled up. Again I ambled up. Again I meandered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled right. Again I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled down. Again I sprinted down. Then I traipsed left. Again I toddled left. Again I stepped left. Again I went left.

Trinity asked Brandon, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a finch. I can fly, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to enter grind!" replied Trinity.

Again I strutted left. Again I plodded left. Then I sprinted down. Then I hoofed it right. Again I meandered right. Again I plodded right. Then I shambled down. Then I ambled left. Again I trudged left. Then I ambled down. Then I toddled right. There was a beautiful bittersweet gerbera daisy there. It smelled like quinces.

I shambled right. Again I sauntered right. Again I ambled right. Then I shuffled up. Then I ambled left. There was a beautiful atomic tangerine rose there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I traipsed up. Then I sprinted right. There was a beautiful razzmatazz freesium there. It smelled like jujubes.

I ran right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I marched down. Again I strutted down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I paraded down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I went down. There was an alpaca there. I named it Colin.

I sprinted right. Then I sauntered down. Again I toddled down. Again I strutted down. Then I meandered left. There was a kangaroo there. I named it Jonah.

I walked left. Then I trudged up. Then I trudged left. Then I trekked down. Then I toddled left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I marched right. Then I hiked up. Then I stepped right. Again I toddled right. Then I ambled down. There was a boar there. I named it Sadie. It started following me.

I walked left. Then I stepped down. Then I sprinted left. Again I marched left. Again I hiked left. Again I marched left. Then I shambled down. Then I stepped left. Again I shambled left. Then I marched up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I trudged right. Then I sauntered up. Then I sprinted left. There was a beautiful laser lemon peony there. It smelled like huckleberries.

I strode up. Again I went up. There was a bull there. I named it Chelsea. It started following me.

I shambled right. Then I stepped up. Then I hoofed it left. Again I meandered left. There was a beautiful violet primrose there. It smelled like lychees.

I meandered down. Then I shuffled left. Then I ambled down. Then I strutted left. Then I trekked down. Again I toddled down.

Again I strode down. Then I traipsed left. Then I beat cheeks down. Again I hiked down. There was a beautiful apricot chrysanthemum there. It smelled like purple mangosteens.

I ran right. Then I sprinted down. Then I plodded right. Again I hiked right. There was a boar there. I named it Adam.

I shambled down. Again I sprinted down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I trudged right. Again I shuffled right. There was a beautiful peach bluebell there. It smelled like blood oranges.

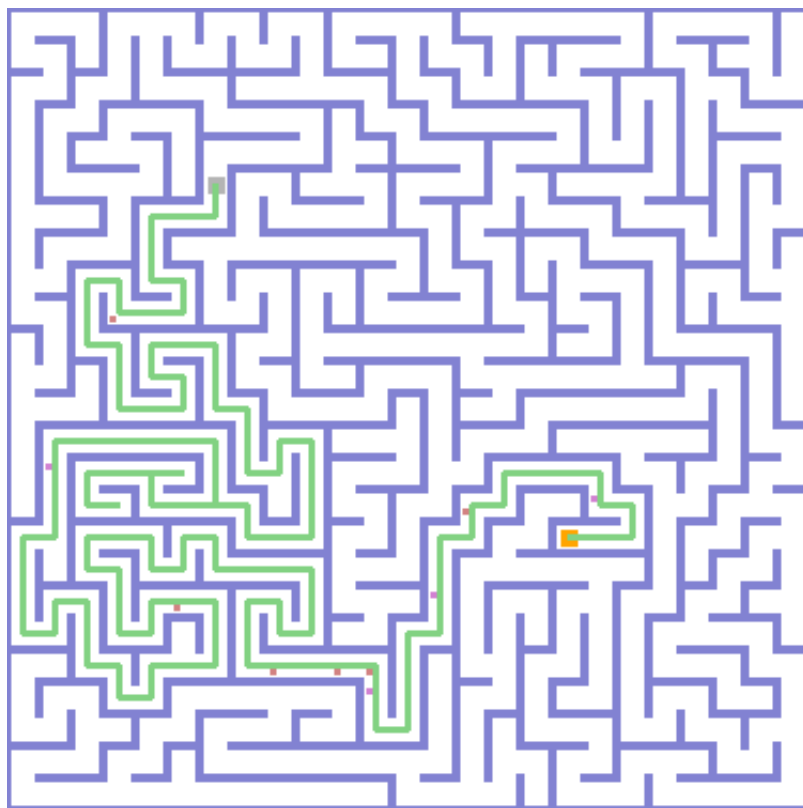

I trudged right. Again I toddled right. Then I trudged down. Again I traipsed down. Then I plodded left. Then I walked up. Then I marched down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-three animals were following me, and I held twenty-seven flowers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

I meandered south. Then I beat cheeks west. Again I traipsed west. Then I trekked south. Again I toddled south. Then I traipsed east. Then I trudged south. Then I paraded west. Again I sprinted west. There was a mountain goat there. I named it Tanner.

I meandered north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I hiked south. Again I shuffled south. Then I marched east. Then I hoofed it south. Again I paraded south. Then I ran east. Again I beat cheeks east. Then I strode north. Then I shuffled west. Then I meandered north. Then I paraded east. Again I stepped east. Then I hiked south. Again I traipsed south. Then I trekked east. Then I strode south. Again I strutted south. Then I ambled east. Then I shuffled north. Then I shuffled east. Then I meandered south. Again I strutted south. Again I hiked south. Then I strutted west. Again I strutted west. Then I paraded north. Then I stepped west. Again I beat cheeks west. Again I beat cheeks west. Then I beat cheeks north. Then I sprinted west. Again I ran west. Then I shambled south. Then I hoofed it east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran east. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched north. Again I strutted north. Then I shuffled west. Again I shuffled west. Again I plodded west. Again I went west. Again I shuffled west. Then I stepped south. There was a beautiful orange clover there. It smelled like mangoes.

I went south. Again I hiked south. Then I sauntered west. Then I toddled south. Again I traipsed south. Again I sauntered south. Then I went east. Then I hiked north. Then I ran east. Then I trudged south. Again I marched south. Then I marched east. Then I trudged south. Then I walked east. Then I plodded north. Then I ran east. Again I trekked east. Then I shambled north. Again I trudged north. Then I trekked west. There was a reptile there. I named it Marissa.

I beat cheeks west. Then I trudged south. Then I strutted west. Then I traipsed north.

Brandon asked Ella, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a hedgehog."

Again I stepped north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I ambled north. Then I stepped east. Again I walked east. Then I ambled south. Then I traipsed east. Then I sauntered north. Then I traipsed east. Then I strode south. Then I hiked east. Again I plodded east. Again I shuffled east. Then I traipsed south. Again I ran south. Then I ambled west. Then I marched north. Then I beat cheeks west. Then I ambled south. Again I shuffled south. Then I marched east. There was a ground hog there. I named it Danielle.

I hiked east. Again I hiked east. There was a mole there. I named it Veronica. It started following me.

I stepped east. There was a marmoset there. I named it Rylee.

I strutted south. There was a beautiful sunglow sunflower there. It smelled like mangoes.

I beat cheeks south. Then I hiked east. Then I sauntered north. Again I toddled north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I plodded east. Then I meandered north. There was a beautiful laser lemon buttercup there. It smelled like feijoas.

I toddled north. Again I hoofed it north. Then I trekked east. Then I shambled north. There was an ox there. I named it Dylan.

I toddled east. Then I shambled north. Then I hiked east. Again I beat cheeks east. Again I strode east. Then I traipsed south. There was a beautiful royal purple crocu there. It smelled like oranges.

I strutted east. Then I sauntered south. Then I sauntered west. Then I trekked down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-four animals were following me, and I held twenty-seven flowers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

I ran down. Then I traipsed right. Then I shambled down. Then I ambled left. Again I strode left. Again I hiked left. Again I toddled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. There was a beautiful shamrock orange blossom there. It smelled like pineapples.

I marched left. There was a koala there. I named it Malachi.

I sprinted left. Then I traipsed down. Then I ran left. There was a porpoise there. I named it Melissa.

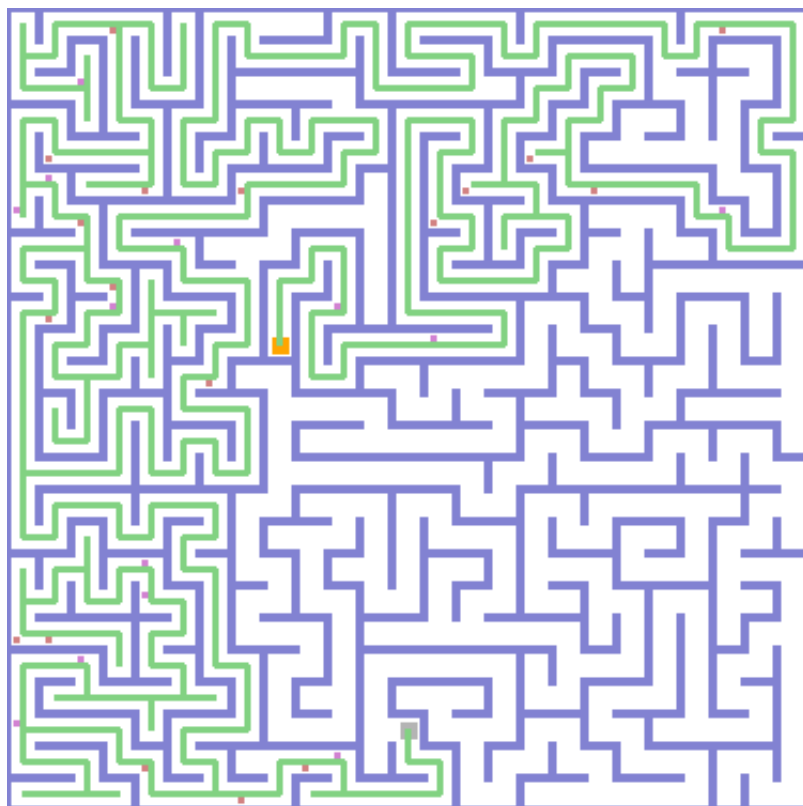

I stepped left. Again I strutted left. Again I went left. Then I beat cheeks up. There was an ape there. I named it Ayden.

I beat cheeks left. Then I sprinted up. Then I went left. Again I walked left. Again I paraded left. There was a beautiful gray rose there. It smelled like currants.

I trekked up. Again I sprinted up. Then I hiked right. Again I toddled right. There was a beautiful hot magenta violet there. It smelled like nectarines.

I sprinted down. Then I trudged right. Again I went right. Again I walked right. Again I hiked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted up. Then I stepped left. Then I trekked up. Then I trekked right. Then I strode up. Then I sprinted left. There was a beautiful yellow heather there. It smelled like rambutans.

I ran up. There was a beautiful white amaranth there. It smelled like nectarines.

I toddled left. Then I sprinted down. Then I toddled left. Then I sprinted up. Then I marched left. Then I sauntered down. Then I trudged left. Then I sauntered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled down. There was a cat there. I named it Brianna.

I hiked right. There was a salamander there. I named it Kimberly.

I toddled right. Again I shambled right. Then I ran down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Then I ran right. Again I hiked right. Then I stepped down. Then I paraded left. Again I marched left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged up. Then I ambled left. Then I plodded up. Then I meandered right. Again I trekked right. Then I hoofed it up. Again I sprinted up. Then I marched left. Then I walked up. Again I paraded up. Again I meandered up. Then I traipsed left. Then I ambled up. Then I ran right. Then I marched up. Then I walked left. Again I trudged left. Then I went down. Then I trekked left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I ran left. Again I marched left. Then I plodded down. Then I shuffled left. Then I walked up. Again I walked up. Again I shuffled up. Again I walked up. Again I toddled up. Again I sauntered up. Again I strode up. Then I hoofed it right. There was a cat there. I named it Micah.

I ran up. Then I trekked left. Then I hiked up. Then I plodded right. Again I ran right. Then I ran up. There was a raccoon there. I named it Ella.

I went left. Then I sprinted up. There was a beautiful yellow green sunflower there. It smelled like nuts.

I ambled left. Then I toddled down. There was a beautiful brown amaranth there. It smelled like honeydews.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled up. Again I hiked up. Then I strode right. Then I shuffled down. There was a hyena there. I named it Ethan.

I trekked right. Again I strode right. Again I toddled right. Then I trudged up. Then I trudged left. Then I strutted up. Again I sprinted up. Again I sprinted up. There was a tiger there. I named it Destiny.

I ran right. Then I shambled down. Again I shambled down. Then I ran right. Then I plodded up. Again I shuffled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Again I hiked left. Then I marched down. Then I shambled left. Then I toddled down. Then I shambled right.

Serenity asked Henry, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a raccoon. I have an integrity and I can climb tree, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Serenity.

Again I sprinted right. There was a beautiful white hyacinth there. It smelled like guavas.

I trekked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went down. There was an elephant there. I named it Karina.

I shuffled left. Again I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered down. Then I marched right. There was a ewe there. I named it Jake.

I traipsed down. There was a beautiful lavender lady's slipper there. It smelled like jackfruits. I picked it.

I meandered left. Then I toddled down. Then I paraded left. Then I marched down. Then I plodded right. Again I sauntered right. Then I walked up. Then I meandered right. Then I stepped up. Then I traipsed right. Again I sprinted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode down. Again I trudged down. Then I stepped left. Then I went up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. Again I traipsed right. Again I sprinted right. Then I ran up. Again I went up. Then I shambled right. Then I shuffled down. Again I toddled down. Then I paraded right. Then I trekked up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I trekked down. Then I paraded right. Then I plodded up. Again I shambled up. Then I trudged left. Again I marched left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I beat cheeks right. There was a cheetah there. I named it Valerie.

I shuffled up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I went up. Again I ambled up. Then I stepped left. Again I traipsed left. Then I hoofed it up. There was a beautiful marvelous rosemary there. It smelled like cherries.

I meandered left. Again I sprinted left. Then I shuffled up. Then I trekked right. Again I stepped right. Again I plodded right. Again I shambled right. Then I strutted up. There was a gila monster there. I named it Matthew.

I trudged right. Again I hiked right. Again I went right. Then I ran up. Then I paraded right. Then I strode up. Then I shambled left. Again I strutted left. Then I strutted down. Then I toddled left. Then I sauntered up. Then I ran left. Then I shuffled down. Then I walked left. Then I ambled down. Then I stepped left. Then I strutted up. Again I toddled up. Then I trudged right. Then I hiked up. Again I marched up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I ambled right.

Chloe asked Cody, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a jackal."

Then I traipsed down. Then I meandered right. Again I hiked right. Again I walked right. Then I shuffled up. Then I ran right. Then I trekked down. Again I ran down. Then I meandered right. Again I trudged right. Again I trudged right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I walked left. Then I stepped up. Then I plodded right. Again I hiked right. Again I stepped right. Then I sauntered down. Then I went right. Then I strode up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I hiked right. Again I sauntered right. Again I meandered right. Then I toddled down. Then I hiked right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hoofed it right. There was a muskrat there. I named it Logan.

I trudged right. Again I ran right. Then I strutted down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I strode down. Then I ambled left. Then I went down. Then I sprinted right. Then I shambled down. Again I strutted down. Again I traipsed down. Then I ran left. Again I went left. Then I walked up. There was a beautiful brick red gerbera daisy there. It smelled like satsumas.

I stepped left. Then I stepped up. Then I sauntered left. Again I strutted left. Again I strutted left. There was a mongoose there. I named it Dylan.

I meandered left. Then I trudged up. Then I paraded left. There was a rabbit there. I named it Isabelle.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Then I stepped right. Then I trekked up. Then I marched right. Then I went up. Then I trekked left. Again I shambled left. Then I went down. Then I stepped left. Then I hiked down. Then I hoofed it left. Then I toddled down. Again I sauntered down. Then I strode left. There was a hamster there. I named it Gianna.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled right. Then I plodded down. Then I stepped left. Then I paraded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Then I trekked down. Then I hiked left. Then I stepped down. Then I marched left. Again I marched left. Again I sauntered left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I plodded right. Then I trudged up. Then I strutted left. There was a seal there. I named it Xavier.

I shuffled up. Again I stepped up. Then I trudged right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I trekked left. Again I toddled left. Then I plodded down. Again I trudged down. Again I trudged down. Again I shambled down. Again I ambled down. Again I ran down. Then I sauntered right. Again I stepped right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I went down. Then I toddled left. Again I walked left. There was a beautiful turquoise blue petunium there. It smelled like raisins.

I sprinted left. Again I paraded left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I went down. Then I sauntered left. Then I meandered up. Again I paraded up. Then I paraded right. There was a beautiful brick red primrose there. It smelled like blackberries.

I shuffled up. Again I paraded up. Then I sprinted left. Then I strutted down. Then I meandered left. Then I meandered down. Then I hiked down a flight of stairs. Serenity the alpaca stopped following me for some reason.

So far twenty-three animals were following me, and I held twenty-eight flowers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

I shambled up. Then I strode right. There was a beautiful cerulean water lily there. It smelled like persimmons.

I sprinted up. Then I toddled left. Then I sprinted up. Again I strode up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I plodded right. Again I shuffled right. Then I walked down. Then I marched left. Then I hiked down. Then I marched right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I shuffled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered down. Again I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked left. There was a beautiful cotton candy dahlium there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I sauntered up. Again I trekked up. Again I trudged up. Again I shambled up. There was a platypus there. I named it Makayla.

I plodded up. Again I went up. Then I trekked right. Then I ambled up. Then I walked left. Then I toddled up. Then I ran right.

Aaron asked Alexis, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a weasel and I'm sneaky. I have a short leg."

Again I meandered right. Then I sauntered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went right. Again I walked right. There was a reindeer there. I named it Mikayla.

I plodded up. Then I shuffled right. There was a beautiful spring green orange blossom there. It smelled like olives. I picked it.

I marched up. Again I paraded up. Then I went right. Again I ran right. Then I strutted down. Then I marched left. Then I ran down. Again I strutted down. Again I paraded down. Then I sprinted right. Then I trekked down. Again I meandered down. Again I strode down. Then I hoofed it left. There was a beautiful sea green buttercup there. It smelled like elderberries.

I beat cheeks down. There was a gila monster there. I named it Tiffany.

I went down. Then I strutted right. Again I walked right. Then I trudged up. Again I hoofed it up. Again I walked up. Then I toddled right. Then I strode down. Again I went down. Then I ran right. Then I went down. Again I paraded down. Then I ran right. Then I sprinted down. Again I paraded down. Then I sprinted left. Then I plodded up. Then I trekked left. Then I paraded down. Again I ambled down. Then I trekked right. There was a beautiful jazzberry jam petunium there. It smelled like salal berries.

I went right. There was a camel there. I named it Madison.

I shambled down. Then I traipsed left. Again I ran left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I plodded left. Again I beat cheeks left. There was a llama there. I named it Jenna.

I walked left. Then I strode down. Again I strutted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

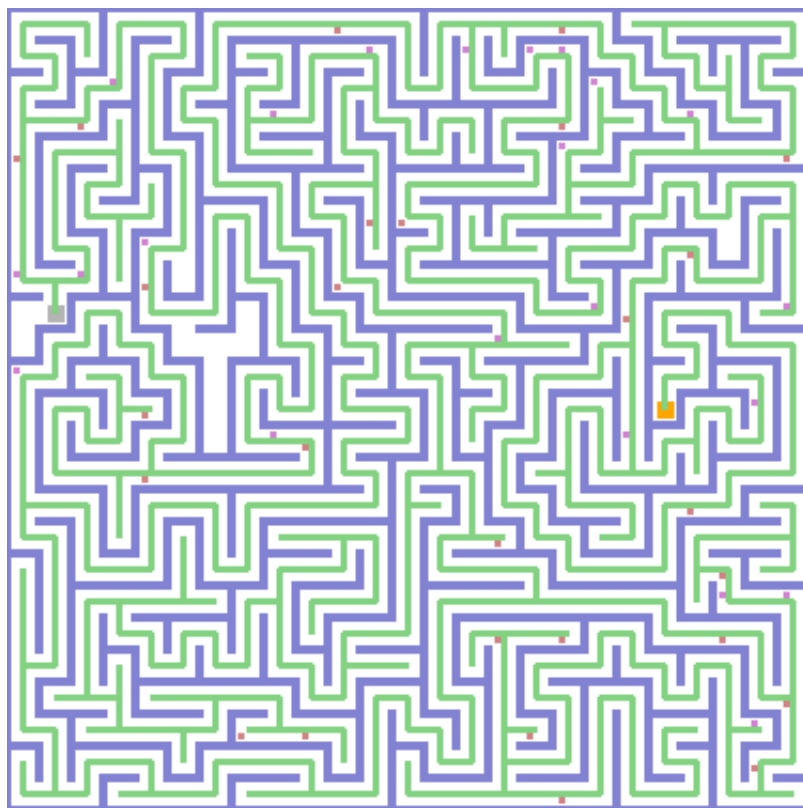

I meandered left. Again I sprinted left. Then I marched up. Again I shuffled up. Then I shuffled right. Then I paraded down. Then I toddled right. Then I ambled up. Again I hiked up. Then I shambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered right. There was a warthog there. I named it Kaleb.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled up. Then I traipsed right. Then I ran up. Again I sauntered up. Then I shambled left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I plodded left. Then I hiked up. Then I went left. Then I stepped down. Then I traipsed left. Then I trekked down. Then I ran left. There was a beautiful dandelion petunium there. It smelled like raspberries.

I sauntered down. Again I strutted down. Again I ambled down. Again I traipsed down. Again I went down. Then I went right. Then I strutted down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I walked down. Again I stepped down. Then I strutted left. Then I toddled down. Again I strutted down. Then I stepped right. Then I trudged down. Again I traipsed down. Then I marched left. Then I traipsed up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I ambled up. Then I strutted right. Again I shuffled right. Then I plodded down. Then I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked right. Again I plodded right. Then I went up. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I marched right. Again I sauntered right. Then I walked down. Then I traipsed left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched right. Again I strode right. Then I walked up. Again I plodded up. Again I stepped up. Then I strode right. Then I plodded down. Then I ran right. Then I paraded down. Then I walked right. Then I ran up.

Chloe asked Kimberly, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a bear. I have a snout and I can eat honey, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Chloe.

Again I sprinted up. Then I stepped left. Then I sauntered up. Again I trudged up. Again I ran up. Then I trekked right. Again I traipsed right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I paraded up. Then I trudged left. Again I strutted left. Again I sprinted left. Then I marched up. Then I walked right. Again I walked right. There was a newt there. I named it Samuel.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode up. Again I toddled up. Then I hiked left. Then I stepped up. Again I meandered up. Again I marched up. Then I shuffled left. Then I meandered up. Then I toddled right. Again I sprinted right. Then I strode down. Then I shambled right. Then I shuffled down. Then I stepped left. Then I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered right. There was a beautiful salmon hibiscus there. It smelled like blackcurrants.

I strode up. Then I paraded left. Again I sauntered left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I went left. Then I meandered up. Then I trekked left. There was an opossum there. I named it Jocelyn.

I meandered up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I trekked left. Then I stepped up. Then I paraded right. Again I trekked right. Then I plodded up. Then I sauntered left. Then I toddled up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I sprinted right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I traipsed right. Then I stepped down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I traipsed up. Then I ran right. Then I ambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched up. There was a beautiful royal purple rosemary there. It smelled like strawberries.

I went left. Again I ran left. Then I sauntered down. Again I trekked down. Then I plodded left. There was a beautiful lavender there. It smelled like avocados.

I ambled left. Then I walked up. Then I ambled right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked down. Then I stepped right. Again I trekked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled down. There was a mynah bird there. I named it Lillian.

I sauntered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Again I walked right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed left. Then I ran down. Again I marched down. Again I marched down. Again I meandered down. Again I strutted down. Then I sauntered left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I paraded down. Then I marched right. Again I went right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled down. Then I plodded left. Then I shuffled up. Then I strode left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I walked up. Again I sprinted up. Then I trudged right. Again I stepped right. Then I sauntered up. Then I strutted right. Then I meandered down. Again I shuffled down. Then I hoofed it left. Again I paraded left. Then I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed left. Again I ran left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped left. Then I strutted down. Again I sprinted down. Then I shambled left. Then I shuffled up. Then I ran left. Then I sauntered down. Then I meandered left. Then I strode up. Then I sprinted left. Then I traipsed up. Then I trekked right. Again I hiked right. Again I went right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked up. Again I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks left. Then I paraded down. Again I went down. Again I plodded down. Then I shuffled right. Then I plodded up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled down. Then I trudged right. Again I plodded right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched right. Then I went up. Then I paraded right. Again I shambled right. Then I paraded down. Then I ambled right. There was a cow there. I named it Aiden.

I hoofed it right. Then I shambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered left. There was a walrus there. I named it Cody.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped left. Again I strutted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled right. Again I paraded right. Again I sauntered right. Again I plodded right. Then I stepped down. Then I trekked right. Again I went right. There was a jackal there. I named it Skylar.

I stepped right. Then I shambled down. Again I went down. Then I shambled right. There was a salamander there. I named it Kiara.

I ambled up. Again I meandered up. Again I trekked up. There was a beautiful gold zinnium there. It smelled like rock melons.

I stepped left. Again I trekked left. There was a beautiful sunglow orchid there. It smelled like clementines.

I sprinted up. There was a parakeet there. I named it Cole.

I traipsed left. Then I paraded up. Then I trudged right. Again I sauntered right. Again I trudged right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I sprinted left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Then I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered down. Again I sprinted down. Then I went left. There was a boar there. I named it Peyton.

I strode down. Then I shuffled left. Then I hiked up. Again I went up. Then I hiked right. There was a beautiful cerulean edelweis there. It smelled like rock melons.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Again I ran up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I marched down.

Chloe asked Marissa, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an alpaca."

Then I traipsed left. Then I shambled up. Then I traipsed left. Then I stepped up. Then I paraded left. Then I shambled down. Then I paraded left. Again I strode left. Then I ambled down. Then I traipsed right. Then I walked down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I hiked left. Again I ran left. Then I trudged up. Then I sauntered right. There was a raccoon there. I named it Colin. It started following me.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded up. Again I sauntered up. Again I toddled up. There was a beaver there. I named it Steven.

I plodded left. Then I trudged down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed right. Again I beat cheeks right. There was an elephant there. I named it Hailey.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged down. Then I strutted left. Again I strutted left. Again I hiked left. Then I shambled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran right. Again I trudged right. There was an ape there. I named it Brian.

I toddled right. Then I strutted up. Again I marched up. Again I marched up. Then I meandered right. Then I trekked down. Again I ambled down. Again I ran down. Then I shuffled right. Again I traipsed right. Then I hiked up. Then I beat cheeks left.

Veronica asked Alexis, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a weasel and I'm sneaky. I have a nose."

Then I went up. Then I shambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled up. Again I traipsed up. Again I trekked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Again I ran right. Then I strode down. Again I sauntered down. Then I meandered right. Again I strode right. Then I meandered up. Again I traipsed up. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I walked right. Then I ambled down. Again I sprinted down. Then I trekked right. Then I marched up. Again I trudged up. Then I plodded right. Again I trekked right. Again I traipsed right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I strutted up. Then I sprinted left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hoofed it right. Again I plodded right. Then I sprinted up. Then I stepped left. Again I sprinted left. Then I went up. Then I sauntered right. Then I marched up. Then I traipsed left.

Sadie asked Cody, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a jackal."

Then I ambled up. Then I marched left. Then I meandered up. Again I trudged up. Then I hiked left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I toddled up. Then I went left. Again I stepped left. Then I sauntered up. Again I ran up. Then I meandered left. Then I marched up. Then I walked right. Then I paraded up.

Lucy asked Veronica, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a mole. I have a poor eyesight and I can dig hole, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to eat roadrunner!" replied Lucy.

Again I stepped up. Then I trudged right. Again I toddled right. Again I trudged right. Again I traipsed right. There was a dog there. I named it Kelsey.

I beat cheeks right. Again I went right. Then I ran down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I marched right. Then I strode up. Again I sauntered up. Then I strutted right. Again I shambled right. Then I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went right. Again I trekked right. There was an impala there. I named it Jason.

I traipsed right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I stepped right. Then I paraded down. Then I paraded right. Then I toddled down. Then I stepped right. There was a beautiful fuchsia daffodil there. It smelled like pomegranates. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I sprinted down. Then I stepped right. Again I ran right. Again I meandered right. There was a donkey there. I named it Tiffany.

I sauntered up. Again I sprinted up. Then I shambled left. Then I sprinted up. Then I toddled right. Then I hoofed it up. Then I went left. Again I trekked left. Again I hiked left. Again I shuffled left. Then I trekked down. Then I plodded right. Then I paraded down. Then I went right. Then I marched up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hoofed it down. Then I shambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered left. Again I trekked left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I trekked left. Again I stepped left. Then I trekked up. There was a beautiful red violet amaranth there. It smelled like nuts.

I hoofed it right. Then I hiked up. Again I shambled up. There was a beautiful fern primrose there. It smelled like honeydews.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted down. Then I shuffled left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I stepped down. Then I plodded right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted left. Then I sauntered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered down. There was a beautiful outer space snapdragon there. It smelled like apples. For some reason I ate it. It tasted terrible.

I hoofed it down. Then I trudged right. Again I traipsed right. Then I ambled up. There was a beautiful turquoise blue forget me not there. It smelled like lychees. For some reason I ate it. It tasted awful.

I plodded right. There was a beautiful plum rose there. It smelled like damsons.

I sprinted down. Again I walked down. There was a cow there. I named it Lucy.

I sauntered left. Again I paraded left. Then I strode down. Then I plodded right. Then I trekked down. Then I sprinted left. Again I sauntered left. Again I went left. Again I trudged left. Then I trudged down. There was a donkey there. I named it Alana.

I shambled right. Then I hiked down. Then I traipsed left. Then I toddled down. Then I stepped right. Again I ran right. Again I walked right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I hiked down. Then I marched right. Again I trudged right. There was a beautiful mountain meadow tulip there. It smelled like goji berries.

I shambled up. Then I traipsed left. Then I went up. Then I ambled right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I walked up. Then I strutted right. Then I strode up. Then I hiked right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I trudged right. Then I paraded up. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I walked right. Then I meandered down. Again I shuffled down. Again I shuffled down. Again I beat cheeks down. There was a beautiful tan rosemary there. It smelled like raisins.

I beat cheeks left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked left. Then I marched down. Again I trudged down. Then I sprinted left. Again I trekked left. Then I hoofed it up. There was a mongoose there. I named it Andrew.

I sprinted left. Then I hiked down. Then I paraded left. Then I plodded down. There was an elk there. I named it Lucy.

I shambled down. Again I sauntered down. Again I marched down. Again I walked down. There was a beautiful eggplant freesium there. It smelled like breadfruits. For some reason I ate it. It tasted bad.

I shuffled down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I paraded up. Then I hiked right. Then I plodded up. Then I ambled right. Then I strutted down. Then I hiked right. Then I paraded up. There was a beautiful yellow tansy there. It smelled like watermelons.

I went up. Then I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Then I sprinted up. Again I walked up. Then I sauntered left. Then I ran down. Again I went down. Then I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted down. Then I toddled right. Again I shuffled right. Then I traipsed down. Then I shambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shambled left. Then I went down. Then I went left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I sprinted down. Again I sprinted down. Then I walked left. Then I traipsed down. Again I sauntered down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I ambled right. Then I trudged down. Then I sprinted right. Again I paraded right. Again I sauntered right. Then I meandered up. Again I sauntered up. Then I strutted right. There was a salamander there. I named it Juliana.

I sprinted right. Then I strutted up. Then I went right. Again I plodded right. Then I shuffled up. Again I shambled up. Again I paraded up. Again I ambled up. Then I paraded left. Again I shambled left. Then I hoofed it up.

Sadie asked Tanner, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a wombat."

Then I paraded left. Again I shambled left. Then I hiked down. Then I stepped right. Then I ran down. Then I stepped left.

Then I strutted down a flight of stairs. Colin the raccoon stopped following me for some reason.

So far twenty-three animals were following me, and I held thirty flowers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

I trekked left. Again I strutted left. Again I walked left.

Breanna asked Sergio, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm an otter. I can swim, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Breanna.

Again I walked left. There was a beautiful black lady's slipper there. It smelled like tangerines. I picked it.

I stepped down. There was a lamb there. I named it Bailey.

I plodded down. Again I stepped down. Again I hiked down. Then I sprinted right. Again I marched right. Then I shuffled up. Then I trudged right. There was a tapir there. I named it Vincent.

I meandered down. Then I hiked right. Again I shuffled right. Then I trekked up. Then I ran right. Then I hiked down. Again I plodded down. Then I strode left. Then I traipsed down. Then I trudged right. Then I trudged down. Again I strode down. Then I stepped right. Then I ran down. Then I shuffled left. Again I traipsed left. Again I traipsed left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I ambled down. Again I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks right. Then I strutted down. Again I trekked down. Again I shambled down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I stepped left. Again I shuffled left. Again I sauntered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered up. Then I shambled right. Then I marched up. Then I sprinted left. Then I shambled up. Then I strutted left. Then I strode up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

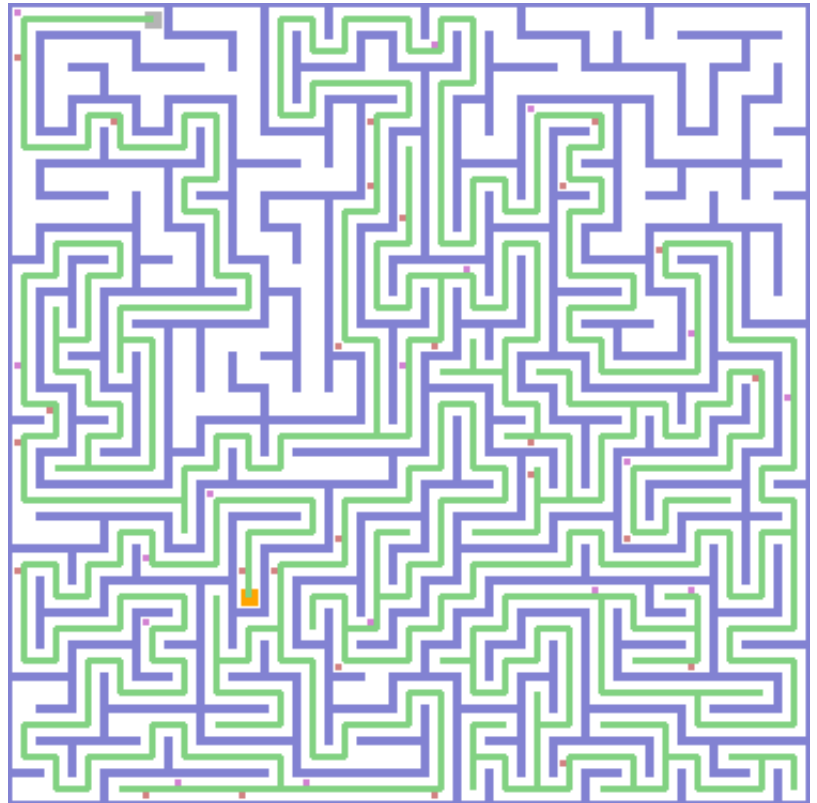

I beat cheeks right. Then I toddled up. Again I strode up. Then I paraded right. Then I traipsed up. Then I sauntered left. Again I meandered left. Then I ran down. Then I sauntered left. Then I shambled down. Again I walked down. Again I trudged down. There was a beautiful green thistle there. It smelled like loquats.

I ran down. Then I went right. There was a chipmunk there. I named it Jasmine.

I shambled down. Then I paraded left. There was a hamster there. I named it Jasmine.

I strutted down. Again I plodded down. Then I shuffled right. Again I hiked right. Again I beat cheeks right. Again I stepped right. Again I walked right. Then I paraded down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered up. Then I strutted right. Then I traipsed up. Then I trudged right. Then I ran down. Then I stepped right. Then I sprinted up. Then I stepped right. Again I toddled right. Again I hiked right. Again I strode right. Then I sprinted up. Again I marched up. There was a beautiful sky blue water lily there. It smelled like strawberries.

I meandered up. Then I hiked right. There was a reindeer there. I named it Gavin.

I paraded up. Again I traipsed up. Then I marched left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I strutted left. Then I trudged up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I plodded right. Then I trudged up. There was a zebra there. I named it Alexis.

I strutted up. Again I sprinted up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode right. There was a beautiful cornflower orange blossom there. It smelled like lychees.

I sauntered down. Then I toddled right. Then I ambled up. Again I stepped up. Then I sprinted right. Then I sauntered down. Again I toddled down. Again I stepped down. Then I walked left. Then I hoofed it down. Again I plodded down. Then I meandered right. Then I trekked down. There was a toad there. I named it Brooke. It started following me.

I shuffled right. Then I paraded down. Again I strode down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I traipsed up. Again I ran up. Then I paraded right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I strode right. Then I marched down. Then I strode right. Then I went up. Then I hiked right. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I hiked right. There was a rat there. I named it Marcus.

I paraded down. Again I shuffled down. Then I sauntered left. Then I plodded down.

Chloe asked Cody, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a jackal."

Then I plodded left. Again I plodded left. Again I plodded left. There was a beautiful wisteria amaranth there. It smelled like figs.

I trekked down. Again I ran down. There was a cheetah there. I named it Ava. It started following me.

I stepped right. Then I plodded up. Then I shambled right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted left. Again I toddled left. Then I paraded up. Then I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted left. Then I sprinted up. There was a dingo there. I named it Mariah.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted down. Then I marched left. Again I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted left. Then I beat cheeks up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Again I trekked up. Again I marched up. Then I paraded left. There was a coyote there. I named it Christopher.

I walked up. Again I meandered up. Again I sauntered up. Again I ran up. Then I went right. Then I strode up. There was a weasel there. I named it Sergio.

I hoofed it up. Again I hoofed it up. There was a rabbit there. I named it Martin.

I traipsed right. Then I trudged up. Then I shuffled left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I ran left. Then I plodded down. Then I shuffled left. Then I trekked up. Again I strode up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I plodded right. Then I strode down. Then I sprinted right. Then I strode up. Then I went right. Again I strutted right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I strutted right. There was a beautiful tumbleweed tansy there. It smelled like bell peppers.

I strutted up. Then I trekked right. Then I sauntered down. Again I walked down. Then I walked left. Then I trudged down. Again I went down. Again I sprinted down. Again I went down. Again I ambled down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I hoofed it up. Again I walked up. Then I shuffled right. Then I shambled down. Then I strode right. Then I strode up. Again I shambled up. Again I trudged up. There was a beautiful wild strawberry bellflower there. It smelled like plums.

I ambled right. Again I went right. There was a dog there. I named it Lily.

I ambled down. Then I sauntered left. Then I ambled down. There was a buffalo there. I named it Tyler. It started following me.

I beat cheeks right. Then I strode down. Then I walked left. Then I trekked down. Again I hiked down. Then I shuffled right. Again I paraded right. Then I sprinted down. Then I marched left. Again I shuffled left. Then I sauntered down. Then I walked right. Then I marched down. Then I shambled right. Again I shuffled right. Again I meandered right. Then I walked up. There was a beautiful tumbleweed peony there. It smelled like bananas.

I trekked up. Again I went up. Then I marched left. Then I marched up. There was a koala there. I named it Sophie.

I strutted right. Again I went right. Then I sprinted down. Again I sprinted down. Again I marched down. Then I traipsed right. Again I strutted right. Then I meandered down. Again I plodded down. There was a beautiful carnation pink bottlebrush there. It smelled like clementines.

I traipsed down. Again I hoofed it down. Then I sprinted left. Then I ambled down. Then I shambled right. Then I strode down. Again I hoofed it down. Again I shambled down. Again I toddled down. Then I hoofed it left. Again I strutted left. Then I meandered down. Then I trekked right. Again I marched right. Then I stepped down. Again I shambled down. Then I ambled left. Again I stepped left. Again I strode left. Then I sauntered up. Then I ambled left. Again I beat cheeks left. Again I trudged left. Then I hoofed it up. Again I sauntered up. Again I shambled up. There was a beautiful cerulean edelweis there. It smelled like pineapples.

I toddled right. Then I toddled down. Then I hiked right. Again I trekked right. Then I toddled down. There was a tiger there. I named it Amanda.

I hoofed it left. Again I hiked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled up. There was a beautiful blue green edelweis there. It smelled like mangoes.

I ran left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Again I stepped left. Again I trudged left. Then I stepped down. Then I strode left. Then I trekked down. Again I marched down. Then I plodded right. Then I ambled up. Then I ambled right. Then I marched up. Then I sauntered right. Then I hiked down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I shambled down. Then I trekked left. Then I trudged up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged down. Again I shambled down. Then I sauntered right. Then I hoofed it up. There was an ape there. I named it Erica.

I ran right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I meandered down. Then I walked right. Then I plodded up. Then I sprinted right. Then I traipsed down. Then I traipsed right. Again I hoofed it right. Then I sauntered up. Then I toddled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I stepped right. Then I shambled down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sprinted up. Then I went left. Again I toddled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged left. Then I trudged up. Then I sprinted left. Then I went down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode up. Then I marched right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Then I ambled down. Again I sauntered down. Then I trudged left. Then I hoofed it up. Again I sauntered up. Then I ambled left. Then I meandered down. Then I trudged left. Again I shambled left. Again I hiked left. Then I marched up. Then I sauntered left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I trekked left. Again I marched left. Again I hoofed it left. Then I ambled down. Then I shambled left. Then I plodded down. Then I toddled left. Then I ambled down. Then I shuffled left. Again I shambled left. There was a fox there. I named it Gabriela.

I shuffled up. Again I stepped up. Then I paraded left. Then I sprinted down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strutted right. There was a beautiful jazzberry jam peony there. It smelled like apples.

I toddled up. Again I shuffled up. Again I trekked up. Then I shuffled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered right. Then I hoofed it up.

Alexis asked Breanna, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a muskrat."

Then I sprinted right. Then I strode up. Again I trekked up. Then I marched right. Again I paraded right. Then I ran up. Then I ran left. Then I hiked up. Again I ran up.

Reagan asked Sadie, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a boar."

Then I shuffled left. Then I sprinted down. Again I plodded down. Then I sprinted left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I strode left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I ran down. There was a horse there. I named it Breanna.

I beat cheeks down. Then I shuffled left. Again I meandered left. There was a shrew there. I named it Nicole. It started following me.

I beat cheeks down. Again I stepped down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I strode down. Then I toddled left. Then I sauntered down. Then I paraded right. Again I toddled right. Then I sauntered down. Then I stepped left. Again I trudged left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked up. Again I trudged up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged down. Then I trekked right. Then I strutted down. Again I trudged down. Again I strode down. Then I hiked right. Then I ran up. Then I traipsed right. Again I went right. Then I traipsed up. Then I trekked right. Then I hoofed it down. Again I went down. Again I paraded down. There was a lemur there. I named it Mark. It started following me.

I stepped left. Again I walked left. Again I meandered left. Again I shambled left. There was a beautiful yellow lily there. It smelled like coconuts.

I sprinted left. Again I walked left. There was a mandrill there. I named it Lucy.

I traipsed left. Again I hoofed it left. There was a beautiful canary rosemary there. It smelled like ugli fruit.

I plodded left. There was an ox there. I named it Mark.

I traipsed left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered up. Then I beat cheeks left. Again I shambled left. Again I stepped left. Then I marched up. Then I hiked left. Then I toddled down. Then I stepped left. Again I shuffled left. Then I went down. Then I strutted left. Then I stepped up. Then I marched left. Then I toddled up. Then I trudged right. Again I went right. Then I went up. Again I toddled up. Then I hoofed it right. Then I ambled down. Then I meandered right. Again I trudged right. Then I sprinted up. Then I toddled left. Then I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful cerulean begonium there. It smelled like jackfruits.

I meandered right. Then I walked up. Then I ambled left. Again I meandered left. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I trudged left. Again I strutted left. Then I plodded down. Then I trudged left. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I traipsed up. Again I strode up. There was an ape there. I named it Vanessa.

I shambled right. Then I shambled down. Then I stepped right. Then I traipsed up. Then I toddled right. Then I shuffled up. Then I marched right. Then I strutted down. There was a beautiful burnt orange heather there. It smelled like avocadoes.

I meandered right. Again I strode right. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful denim chrysanthemum there. It smelled like nuts. For some reason I ate it. It tasted okay.

I sprinted right. Again I beat cheeks right. Again I stepped right. Then I traipsed down. Then I traipsed left. Again I meandered left. Then I plodded down. There was a ewe there. I named it Alana.

Then I ran down a flight of stairs. Veronica the mole stopped following me for some reason.

So far twenty-seven animals were following me, and I held thirty-one flowers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

I shuffled up. Again I ran up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I hoofed it down. There was a beautiful cornflower violet there. It smelled like strawberries. I picked it.

I ambled down. Again I ambled down. Again I ambled down. Again I went down. Again I walked down. Then I ambled right. Again I paraded right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I went down. Then I shambled right. Then I sprinted down. There was a beautiful silver tansy there. It smelled like kiwi fruit.

I ran right. There was a beautiful tan tansy there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I beat cheeks up. Again I traipsed up. Then I trudged right. Again I beat cheeks right. Then I marched up. Then I went left. Again I trekked left. There was a beautiful wild watermelon iri there. It smelled like kiwi fruit.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I beat cheeks down. Again I went down. Then I went left. Then I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I sauntered left. There was a beautiful wild strawberry columbine there. It smelled like jujubes.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded down. Then I trekked left. There was a beautiful hot magenta edelweis there. It smelled like limes.

I shambled left. Then I toddled up. Then I traipsed right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded left. Then I sauntered down. There was a chipmunk there. I named it Julian.

I ambled down. Again I toddled down. Then I shambled right. Then I trudged down. Again I ran down. Again I sauntered down. There was a wombat there. I named it Max.

I ambled right. Then I hiked up. Then I marched right. Then I strutted down. Then I trudged right. Again I stepped right. Again I strutted right. There was a dromedary there. I named it Thomas.

I toddled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded up. There was a beautiful burnt orange anemone there. It smelled like kumquats.

I sprinted right. There was a rhinoceros there. I named it Michelle.

I sprinted right. Again I hoofed it right.

Tanner asked Brandon, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a finch. I can fly, can you?"

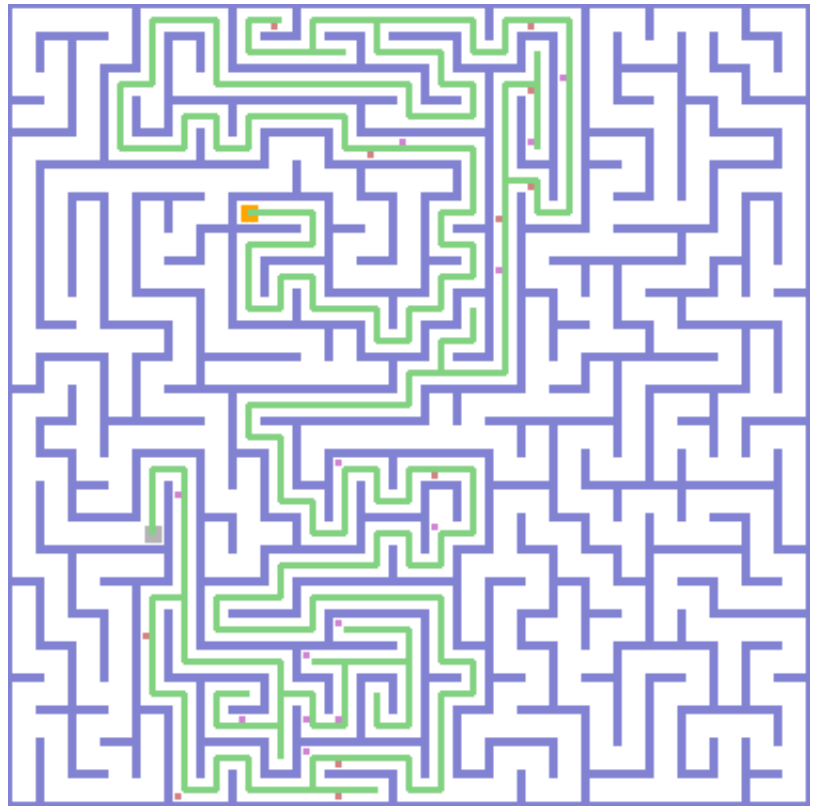

"No I can't," replied Tanner.

Then I stepped down. Then I shuffled right. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I toddled up. Again I stepped up. Then I went right. Then I shuffled up. Then I marched left. Then I sprinted up. Again I paraded up. Then I ran left. Again I traipsed left. Again I beat cheeks left. Again I meandered left. Then I traipsed down. Then I shuffled left. Again I walked left. Again I sprinted left. Then I strutted up. Then I shambled right. Again I toddled right. Then I sprinted up. Then I sauntered right. Again I sprinted right. Again I plodded right. Then I strutted up. Then I hiked right. Then I walked down. Then I went right. Then I ambled up. There was a beautiful wild watermelon camellia there. It smelled like apricots.

I sauntered right. Then I shambled up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I toddled left. There was a panda there. I named it Jonathan.

I ran left. Then I strutted down. Then I meandered left. Then I plodded up. Then I went left. There was a beautiful peach lily there. It smelled like chili peppers.

I shambled down. Again I meandered down. Then I strutted left. Then I trudged up. Then I sauntered left. Then I stepped up. Again I marched up. Then I went left. Then I shuffled up. Then I plodded right. Again I meandered right. Again I trudged right. Again I traipsed right. Again I went right. Then I ran up. Then I marched right. Then I sauntered up. Then I ran right. Then I trudged up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled right. Again I shuffled right. Then I shambled up. Again I walked up. Again I paraded up. There was a beautiful shocking pink columbine there. It smelled like durians.

I plodded up. Again I sprinted up. There was a horse there. I named it Jose.

I toddled up. Again I marched up. Again I ran up. Again I trudged up. Then I paraded right. There was a ground hog there. I named it Angelica.

I shuffled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went down. Again I meandered down. There was a beautiful radical red mimosa there. It smelled like raisins.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked right. There was a puma there. I named it Abraham.

I plodded down. Then I shambled right. Then I marched up. Again I shuffled up. Again I trekked up. Again I plodded up. There was a beautiful pacific blue tulip there. It smelled like pomegranates.

I ambled up. Again I trudged up. Then I hoofed it left. There was a zebra there. I named it Jasmin.

I stepped left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I traipsed left. Then I paraded up. Then I walked left. Again I strutted left. Again I toddled left. Again I strode left. Again I paraded left. Then I strutted down. Then I ran left. Again I walked left.

Ava asked Chloe, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a warthog."

Then I sprinted up. Then I went right. There was a squirrel there. I named it Lydia.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled down. Then I walked right. Again I meandered right. Then I paraded down. Then I shambled right. Then I ran down. Then I shambled left. Again I sprinted left. Then I stepped up. Then I walked left. Again I hoofed it left. Again I toddled left. Again I strutted left. Again I plodded left. Again I stepped left. Then I shambled up. Again I walked up. Then I plodded left. Again I trudged left. Then I walked down. Again I toddled down. Then I ambled left. Then I stepped down. Again I paraded down. Then I strutted right. Again I hiked right. Then I ambled up. Then I marched right. Then I plodded down. Then I sauntered right. Then I shuffled up. Then I walked right. Again I plodded right. Again I sauntered right. Then I hiked down. Then I hoofed it right. There was a weasel there. I named it Abigail.

I beat cheeks right. There was a beautiful outer space columbine there. It smelled like feijoas.

I strode right. Again I sauntered right. Then I ran down. Again I marched down. Then I walked left. Then I hoofed it down. Then I hoofed it right. Then I marched down.

Karen asked Kimberly, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a bear. I have a snout and I can scare person, can you?"

"No I can't," replied Karen.

Then I sprinted left. Then I strutted down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I sprinted down. Then I ran left. Then I sprinted up.

Then I walked left. Again I trudged left. Then I strutted up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I trekked down. Then I strutted left. Then I ambled up. Again I marched up. Then I hiked right. Again I paraded right. Then I shambled up. Then I meandered left. Then I ambled down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-seven animals were following me, and I held thirty-two flowers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

I walked left. Then I ambled down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I shambled down. Again I beat cheeks down. Again I hiked down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ambled right. Then I shuffled up. Again I toddled up. Then I paraded right. Then I sauntered up. Then I paraded left. There was a beautiful unmellow yellow babys breath there. It smelled like pomeloes. I picked it.

I ambled left. Then I hiked down. There was a beautiful desert sand zinnium there. It smelled like cantaloupes.

I ambled left. Then I walked up. Then I trudged left. Then I beat cheeks down. There was a lemur there. I named it Sophia.

I trudged left. Then I sprinted down. Then I toddled left. Then I walked down. Then I stepped right. Then I traipsed down. Then I strode right. Again I trekked right. Then I went down. Again I sprinted down.

Patrick asked Gregory, "What exactly are you?"

"Well, I'm a squirrel. I can store nut, can you?"

"No I can't, but I do know how to jump far!" replied Patrick.

Again I beat cheeks down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I hiked down. There was a beautiful periwinkle crocu there. It smelled like salal berries.

I ran left. Then I went down. Again I strode down. Then I trudged right. Again I strutted right. Then I ran down. Again I shambled down. Again I stepped down. Then I ran right. Then I strode up. Again I stepped up. Again I sprinted up. Again I toddled up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

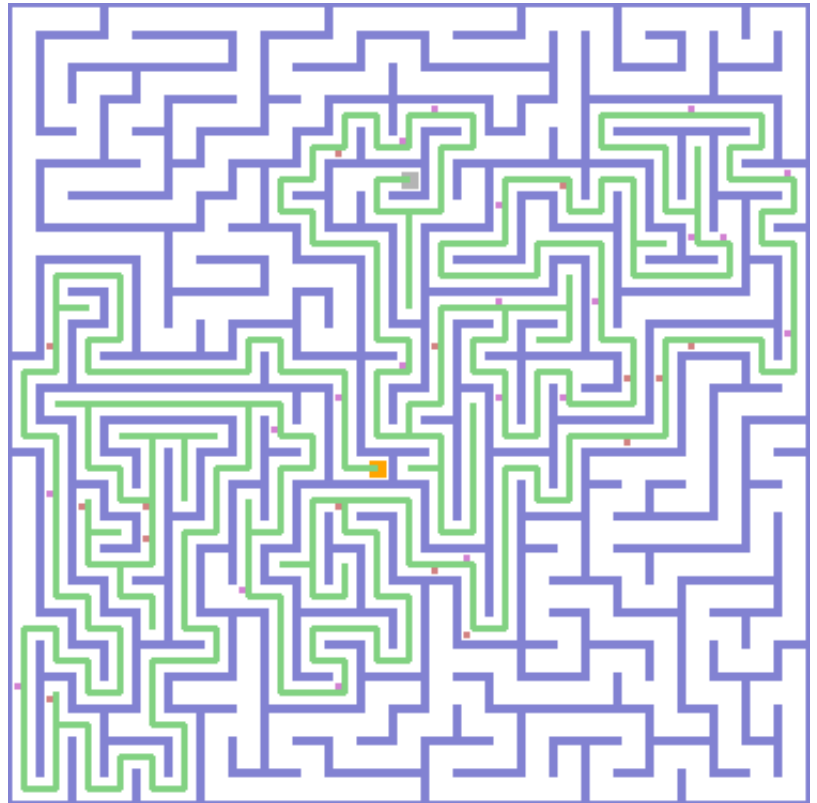

I marched left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged up. Then I sauntered right. Then I beat cheeks up. Again I shuffled up. There was a panther there. I named it Micah.

I went up. Then I ambled right. Again I trekked right. There was a beautiful red orange hibiscu there. It smelled like peaches.

I toddled right. Again I toddled right. Then I went down. Then I shambled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trekked up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered down. Then I traipsed left. Then I paraded down. Then I ran right. Then I hiked down. There was a beautiful gold lilac there. It smelled like star fruit.

I walked down. Then I toddled right. Then I ambled up. Again I strutted up. Then I toddled right. Then I meandered down. There was a beautiful carnation pink gladiolu there. It smelled like cranberries. For some reason I ate it. It tasted like chicken.

I stepped right. Again I sauntered right. Then I hiked up. There was a deer there. I named it Daisy.

I strutted up. Then I went left. Then I trudged up. There was a beautiful almond buttercup there. It smelled like apricots.

I sprinted up. Again I toddled up. Then I plodded left. Again I sprinted left. Then I trudged down. Then I trudged left. Again I traipsed left. Again I beat cheeks left. Then I toddled up. Then I strutted right. Again I meandered right. Then I paraded up. There was a beautiful magenta zinnium there. It smelled like cherries.

I meandered up. Then I toddled right. Again I hiked right. There was a parakeet there. I named it Miranda.

I went down. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I ambled up. Then I stepped right. Then I trekked down. Again I paraded down. Then I sprinted right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I toddled down. Then I toddled right. Again I strode right. Again I ambled right. Then I beat cheeks up. There was a beautiful blue violet bergamot there. It smelled like coconuts.

I hiked left. There was a beautiful shocking pink sage there. It smelled like clementines. For some reason I ate it. It tasted delicious.

I ambled up. Again I shambled up. Again I hoofed it up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I went left. Then I sauntered up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I walked left. Again I sauntered left. Then I hiked up. Then I paraded right. Again I plodded right. Again I went right. There was a beautiful granny smith apple columbine there. It smelled like quinces. I picked it and added it to the rest of my bouquet.

I shambled right. Again I marched right. Then I hoofed it down. Then I went left. Then I paraded down. Then I beat cheeks right. Again I ambled right. There was a beautiful cotton candy petunium there. It smelled like gooseberries.

I beat cheeks down. Then I shambled left. Then I shambled down. Then I ran right. Then I toddled down. Again I ran down. Again I toddled down. There was a beautiful mahogany bird of paradise there. It smelled like cherimoyas.

I shuffled down. Then I trudged left. Then I walked up. Then I toddled left. Again I marched left. There was a walrus there. I named it Mckenzie.

I shambled left. Then I ambled down. There was a ferret there. I named it Audrey.

I stepped down. Again I sprinted down. Then I paraded left. There was a crow there. I named it Giselle.

I toddled left. Again I marched left. Then I marched down. Again I walked down. Then I sprinted left. Then I plodded up. Then I walked left. Then I paraded down. Again I strode down. Again I ran down. Again I went down. Again I sauntered down. Then I ran left. There was an ibex there. I named it Xavier.

I plodded up. Again I trudged up. There was a beautiful midnight blue thistle there. It smelled like dragonfruits.

I trekked left. There was a ferret there. I named it Jasmin.

I marched left. Then I toddled up. Again I beat cheeks up. Then I trudged left. Again I ambled left. There was a sheep there. I named it Robert.

I trudged left. Then I sauntered down. Again I strutted down. Then I shuffled left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded down. Then I walked right. Then I strode up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I traipsed down. Then I stepped right. Then I hoofed it down. Again I traipsed down. Then I toddled right. Then I paraded down. Again I sauntered down. Then I sprinted left. Then I marched up. Then I traipsed left. Again I marched left. Then I strutted down. Then I hiked right. Then I plodded down. There was a beautiful beaver columbine there. It smelled like blackberries.

I stepped left. Again I ambled left. Then I toddled up. Again I paraded up. Again I trekked up. Then I stepped left. There was a beautiful magenta heather there. It smelled like peaches.

I meandered up. Again I trudged up. Again I meandered up. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I trudged right. Then I shuffled up. Again I paraded up. Then I strutted right. Then I went up. Then I went left. There was a beautiful violet chrysanthemum there. It smelled like star fruit.

I sprinted up. Then I hoofed it left. Again I sprinted left. Again I paraded left. Again I beat cheeks left. Again I stepped left. Again I traipsed left. Then I marched down. Again I strode down. Then I sauntered right. Then I sauntered down. Then I beat cheeks right. There was a lion there. I named it Jared.

I shambled up. Again I traipsed up. Then I hoofed it left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I plodded right. Then I strode down. Again I meandered down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I shuffled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I walked down. There was a polar bear there. I named it Aaron.

I ambled down. Then I shambled left. Then I hiked down. Then I sauntered right. Then I ran down. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I strode left. Then I traipsed up. Again I ran up. There was a woodchuck there. I named it Katelyn.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I ran right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I meandered left. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I paraded down. Again I sprinted down. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I paraded down. Again I went down. Then I sprinted left. Then I went down. Again I trekked down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I ambled right. Then I ran down. Then I hiked left. Again I went left. Then I trudged down. Again I hiked down. Then I strode right. Then I shuffled down. Again I ran down. Then I stepped left. Then I trudged up. Then I toddled left. Then I walked down. Then I toddled left. Then I shuffled up. Again I marched up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I paraded up. There was a puma there. I named it Sebastian.

Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched down. Again I trekked down. Then I shambled left. Then I ambled up. Again I ran up. Again I toddled up. There was a beautiful razzle dazzle rose camellia there. It smelled like pears.

I hoofed it up. Again I sauntered up. Then I beat cheeks right. Then I traipsed down. Then I went right. Then I shuffled down. Then I toddled right. Then I toddled up. Again I traipsed up. Then I ambled left. Then I sauntered up. Then I beat cheeks left. Then I shuffled up. Again I paraded up. Again I trekked up. There was a beautiful screamin' green dahlia there. It smelled like durians.

I ambled up. Again I shuffled up. Then I trudged left. Then I sauntered up. Again I went up. Then I ambled right. Then I strode up. There was a fish there. I named it Maya.

I went up. Then I ambled right. Then I hit a dead-end. I was feeling lost so I retraced my steps.

I marched up. Then I meandered right. Again I ambled right. Then I trudged down. Again I beat cheeks down. Then I strutted left. Then I toddled down. Then I shambled right. Again I sauntered right. Again I strode right. Again I shuffled right. Again I plodded right. Then I plodded up. Then I plodded right. Then I beat cheeks down. Then I meandered right. Again I meandered right. Then I traipsed down. There was a beautiful neon carrot lotus flower there. It smelled like blackberries.

I plodded down. Again I shambled down. Then I strutted down a flight of stairs. So far twenty-seven animals were following me, and I held thirty-four flowers.

AFTERWORD

I finally made my way through every floor and out into the sunlight. Below is a list of some of the things I cataloged inside this massive place.

I was followed by: Victoria the mustang, Gregory the squirrel, Henry the raccoon, Tanner the wombat, Alexis the weasel, Sergio the otter, Breanna the muskrat, Cody the jackal, Marissa the alpaca, Ella the hedgehog, Patrick the kangaroo, Trinity the gopher, Kimberly the bear, Brandon the finch, Reagan the iguana, Karen the porcupine, Kaleb the turtle, Lucy the coyote, Aaron the polar bear, Chloe the warthog, Sadie the boar, Chelsea the bull, Brooke the toad, Ava the cheetah, Tyler the buffalo, Nicole the shrew, and Mark the lemur.

I left with a beautiful bouquet of flowers that contained: a plum hyacinth, a gray columbine, a wild blue yonder bergamot, a banana mania peach blossom, a periwinkle snapdragon, a wild blue yonder rose, an asparagus orange blossom, a blue gerbera daisy, a fern begonium, a mauvelous columbine, a wisteria jasmine, a desert sand bottlebrush, a mountain meadow peony, a brick red thistle, a tan amaranth, a sea green crocu, a goldenrod forget me not, a lavender lilac, a navy blue hyacinth, a vivid tangerine amaranth, a vivid violet bird of paradise, a cornflower rose, a goldenrod rhododendron, a silver forget me not, a sunset orange sunflower, a silver orchid, a neon carrot gladiolu, a lavender ladys slipper, a spring green orange blossom, a fuchsia daffodil, a black ladys slipper, a cornflower violet, an unmellow yellow babys breath, and a granny smith apple columbine.

THE END